This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Office Indian Affairs, February 25, 1839.

SIR: I have the honor to submit a report on the resolutions of the Senate of January 23, calling for information respecting the persons employed under the Cherokee treaty of December, 1835, the species of funds furnished to carry its provisions into effect, and the improvements valued.

The accompanying copies of papers received at this office are believed to contain all the information in its possession, respecting all the points of inquiry, except two: First, the aggregate amount paid each individual employed; which, as some of the accounts have not been rendered, cannot now be ascertained. Second, whether the premiums received on exchanges have been accounted for; which cannot be stated, for the same reason.

I have caused some portions of the correspondence relative to these exchanges to be copied, although not called for by the resolution, as they go to explain their causes and character.

Very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

T. HARTLEY CRAWFORD.

Hon. J. R. POINSETT, Secretary of War.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Office Indian Affairs, July 25, 1836.

SIR: The selection and general supervision of the agents to be employed in appraising improvements under the treaty with the Cherokee Indians of December 29, 1835, having been committed to you, I proceed to state some principles for their observance in the execution of this duty.

You will divide the country ceded by the first article of the treaty into convenient districts, and assign to each a sufficient number of agents for the prompt completion of this business. You will report to this office the names and residences of these agents, and indicate the district in which each is to be employed.

The improvements to be valued are such as were in the possession of the Cherokees at the date of the treaty, and as add any value to their lands. The agents will be required to take an oath to act with perfect impartiality, and they will be specially instructed to receive all the statements and estimates of the Indians, and to examine, personally, every thing pointed out to them. And in determining the value of the improvements, they will be influenced neither by a desire to be generous on the one hand nor parsimonious on the other.

Each improvement will be appraised by two agents, and when their estimates agree, and are approved by you, they will be final. If they disagree, the decision will be referred either to yourself or to one of the commissioners appointed to examine claims, as may be most convenient. If the owner of the improvement be dissatisfied, and, in the opinion of either of you, he has just cause to be so, the whole matter will be submitted to the joint action of the commissioners. Great care will be taken to ascertain the persons entitled to each improvement, and in determining this, reference will be had to the laws of the State, and to the laws and usages of the Cherokees. Information respecting these will be obtained from the persons named in the twelfth article of the treaty. When the title to a particular place is contested, the question will be referred to the decision of the commissioners.

Each district will, if necessary, be subdivided, and two agents will act in each subdivision, who will keep but one register. Of this register three copies will be made by them, one of which will be sent to this office, and another to the acting superintendent of Indian affairs west of the Mississippi; the third to the commissioners. These registers will show, in separate columns, the name of the owner of the land, its situation, the number of acres under improvement, distinguishing the different kinds thereof, the extent of the fences, the buildings, and other improvements not herein enumerated, the value of each separate improvement, and the aggregate value of the whole. The circumstances in each case in regard to which the agents disagree, or the holder may be dissatisfied, or the title may be disputed, will be briefly stated, with the grounds of the ultimate decision. The registers will be signed by the agents, and countersigned by yourself.

The appraising agents in each district or subdivision will give public notice of the times and places at which they will commence this business, and they will then proceed to its execution with as much despatch as may be consistent with correctness and the rights of the parties. If the owners are present, they will value the improvements successively, passing from the first to the adjoining one, and by this mode greater regularity will be insured, and the owner of each improvement will know when it is to be valued.

The treaty provides that the ferries shall be valued according to their net income. The agents will receive upon this point the statements of the owners, and of others who, from their business or residence in the vicinity, may have means of knowing the income, and decide upon a fair consideration of the whole matter. If they cannot agree, it will be referred to the commissioners.

The claims of Cherokees who may have been dispossessed of their improvements and houses, provided for in the 16th article of the treaty, have been referred to the commissioners, and they will furnish you with a list of such as they may admit. They have been authorized to call upon you for the services of the appraising agents, if required, to ascertain the extent of losses and damages. Ferries, for this purpose, will be considered as improvements.

As the appraisement in each district is completed, you will cause a new register, in triplicate, to be prepared from it, showing only the name of the owner of each improvement, and the aggregate amount due to him. This you will deliver to the commissioners, with the register of the appraising agents. The commissioners will then enter upon it the amount of the claims they have allowed, and deliver it to the disbursing officer, with such instructions in regard to the times, places, and manner of paying for improvements, debts, or claims, as they shall think proper. Similar entries of the debts will be made upon the other two copies of the registers. If the debts exceed in amount the valuation of the improvement, and of any individual claim against the nation, they will be paid pro rata.

The compensation of the agents will be four dollars a day, and of the interpreters, of which a sufficient number will be appointed by you, two dollars and fifty cents a day, for every day of actual service, to be paid upon your certificates. A reasonable sum will also be allowed for necessary incidental expenses, upon the rendition of the usual vouchers.

You will communicate and co-operate freely with the commissioners upon all subjects connected with the execution of your duties, and you will, from time to time, make full reports of your proceedings.

Very, &c.,

C. A. HARRIS, Commissioner.

To Major B. F. CURREY, Calhoun, Tennessee.

P. S.—I enclose copies of instructions to the commissioners, and to General Wool, and of a letter to the former of the 16th instant.

Extract from the instructions to the Cherokee commissioners, dated July 25, 1836.

I transmit a copy of the treaty, and of the instructions to Major Currey for the appraisement of the improvements, from which you will perceive that certain duties may devolve upon you; and to these I have to request your attention, especially to the instructions to the disbursing officer for the payments for improvements, debts, or claims. If circumstances permit at the time, it is intended that the payments shall be made under your immediate supervision.

ATHENS, TENNESSEE, June 6, 1837.

SIR: I have the honor to inform you that, on the 13th of May, I received from Richard Bennett a draft on the branch of the Planters' Bank of Tennessee, at Athens, for $200,000, to be disbursed under the Cherokee treaty of 1835; which draft has been returned to me protested, under the following circumstances:

The commissioners deeming it expedient to have $100,000 delivered at New Echota, before the funds there on hand should be exhausted, requested that, as my personal services at New Echota would not readily be dispensed with, Dr. Reynolds should take my draft, proceed to Athens, and procure for the present wants of the disbursing agent $100,000, twenty-five thousand to be in specie, and seventy-five thousand in notes of the Planters' Bank, payable at Nashville. The draft was accordingly presented by Dr. Reynolds, at the bank, with the instructions of the commissioners with regard to the kinds of money wanted; when the cashier refused to pay any other money than notes of the Planters' Bank, payable at New Orleans.

Upon receiving this refusal, Dr. Reynolds had the draft formally protested, and returned it to me at New Echota.

It was omitted to be stated in the body of the protest, that the notes offered were those payable at New Orleans. This being considered necessary by the commissioners and myself, who were the endorsers of the draft, I called upon the notary public who drew up the protest, to have this inserted. He returned it to me, stating that the cashier declined any further answer.

When requested to state this fact, the notary was suddenly struck with the recollection that something else had been said, and refused a certificate as to his first assertion. I have for several days been exerting myself to procure, through him, an answer from the bank, in answer to the simple question as to where the notes offered to Dr. Reynolds were payable, and to have it inserted in the protest. The notary exhibiting so much evasiveness, I thought proper to call on the cashier myself this morning, and inquire if he had any objection to give an answer of some kind. The cashier received me politely, and replied he had no objection; and after I left him wrote me a note, a copy of which I transmit herewith. Before writing to you, and after receiving this note, I thought proper to see the notary again, who had left me some hours previous, to ask the simple question before mentioned. He informed me that he had been to the bank and could obtain no satisfactory answer. I told him at once, sternly, that he and the bank were trifling with me, and that I must and would have an answer, or expose their whole conduct. This had the desired effect, and in ten minutes I obtained the certificate of the notary, which is herewith transmitted. What could be the object of the bank in evading this question is more than I can divine, but that they have done so is very evident; and the notary himself said to me that a gentleman of the law, who is pretty well understood to be the bank adviser, had advised him that it was not necessary to trouble himself further with the protest.

You will readily perceive from the protest, a copy of which is herewith transmitted, that it was almost tantamount to no protest; for the notes therein asserted to have been offered as payable on demand are not described, and for all we can learn from that document, may be payable at Athens, New Orleans, or London. It is, no doubt, the fault of the notary that this was not inserted in this first instance; and it seems to me an extraordinary proceeding that the bank should evade, upon a second application of an officer of the Government, to state the whole truth concerning the matter.

When the commissioners were advised of the facts, they instructed me, as my funds were exhausted, to procure from Lieutenant Bennett a draft for one-half of the two hundred thousand dollars, which he has been advised was subject to his order, and placed in the branch of the Planters' Bank of Tennessee, at this place, payable at Augusta. I was further instructed that, upon procuring this draft, I would proceed to Augusta, and ask of that bank $25,000 in specie, and $75,000 in their own notes. On my arrival at this place, I find that the warrant for this money has not yet reached the bank.

A few days since I presented the commissioners the order from the Adjutant General's office, recently transmitted to me through your office, and requested to know in what manner I was to be governed. I received, on the following day, a written answer, a copy of which is transmitted.

I have the honor to be your most obedient servant,

J. P. SIMONTON,
Capt. U. S. A., Dis. Agent.

C. A. HARRIS, Esq.,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

OFFICE OF PLANTERS' BANK, TENN.,
Athens, June 6, 1837.

DEAR SIR: For your satisfaction, and for the information of the department, I beg leave to say, in explanation of the protest of Major Bennett's check in your favor, for $200,000, that, in the conversation between Doct.

Reynolds, who presented it, and myself, and in my communication to him before the protest, I stated that I did not think I ought to issue any paper except payable at New Orleans. I was induced to believe so from the general suspension in the eastern cities, and the great revulsion in the money market of our whole country. But he refused to receive any of that kind; and as this refusal was not contemplated by the bank, inasmuch as Judge Kennedy had made a personal request to the president of this office, in April last, for $75,000 of the aforesaid sum, in the notes payable at New Orleans, nothing more was said as to when the balance would be payable; but this would have been managed as satisfactorily as possible, if Doctor Reynolds had been authorized to receive the $75,000 agreeably to the Judge's requisition, and which we had taken special pains to have here accordingly.

We are extremely anxious to accommodate, as far as possible, at all times, and I cannot conceive that we have been otherwise in this instance.

In haste, I am, very respectfully, your friend and most obedient servant,

WILLIAM CLARKE, Cashier.

Captain J. P. SIMONTON.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
State of Tennessee, McMinn county, } ss:

Be it known, that on the day of the date hereof, I, Samuel H. Gordon, notary public for the county of McMinn, in the State of Tennessee, duly commissioned and sworn according to law, residing in the town of Athens, in said State, at the request of J. C. Reynolds, exhibited to William Clarke, cashier of the office of said bank at Athens, the original check whereof a true copy is on the other side written, and demanded payment thereof from said cashier, at said office, it being the place where said check was made payable, and I was answered by said cashier, that "he is willing to pay said check, when properly endorsed, in the notes of the Planters' Bank of Tennessee, payable in specie, on demand; which he believes is the kind of money contemplated by Government in the contract with the Planters' Bank, should be issued in payment of Treasury warrants, and that the Planters' Bank notes are always redeemed with specie when presented."

Whereupon I, the said notary, at the request aforesaid, have, and do hereby, solemnly protest against the drawer of the said check and endorsers, and all concerned, for all exchange, re-exchange, costs, damages, interests, suffered and to be suffered for want of payment thereof.

This done and protested at Athens aforesaid, this 27th day of May, 1837.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my nota-[L. S.] rial seal, this day and year above written.

SAMUEL H. GORDON, Notary Public.

$200,000. NEW ECHOTA, GEORGIA,
May 13, 1837.

Cashier of the branch of the Planters' Bank of Tennessee, at Athens, pay to the order of Captain J. P. Simonton, disbursing agent, two hundred thousand dollars.

RICHARD BENNETT.
Disbursing Agent, &c.

Endorsed Wilson Lumpkin, John Kennedy, United States Commissioners; J. P. Simonton, Captain U. S. A. D. A. C. R.

ATHENS, June 6, 1837.

I, Samuel H. Gordon, notary public for the county of McMinn, in the State of Tennessee, do hereby certify that, on this day, I was requested by Captain J. P. Simonton to call upon the cashier of the branch at Athens of the Planters' Bank of the State of Tennessee, and to request of said cashier to state in what bank paper he was willing or offered to pay the check presented by Doctor Reynolds, which check was for two hundred thousand dollars. Said cashier said he was willing to pay $75,000 in notes of the Planters' Bank payable in New Orleans, and the balance depending where the Doctor might want it.

Given under my hand, this 6th of June, 1837.

SAMUEL H. GORDON, Notary Public.

COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE,
New Echota, May 29, 1837.

SIR: Being apprised that you have been notified that you might consider yourself relieved from duty here, as soon as you have performed the duties in which you are now engaged in the Indian Department, we deem it expedient to state to you, that the duties in which you are now engaged, as disbursing agent under the Cherokee treaty of 1835, will necessarily require the constant services of a disbursing agent to the end of the present year, or longer. We take pleasure in adding, that if consistent with the public interest, it would afford us personal gratification to have your services at this station continued.

We are, very respectfully, your obedient servants,

WILSON LUMPKIN,
JOHN KENNEDY,
Commissioners.

Captain J. P. SIMONTON,
Disbursing Agent, &c.

Extract of a letter from Messrs. W. Lumpkin and John Kennedy, commissioners, &c., to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, dated July 3, 1837.

"As to the kind of funds which would be received at this time here, in discharge of claims under the treaty, it is proper to remark that every recipient would prefer specie, because it is worth more than the paper of any bank which has suspended specie payments; yet all recipients who expect or intend to use their funds in Georgia, would take the bills of the Augusta Bank, rather than lie out of their money.

"The recipients who wish to use their money in the State of Tennessee, will be satisfied with nothing but specie, and would not take the bills of the Tennessee Bank at all in payment of their demands against the Government. Our only object in giving you this retrospective sketch, is to afford the means of correcting the evils of which we complain, hereafter."

Extracts of a letter from Captain J. P. Simonton to the Commission of Indian Affairs, dated Athens, Ga., August 10, 1837.

"I have the honor to inform you that since my last to you, in June, have been endeavoring to procure the funds deposited in the Bank of A gusta, Georgia, for the purpose of carrying out the Cherokee treaty. I ha finally procured $200,000, and am now on my way to New Echot Ten thousand dollars was all that was offered in specie, ten thousand United States bills, and the balance in the bills of the Bank of Augus After consulting with Commissioner Lumpkin, it was thought best to co ply with these terms, as the demand for money by the holders of certi cates has been very urgent.

* * * * * * * * *

"My instructions from the commissioners in the first place was to dema $50,000 in specie, which the bank considered unreasonable, in the extren It was not until after several days' negotiation that I was able to effect t present arrrangement. It is the best, I believe, under existing circu stances, that could be made. The credit of the Bank of Augusta stan high in the country, and I think there will be little difficulty in disposing the amount of their bills which I have drawn to the numerous certific holders among the whites. It is, however, of great importance that so speedy arrangement should be made to procure specie for the Indian re pients."

* * * * * * * * *

Extracts of a letter from Messrs. Wilson Lumpkin and John Kennedy the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, dated September 8, 1837.

"Since we obtained the funds from the Augusta bank and the Treasu drafts, we have had but little difficulty in meeting the requisite paymer under the treaty. It is true, however, that almost every recipient wou prefer specie—confidence in paper not having yet been restored—and b cause specie can still be sold for a premium; we hope, however, to exp rience but little difficulty hereafter upon the subject of funds.

* * * * * * * * *

"No arrangement has yet been made with the Tennessee Bank, nor c there be any at present, upon the terms proposed by the bank, viz: from to 10 per cent. in specie, and the balance in its own bills. Public con dence in the bills of the bank is not such as to reconcile any of the re pients, under the treaty, to the reception of these bills in the payment their dues from the Government."

NEW ECHOTA, GEORGIA, September 27, 1837.

SIR: Yours of the 29th and 30th of August have been received. relation to what is said in that of the 29th, I have to state as follows:

In the month of August I received from the Treasurer of the Unit States $200,000, in drafts on sundry banks and receivers of public mone in the South, to be disbursed under the act of Congress of July 2, 1836, carrying into effect the Cherokee treaty.

Of these drafts there are on hand to the amount of $25,000; the balance have been disposed of, some to the recipients of money under the treaty, and others have been exchanged at par for available funds.

Within a few days after the receipt of the drafts I disposed of several thousand dollars of them to recipients, chiefly merchants and business men, and some of the principal men among the Cherokees, who understood their value. It was, however, soon discovered that the great mass of recipients among the whites did not understand them, and it was out of the question to attempt to pass them to the illiterate Indians. About the same time suddenly sprung up among the Cherokees a spirit of enrolling for emigration, and the greater number of persons enrolling became recipients of small sums which the drafts would not answer to pay.

You are aware how important it is to keep up this spirit of emigration at this period, and every one who knows any thing of the Indian character and the present condition of affairs in the Cherokee nation is aware that this spirit would have been very much depressed, and probably extinguished altogether, without proper means to keep it up. The ordinary currency of the country the Indians have been taught to believe is worth nothing to them west of the Mississippi; it was therefore necessary to seek for such as enjoyed their confidence, and leave no room for complaint.

It was then deemed expedient, under the circumstances, to exchange the drafts for such funds as would be made available in carrying out the views of the Government.

Accordingly, $76,900 were exchanged at par with the Insurance Bank of Columbus, Georgia, for the purpose of obtaining $10,000 in specie for the immediate use of the emigrants. $25,000 have been disposed of according to an agreement (a copy of which is herewith transmitted) between Wm. Hardin, president of the Western Bank of Georgia, A. Miller, one of its agents, and myself. This step was not taken without consulting the commissioners, and it was their opinion that the object to be obtained justified the course.

The Western Bank of Georgia is a specie paying bank, and is entitled to great confidence. A few thousand, say about $10,000, have been disposed of, at par, to different individuals, for specie and current notes of the country.

This is a brief history of the disposition of the drafts which I have received from the Treasurer.

The idea of exchanging drafts at a premium never occurred to me. As a disbursing officer, I had taken it for granted that they were to be disposed of to recipients of public money where it was convenient, and when it was authorized, and the public convenience required exchanges. I presumed the Government of the United States only asked dollar for dollar.

Proceeding upon this principle, I have made all exchanges at par, and have made no exchanges where I did not suppose the money received would be used to a greater advantage for the public service than the drafts themselves.

The funds received from the Insurance Bank of Columbus have thus far answered all the purposes of specie, and the Indians seem universally to have confidence in them. Without them I scarcely know how the public business here would have progressed. $10,000 were promptly furnished in specie by the Western Bank of Georgia, under the arrangement with Messrs. Hardin and Miller.

This supply was most positively demanded, as the small supply of specie obtained at Augusta was completely exhausted; and it was necessary to make some show of specie to gratify the emigrants and silence complaint.

I have the honor to be your most obedient servant,

J. P. SIMONTON,
Capt. U. S. Army, and Disbursing Agent.

C. A. HARRIS, Esq.,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

NEW ECHOTA, Georgia, September 16, 1837.

For and in consideration of the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, in Treasury drafts of the United States, this day received by us from Captain J. P. Simonton, of the United States army, disbursing agent, &c., we, William Hardin and Andrew Miller, do hereby agree and bind ourselves, our heirs, &c., to pay and deliver to said Simonton, or his order, whenever hereafter applied for, at the banking house of the Western Bank of the State of Georgia, in the town of Rome, ten thousand dollars in current specie coin; and on or before the expiration of sixty days from this date, we promise, as aforesaid, to pay to the said Simonton the further sum of fifteen thousand dollars, in the bills of the Bank of Augusta, the Bank of the State of Georgia, or of the Western Bank of the State of Georgia. And for the purpose of affording the said Hardin and Miller a reasonable opportunity of converting said drafts into funds to suit their convenience, and to prevent their sustaining loss upon said drafts, the said Simonton hereby covenants and agrees to pay the reasonable expense which may be incurred in sending an agent to the cities of Augusta, Savannah, and Charleston, and of transporting the sum of ten thousand dollars from any one of the cities named to the town of Rome, in the county of Floyd, Georgia. But the said Simonton has no agency in the employment of the agent, or responsibility for funds confided to the care of said agent. Furthermore, it is agreed and understood, and the said Simonton hereby binds himself to the said Hardin and Miller, that if at any time within sixty days from this date they, or either of them, shall return and deliver to him the drafts which they have this day received from him, he will then and in that case return to them the amount of specie, and in like coins as he shall have received from them, and that the whole of this agreement shall be cancelled, in all its parts, and the parties restored to the same condition as if this agreement had never been entered into, the contemplated expenses excepted.

In witness whereof, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals, the day and date first within written.

WILLIAM HARDIN, [L. S.]
President Western Bank of Georgia.
A. MILLER, [L. S.]
Agent to Bank of Georgia.
J. P. SIMONTON, [L. S.]
Captain U. S. Army and Disbursing Agt.

CHEROKEE AGENCY, Tennessee, April 9, 1838.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit, herewith enclosed, the protested draft of R. Bennett on the Branch of the Planters' Bank of Tennessee, at Athens, for $200,000.

With regard to this draft, I have to say, that I have made use of every endeavor on my part to dispose of it satisfactorily. The present state of the currency, and the desires of the Cherokees, make it necessary, at this time, to ask for specie or Treasury notes. The funds offered by the bank, with the exception of the specie, cannot be made available.

I have been surprised by that part of President Watson's letter in which he states that he has been informed, by intelligent persons residing near the Cherokees, that they believe notes of the Planters' Bank and of the State Bank of Alabama would be acceptable to the Cherokees. I challenge any intelligent man who has ever witnessed the payments made in my office since the suspension of specie payments, to point out an instance of the kind, when other funds could be had. Tennessee and Alabama money has been paid from necessity, but received with great reluctance.

The scurrilous article which has been going the rounds of the newspapers, accusing the commissioners of receiving from the Government good funds and paying off the Cherokees in depreciated funds, may serve to show whether it would be policy to deal in these funds. Tennessee and Alabama money is at this very time being paid out here by public officers in the military department at eight per cent. discount. These funds have been furnished these disbursing officers at eight per cent. discount, and the recipients have their option whether to take it or wait until the Government can furnish better funds. The recipients, with them, are white men, residents of the country, and if they do not choose to wait, can make use of their money in the country. The Cherokees are about to remove; the great mass of them understand nothing of the value of paper money; would it then be worth while to attempt to offer Tennessee or Alabama funds at par as acceptable to the Cherokees?

I am informed, from a highly respectable source, that the State bonds offered cannot, at this time, be made available in specie or Treasury notes.

Since Treasury notes have been issued, the Cherokees refuse to take anything else than Treasury notes or specie. It is of no use to offer anything else, so long as we have it. I have a few hundred dollars of Georgia money and Tennessee paper yet on hand, and it is with difficulty that I can pay twenty dollars of it in the payment of sums of one, two, three, or four hundred dollars. This will serve to show the estimation in which Georgia money is held.

I would observe that the recipients of money now are nearly all Cherokees, the whites having nearly all been paid during the past summer and winter.

I have, &c.,
J. P. SIMONTON,
Capt. U. S. Army, Disbursing Agent.

C. A. HARRIS, Esq., Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

CHEROKEE AGENCY, Tennessee, April 18, 1838.

SIR: I have the honor to inform you that, since I transmitted the protested draft of R. Bennett, I have had an interview with the president of the Planters' Bank of Tennessee, on the subject of said draft. Being aware of the great anxiety of the Government to dispose of this business, I have agreed to the following arrangement with the president, believing that it would be perfectly satisfactory to the department.

The Planters' Bank furnish me with $50,000 in specie now. Paymaster Bennett will take $100,000 of the amount of the draft, in notes of the Planters' Bank, to be furnished him at eight per cent. discount; which notes he will disburse to the troops in the same manner he receives them, provided they are willing to take them. For any amount paymaster Bennett may disburse in this manner, he is to furnish me with such funds as the Government may send him. The remaining $50,000 is to be furnished me hereafter in available funds, (specie if I require it,) whenever I may ask for them.

This arrangement, I think, will rid the department of any further trouble about this matter. I have not the least doubt, that the troops will be glad to receive the Planters' Bank notes at the rate proposed, and the money that Paymaster Bennett will receive will answer me. If Paymaster Bennett's funds will not answer me, they, of course, must answer the purpose of the Government in some department; and I have taken the present course with a view to make this debt due the Government available in some shape. This step makes available to me, immediately, $50,000; and I am assured that $50,000 more shall be at my disposal whenever I may call for it. I cannot, at any rate, see how the Government can lose by the transaction, and it may be very much accommodated.

I would therefore request that no action be taken on the protested draft of R. Bennett by the Treasury Department, but that it be sent back to me for the purpose of carrying out the views herein contained.

In consequence of this arrangement, it will be unnecessary, for the present, to make any arrangement for furnishing the $50,000 in specie, asked for by the commissioners in their letter of the 28th of February last.

The Treasury notes called for are very much needed. If Treasury notes cannot be furnished immediately, I would desire that I may be authorized to draw for a further amount, payable in current funds in Philadelphia. The high rate of exchange has made these drafts available, and they are now readily exchanged for specie.

I have the honor, &c.,

J. P. SIMONTON,

Captain U. S. Army, Disbursing Agent.

C. A. HARRIS, Esq., Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

Extract of a letter from J. Cruttenden, Esq., to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, dated April 23, 1838.

"I have also Tennessee funds, which the bank has made an arrangement to allow us to disburse at eight per cent. discount, which will enable me to make payments satisfactorily with those funds for almost all payments, except to Cherokee emigrants."

Extract of a letter from Captain John Page to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, dated Calhoun, Tennessee, June 6, 1838.

* * * * * * * * *

"Captain Simonton has got on hand, in silver, $16,000, which he says cannot be spared for emigrating the Indians. He also has $3,000 in Tennessee money, at 8 per cent. This arrangement was made with the bank, and what he did not use he was to return back again.

"Since this arrangement, the bank has made arrangements with the Quartermaster Lieutenant Hetzel, to let him have it at 10 per cent., and he pays it out in that way; consequently, Captain Simonton, and also the commissioners, say they cannot use any more of the Tennessee money, as 10 per cent. discount will be required of them, or people will not receive it. As he cannot spare any silver, Tennessee money will not answer out of the State."

Extract of a letter from John Kennedy and James Liddell, Cherokee commissioners, to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, dated July 30, 1838.

* * * * * * * * *

"On the subject of funds, it is proper to inform you that, in consequence of the disbursing agents (attached to other departments at this place) falling short of funds, we advised Captain Simonton, on the reception of our last requisition of $100,000 in Treasury notes, to aid the service by loaning a portion of his funds to them, supposing that they would soon be supplied with the same description of funds, and be enabled to repay Captain Simonton in time to meet the demands upon his department. These officers, it appears, have since received their expected supply, but as it consists in eastern and southern drafts, it is wholly unavailable in the disbursements to Indians."

* * * * * * * * *

Extracts of a letter from Captain J. P. Simonton to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, dated August 3, 1838.

"I have to state to you that about $100,000, reported on hand, is a portion of the $200,000 which was to be collected from the branch of the Planters' Bank, at Athens, Tennessee. I must report this sum as unavailable, although it is probable I may get from them a few thousand dollars in available funds. But the bank has so shamefully forfeited their engagements with me, that I can place no further confidence in them.

"My letter to you of the 18th April last, informed you that I was to receive $50,000 in specie immediately, and $50,000 more when I should call for it. It was perfectly understood, in the presence of the commissioners, that the last $50,000 should, at any period asked for, be furnished.

"The first $50,000 were promptly furnished, but my second call has been answered with but $2,000 in specie and $12,200 in Treasury notes.

"The call for specie now is very great, and having no other resource, I have obtained from Mr. Cruttenden Treasury drafts drawn on the receiver of public moneys at Kaskaskia and Shawneetown, to the amount of $19,000. General Scott, at my request, has granted me the service of an officer to go for these funds, and Lieutenant Grandin, of the 4th infantry, leaves to-day for Kaskaskia."

* * * * * * * * *

"Paymaster Bennett has as yet received no other funds than drafts on New York and New Orleans, neither of which are very current here at present, as exchange at this season of the year is not much wanted, and the Indians will not have them. I cannot, therefore, expect to make available the amount of Tennessee money which he has disbursed in the Paymaster's Department."

Extract of a letter from Major General Winfield Scott to the Secretary of War, dated Cherokee Agency, August 10, 1838.

* * * * * * * * *

"Active preparations are going on for recommencing the emigration with vigor. I am afraid, however, that the disbursing officers (Captains Page and Simonton) may soon experience much embarrassment from the want of funds, in a convenient form, for use. They lent Treasury notes to the paymasters, with my sanction, for settling with the discharged militia, expecting to repay the amount in money of the same kind, on the arrival of promised remittances; but when these came, they were found to consist of large drafts on banks in New York and New Orleans; and the banks and merchants, within many hundred miles around us, are unable or unwilling to give specie or Treasury notes in exchange for drafts of fifty thousand dollars each."

IN SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

February 28, 1839.

Submitted, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. Benton submitted the following motion for consideration:

Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to cause to be laid before the Senate, at the commencement of the next session of Congress, reports upon the military and naval defences of the country, showing—

First. The fortifications, or other permanent defences, commenced, completed, projected, or deemed necessary—1. For the northern frontier, from Lake Superior to Passamaquoddy bay. 2. For the maritime frontier, from Passamaquoddy bay to Cape Florida. 3. The Gulf frontier, from Cape Florida to the Sabine bay. 4. The Western frontier, from the Sabine bay to Lake Superior, with a conjectural estimate of the probable expense of constructing or completing such works as may not yet have been completed or commenced.

Second. The state of the armament of the fortifications, so far as the same may be completed or commenced, with a conjectural estimate of the expense of completing the armament of all the forts which may be commenced, or deemed necessary to be constructed.

Third. The armories, arsenals, magazines, and foundries, either constructed or deemed necessary, with a conjectural estimate of the expense of constructing such of said establishments as may not yet be completed or commenced, but which may be deemed necessary.

Fourth. The floating, or steam batteries, or vessels which have been constructed in aid of fortifications, or may be deemed necessary to be constructed in aid of such works, with a conjectural estimate of the expense which the same may require.

Fifth. The ships of war built, or under construction, or deemed necessary to be built, with a conjectural estimate of the expense of building and arming the vessels not yet completed or commenced, or which may be deemed necessary within a reasonable time.

Sixth. The navy yards, docks, and naval establishments of every kind, either constructed or commenced, or deemed necessary, with the probable expense of completing the same.

With any other information or suggestions which the President may deem necessary to be communicated to Congress, in order to exhibit a full view of what is necessary to be done, and the probable cost thereof, to place the United States in a proper state of defence, by land and water, and on each of the four great lines of defence which her frontiers present.

MESSAGE

THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,

RECOMMENDING

The return of the names and ages of pensioners, in the next general census.

March 1, 1839.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

To the Senate of the United States:

I transmit, herewith, a communication from the Secretary of War, respecting the importance of requiring the officers, who may be employed to take the next general census, to make a return of the names and ages of pensioners; and, for the reasons given by the Secretary of War, I recommend the subject for your favorable consideration.

M. VAN BUREN.

Washington, February 28, 1839.

War Department, February 28, 1839.

Sir: I beg leave to lay before you a communication from the Commissioner of Pensions relative to the importance of requiring the officers who may, by law, be charged with the duty of taking general census, to ascertain and return, on their lists, the names and ages of all persons receiving pensions from the United States. Such a measure would be important, not only for the particular reasons assigned by the commissioner, but also as being of high interest to the statistics of the country; and I therefore respectfully recommend that the subject be brought before Congress for its consideration, when the bill for taking the next census, which has been introduced in the House of Representatives, and committed to a Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, shall be taken up to be acted upon.

Very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

J. R. POINSETT.

To the President of the United States.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Pension Office, February 21, 1839.

SIR: It is, in my opinion, very important that there should be introduced into the bill now pending before the House of Representatives for taking the sixth census of the inhabitants of the United States, a clause requiring the marshals and their assistants, in making inquiry at every dwelling-house for the number and ages of the persons residing therein, to ascertain and return on their lists the names and ages of all persons who are receiving pensions from the United States. I have not the least doubt that individuals into whose hands the pension certificates of deceased pensioners have fallen, have continued to draw the pensions after the death of the pensioners, by personating them and taking the oath of identity required by the regulations. But supposing that fraudulent cases of this description do not exist, it seems to be desirable that the department should be possessed of accurate information as to the actual number of pensioners now living. We have on our books the names of many persons who have not been paid for years past, and whether they are still living we are unable to ascertain. This mode of discovering the names of all who yet survive seems to me to be well calculated to purge the pension rolls; and as it can be done without incurring any expense, and by persons who would be most likely to make accurate returns, I can see no objection to the course suggested. I have deemed it my duty to bring the subject to your notice, and I have no doubt that you will concur in the view I have taken of the matter.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. L. EDWARDS,
Commissioner of Pensions.

HON. J. R. POINSETT,
Secretary of War.

MEMORIAL

PIERCE AND PATRICK SHANNON,

PRAYING

To be allowed to import the materials for an iron steamboat free of duty.

MARCH 1, 1839.

Laid on the table, and ordered to be printed.

To the honorable the Senate and the House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled:

The memorial of Pierce Shannon and Patrick Shanhon, of New Orleans,

RESPECTFULLY SHOWS:

That your memorialists are desirous of making an experiment on the river Mississippi, and its tributaries, yet untried, as they believe, on said streams, to wit: the construction and use of an iron steamboat. Your memorialists believe, from the success that has attended this mode of construction in England, that results highly important to one of our most interesting branches of commerce, the commerce of the west by the Mississippi and its tributaries, might be effected by the adoption of this style of naval architecture. It is believed that iron steamboats combine the essential advantages of buoyancy, of increased speed, of durability, and of an economy of the propelling power. Your memorialists have been induced to believe that the liberality of Congress will be extended to them, to aid them in the practical development of this experiment upon the waters of the west; and the art of constructing such boats being little understood in this country, and your memorialists being desirous of importing the prepared materials from Europe, to be put together here, they humbly pray that, the public importance of the project being considered, they may by special enactment be authorized to import said materials from Great Britain, free of duty.

PATRICK SHANNON.

MEMORIAL AND RESOLUTIONS

OF

THE LEGISLATURE OF MISSISSIPPI,

PRAYING

The establishment of mail routes.

MARCH 1, 1839.

Laid on the table, and ordered to be printed.

A memorial to the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

Your memorialists would most respectfully represent to your honorable body the necessity of an immediate establishment of a main mail route, which would provide for carrying the mail weekly in coaches or mail wagons directly from Jackson, the seat of Government of the State of Mississippi, to Columbus, Lowndes county, Mississippi, via Brandon, in Rankin county, thence to Hillsborough, in Scott, thence to Dickson and Philadelphia, in Neshoba, thence to Winstonville, in Winston, thence to Mashulaville and Macon, in Noxubee, and so on to Columbus.

Whereas, additional mail facilities are required by the increased population and commercial business of the eastern counties of Pearl river, the present arrangement being altogether insufficient to answer the convenience and exigencies of the country—

Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Mississippi, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to use their exertions to effect the object of the foregoing memorial.

Resolved, That the Governor be, and is hereby, requested to forward a copy of the above memorial and resolution to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

IN SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

MARCH 1, 1839.

Ordered, That 50,000 copies of the report made at the last session of Congress by the Committee on Foreign Relations, in relation to the northeastern boundary of the United States, and unanimously adopted by the Senate on the 4th day of July, 1838, be printed for the use of the Senate.

IN SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

JULY 4, 1838.

Submitted, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. BUCHANAN submitted the following

REPORT:

The Committee on Foreign Relations, to which was referred the "bill to provide for surveying the northeastern boundary line of the United States, according to the provisions of the treaty of peace of seventeen hundred and eighty-three," have had the same under consideration, and now report:

That the first section of this bill directs "the President of the United States to cause the boundary line between the United States and the adjacent British provinces, from the source of the St. Croix river directly north to the highlands which divide the waters that fall into the Atlantic ocean from those which fall into the river St. Lawrence, thence along said highlands from the northwest angle of Nova Scotia to the northwesternmost head of Connecticut river, as particularly defined in the treaty of peace concluded at Paris the third day of September, 1783, to be accurately surveyed and marked, and suitable monuments to be erected thereon, at such points as may be deemed necessary and important."

The second section provides for the appointment of a commissioner and surveyor by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, "who may employ such assistants, under the direction of the President, as shall be necessary, and who shall make an exact return of their proceedings to the President, with a correct map of the country over which said line passes, exhibiting the prominent points of its topography and the location of the marks and monuments by them made and erected."

The third and last section merely provides for the compensation of the commissioner and surveyor.

This bill, then, proposes that Congress shall create a commission, independently of Great Britain, to run and mark the northeastern boundary of the United States, conterminous with that of New Brunswick and Canada, provinces of the British empire. It asks no previous consent from Great Britain; it does not require that Great Britain should become a party to the survey; and yet that country has a common interest with the United States in the correct establishment of this boundary, according to the treaty. It would be premature and inexpedient, the committee believe, to resort to appear, from the highest intrinsic evidence, were before the commis-s at the time they formed the treaty. It is true that this point had been fixed by actual survey, nor had it been marked by the erection monument; but that it could be found upon the ground at the in-ion of two clearly defined lines was a mathematical truth, susceptible demonstration. This northwest angle of Nova Scotia, which was ous, although the very spot had not been ascertained, was fixed upon place of beginning of our boundary, in order to prevent all future es; and yet, strange as it may appear, this is the very point now ted by the British Government. Whether with any good reason, it e the task of the committee to inquire.

agreed by both parties that the map, called Mitchell's map, a copy of is annexed to this report, was the one used by the commissioners at rmation of the treaty. It was published in 1755, and bears upon its n official stamp; having been undertaken with the approbation and at quest of the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations. Who-may inspect this map will, at once, perceive the natural formation at region. The river St. Lawrence runs from the southwest towards northeast; whilst numerous tributaries rising in the highlands to uth of it, and, passing north through its valley, empty themselves he main stream. These tributaries are all necessarily short; because ighlands from which they flow run at no great distance from the and in a parallel direction to it, throughout its whole course. From highlands, on the south, proceed the head waters of the Connecticut, ndroscoggin, the Kennebec, the Penobscot, the St. John, and the ouche, all flowing into the Atlantic ocean, through different bays.
here it may be observed, that there is not a single stream, which rises e south side of these highlands, throughout this whole region, which not first empty itself into some Atlantic bay; not one of them directly into the main ocean. Such is the natural formation: High-running in a parallel direction with the St. Lawrence, and ng the streams which fall into that river on the north, from such a course of separate action towards a neighboring and friendly power, between which and the United States there is a reciprocal desire to maintain the most friendly relations, until every other means of amicably adjusting the dispute shall be exhausted. Before the committee could recommend the adoption of such a measure to the Senate, they ought to be satisfied, beyond a reasonable doubt, first, that the United States have a clear title to the disputed territory which would be embraced within their limits by the proposed survey; and, secondly, that no other and more friendly expedient remains untried of bringing this long pending controversy to a conclusion.

The committee will, therefore, proceed to consider the question under this two-fold aspect. And, first, in regard to our title.

This title depends altogether upon the correct construction of the definitive treaty of peace between the United States and his Britannic Majesty, concluded at Paris on the third day of September, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-three.

By the first article of this treaty, "His Britannic Majesty acknowledges the said United States, viz: New Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia, to be free, sovereign, and independent States; that he treats with them as such; and for himself, his heirs, and successors, relinquishes all claims to the Government, propriety, and territorial rights of the same, and every part thereof."

The United States had declared their independence almost seven years previous to the date of the treaty. They had maintained this declaration before the world, and the treaty is not only a solemn recognition of that independence by Great Britain, but an express acknowledgment that she treated with them as free, sovereign, and independent States. We were equals treating with an equal. Great Britain was not a superior assigning territory to an inferior. No superiority was claimed on the one side, or would have been acknowledged on the other. Great Britain then claimed no such prerogative as she now asserts, of assigning an appropriate boundary to the United States, as a new power, formerly under her dominion. The treaty must, therefore, be construed as a solemn agreement entered into by one sovereign and independent nation with another, equally sovereign and independent.

It was not necessary expressly to have prescribed the limits of the United States by the treaty. At its date, the boundaries of each of the thirteen States were well known. The first article acknowledged each of them to be sovereign and independent, and relinquished "all claim on the part of the British King to the Government, propriety, and territorial rights of the same, and every part thereof;" and this would have been sufficient.

The commissioners who framed the treaty were, however, not content with such a general recognition. Its second article proves their desire to prescribe the limits of our boundary in a manner so precise and specific, as forever to prevent all disputes upon the subject. This second article is as follows:

ART. 2. "And that all disputes which might arise in future, on the subject of the boundaries of the said United States, may be prevented, it is hereby agreed and declared, that the following are, and shall be, their boundaries, viz: from the northwest angle of Nova Scotia, viz: that angle which is formed by a line drawn due north from the source of St. Croix river to the highlands; along the said highlands which divide those rivers that empty themselves into the river St. Lawrence from those which fall into the Atlantic ocean, to the northwesternmost head of Connecticut river," &c. It is unnecessary, here, to repeat any more of the treaty description.

In every delineation of territory, the all-important point is to fix the place of beginning with the greatest possible precision and certainty. To prevent all dispute thereafter, this was done by the commissioners. "The northwest angle of Nova Scotia" was a well known point. This can be clearly established by the most authentic official documents, which, it will conclusively appear, from the highest intrinsic evidence, were before the commissioners at the time they formed the treaty. It is true that this point had never been fixed by actual survey, nor had it been marked by the erection of any monument; but that it could be found upon the ground at the intersection of two clearly defined lines was a mathematical truth, susceptible of demonstration. This northwest angle of Nova Scotia, which was notorious, although the very spot had not been ascertained, was fixed upon as the place of beginning of our boundary, in order to prevent all future disputes; and yet, strange as it may appear, this is the very point now contested by the British Government. Whether with any good reason, it will be the task of the committee to inquire.

It is agreed by both parties that the map, called Mitchell's map, a copy of which is annexed to this report, was the one used by the commissioners at the formation of the treaty. It was published in 1755, and bears upon its face an official stamp; having been undertaken with the approbation and at the request of the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations. Whoever may inspect this map will, at once, perceive the natural formation of that region. The river St. Lawrence runs from the southwest towards the northeast; whilst numerous tributaries rising in the highlands to the south of it, and, passing north through its valley, empty themselves into the main stream. These tributaries are all necessarily short; because the highlands from which they flow run at no great distance from the river, and in a parallel direction to it, throughout its whole course. From these highlands, on the south, proceed the head waters of the Connecticut, the Androscoggin, the Kennebec, the Penobscot, the St. John, and the Ristigouche, all flowing into the Atlantic ocean, through different bays. And here it may be observed, that there is not a single stream, which rises on the south side of these highlands, throughout this whole region, which does not first empty itself into some Atlantic bay; not one of them flows directly into the main ocean. Such is the natural formation: Highlands running in a parallel direction with the St. Lawrence, and dividing the streams which fall into that river on the north, from those which seek the Atlantic ocean in the south. In 1755, when Mitchell's map was published, the British possessions in North America did not extend north of the St. Lawrence. At that period, it will appear from the map that the northwest angle of Nova Scotia was to be found on the St. Lawrence, at the point intersected by the line running due north from the source of the St. Croix. This north line is distinctly marked upon the map. On the west of it, the words "New England" are printed in large letters, and on the east "Nova Scotia."

If this map were, alone, to be the guide, and if the place of beginning of our boundary, mentioned in the treaty, had been simply "the northwest angle of Nova Scotia," without further qualification, the State of Maine would have extended to the St. Lawrence. In what manner was this north-

The following language is employed, to wit: "bounded on the south by a line from the Bay of Chaleurs, along the highlands which divide the rivers that empty themselves into the river St. Lawrence, from those which fall into the sea, to a point in forty-five degrees of northern latitude on the eastern bank of the river Connecticut." In both the proclamation and the act of Parliament, the dividing highlands are described in the very same language: "The highlands which divide the rivers that empty themselves into the river St. Lawrence from those which fall into the sea." The termini of this boundary are more precisely fixed by the act of Parliament than by the proclamation. This act makes the southern point of the line commence on the eastern bank of the river Connecticut, in latitude forty-five, and terminate at the Bay of Chaleurs. Its extremities are two well known natural objects. This bay is in latitude about forty-eight. The act of Parliament seems to have been prepared with great deliberation. It was intended to fix the boundaries between vast provinces of the same empire; and no act of legislation demands greater care and attention. The Bay of Chaleurs on the north, in latitude forty-eight, and a point on the Connecticut, in latitude forty five at the south, were to be the two extremities; and the intermediate line was to pass along the highlands running between these two points, which divide the rivers that empty themselves into the St. Lawrence on the one side, from those falling into the sea upon the other. After this act of Parliament, is it possible to conceive of a more extraordinary pretension, than it would have been in the Government of Quebec to have claimed jurisdiction, not only to these dividing highlands whence streams flow into the St. Lawrence, but a hundred miles south and east of them, embracing a region of country watered by a large river, the St. John, and its numerous tributaries flowing into the sea? Such a claim would have broken down the barriers between these provinces, erected with so much care by the act of Parliament, and made rivers running north into the St. Lawrence, mean the same thing as rivers running south into the ocean. And yet the present attempt of the British Government to make Mars hill the northwest angle of Nova Scotia rests upon no other or better principle, as will be shown hereafter.

The commissions of the different Governors of Quebec, in describing the boundaries of their jurisdiction, followed the language of the proclamation of 1763, until after the passage of the act of Parliament in 1774. The first commission which subsequently issued was to Guy Carlton, Esq., in the same year, and it adopts the language of that act. The southern limits of his jurisdiction are described in its language "to be a line from the Bay of Chaleurs, along the highlands which divide the rivers that empty themselves into the river St. Lawrence from those which fall into the sea, to a point in forty-five degrees of northern latitude, on the eastern bank of the river Connecticut." Thus this province had for its southern boundary highlands dividing streams running in opposite directions between a bay, and a fixed point on a river. Was ever boundary better defined?

It would be a waste of time to recite the numerous commissions which have issued to the Governors of Quebec, of Nova Scotia, and, after this province was divided, in 1784, of New Brunswick; all speaking the some language. The western limit of Nova Scotia, and afterwards of New Brunswick, is uniformly described to run from that point where a line drawn due north from the source of the river St. Croix would intersect the southern boundary of Quebec, and from thence "to the northward by the said boundary as far as the western extremity of the Bay des Chaleurs." These commissions place the natural construction upon one expression, which, in the act of Parliament, at first view, might appear vague. In it the Bay of Chaleurs is mentioned generally, without a special reference to any particular part of it, though from the whole context the evident meaning was, the western extremity of that bay. The commissions to the Governors of Nova Scotia, and afterwards New Brunswick, render this certain, by specifying "the western extremity of the Bay des Chaleurs."

Enough has already been shown to fix with precision what was the acknowledged southern boundary of the province of Quebec at the date of the treaty in 1783, and what it has remained ever since. It was then clearly known to have been a line from the western extremity of the Bay of Chaleurs, to a point on the eastern bank of the Connecticut, in latitude forty-five, and running along the highlands dividing the tributaries of the St. Lawrence, from the sources of streams flowing into the sea. Where, then, was the northwest angle of Nova Scotia known to be at the date of the treaty?

Without going back to the creation of this province, in 1621, by James the First, which the committee deem unnecessary, though it would add strength to the argument, they will content themselves with a reference to the first commission which was issued to the Governor of Nova Scotia, after the date of the proclamation of 1763. Before the proclamation, this province, as well as New England, had extended north to the St. Lawrence. After its date, it was necessary to make the commissions of the Governors correspond with the extension of the province of Quebec south of that river. Accordingly, the royal commission to Montague Wilmot, Esq., bearing date the 21st November, 1763, limits and restrains the province of Nova Scotia, thus: "To the northward our said province shall be bounded by the southern boundary of our province of Quebec as far as the western extremity of the Bay des Chaleurs;" and again, to the westward "it shall be bounded by a line drawn from Cape Sable, across the entrance of the Bay of Fundy, to the mouth of the river St. Croix, by the said river to its source, and by a line drawn due north from thence to the southern boundary of our colony of Quebec." The next commission, which issued to Lord William Campbell, on the 11th August, 1765, changes this description only by commencing with the western instead of the northern line, thus: "On the westward by a line drawn from Cape Sable across the entrance of the Bay of Fundy, to the mouth of the river St. Croix, by the said river to its source, and by a line drawn due north from thence to the southern boundary of our colony of Quebec, to the northward by the said boundary as far as the western extremity of the Bay des Chaleurs. In every commission which has issued since to all the Governors of Nova Scotia, and afterwards of New Brunswick, the same identical language has been used. On the 29th day of July, 1782, but four months previous to the conclusion of the provisional treaty of peace with Great Britain, the commission granted to Governor Parr describes the limits of Nova Scotia in precisely the same manner. And here it may be proper to observe, that the St. Croix has since been ascertained by a joint commission of the two Governments, and a monument has been erected at its source.

Were not, then, the commissioners who framed the treaty fully justified in the conviction, that when they established the point of beginning of the boundaries between the United States and Great Britain, at "the northwest angle of Nova Scotia," they were fixing it at a point long known and well established? To render assurance doubly certain, however, they describe where it is, in the very language which had been uniformly used by the British Government in proclamations, in acts of Parliament, and in numerous commissions to the Governors of Quebec and Nova Scotia. "The northwest angle of Nova Scotia," says the treaty, "is that angle which is formed by a line drawn due north from the source of St. Croix river to the highlands." To what highlands? The treaty answers, "the highlands which divide those rivers that empty themselves into the river St. Lawrence, from those which fall into the Atlantic ocean." The northwest angle of Nova Scotia, then, is to be found in these highlands, at the point where the dividing due north line between New England and Nova Scotia, which commences at the source of the St. Croix, meets the southern boundary of the province of Quebec. The act of Parliament of 1774 was doubtless before the commissioners. They use its very language in the treaty: "Along the highlands which divide the rivers that empty themselves into the river St. Lawrence from those which fall into the sea." The only change of this language in the treaty is, that "the Atlantic ocean" is substituted for "the sea." Both are evidently intended to convey the same meaning. The solicitude of the commissioners to preserve this highland boundary throughout between the two nations is manifest. Under the act of Parliament, the southern extremity of this line is described to be "a point in forty-five degrees of northern latitude, on the eastern bank of the river Connecticut." In the treaty it is "the northwesternmost head of Connecticut river." From thence the treaty line runs "down along the middle of that river, to the forty-fifth degree of north latitude."

Thus the British Government surrendered that small portion of the province of Quebec between the northwesternmost head of Connecticut river and the forty-fifth degree of north latitude, in order to have a continuous highland boundary, from the northwest angle of Nova Scotia to the source of the northwesternmost head of the Connecticut. To accomplish this object, a part of what had been taken from New England, when the province of Quebec was established in 1763, has been restored by the treaty. The great purpose was, that the entire line should consist of the highlands, "which," in the language of the treaty and the act of Parliament, "divide those rivers that empty themselves into the river St. Lawrence, from those which fall into the sea" or "the Atlantic ocean."

The committee will now proceed to show what was the construction placed upon this treaty fifteen years after its ratification, by solemn official declarations of high and responsible agents of the British Government.

To render it more manifest that these declarations are wholly inconsistent with the present claim of Great Britain, it will be necessary first to show precisely the extent of that claim. It comprehends all that portion of the State of Maine which lies north of the red line marked upon the map No. 2, annexed to this report, and embraces about one-third of its whole territory. This red line leaves the due north line from the source of the St. Croix, at the distance of forty miles from the monument there erected, and one hundred miles south of the northwest angle of Nova Scotia, marked A; and thence passes to the westward, not along highlands which divide the rivers that empty themselves into the St. Lawrence from those which fall into the Atlantic ocean, according to the terms of the treaty, but along highlands dividing the rivers which flow into the St. John from those which fall into the Atlantic. These highlands are far south of the St. John; and if the British claim could be established, the whole of that river, from its source to its mouth, with all its branches, would be within British territory. Now, if it can be demonstrated that agents of high character, acting under the express authority of the British Government, several years after the date of the treaty, have expressly admitted, in their official arguments and correspondence, that this north line from the source of the St. Croix, not only crosses the St. John, but runs as far north as the streams emptying into the Bay of Chaleurs, what ought to be thought of this recent pretension?

A short time after the conclusion of the treaty a question arose between the two Governments what river was intended by the St. Croix of the treaty. In order to determine this question, commissioners were appointed under the fifth article of the treaty of November, 1794, commonly called Jay's treaty. Ward Chipman, Esq., the agent of the British Government, contended that the true source of the St. Croix was at the head of the Scoudiac lakes, at the point marked W on the second map. In his argument in 1797, to establish this position, and to defeat the position taken by the United States, he expressly admits that "this north line [from the source of the St. Croix to the treaty highlands] must of necessity cross the river St. John." Admitting this fact, his leading purpose seems to have been to remove this line as far west as he could, so that it might cross the St. John at as great a distance from its mouth as possible, and thus embrace as much of its course as was attainable within British territory. In prosecuting his argument, he says, "but if a north line is traced from the source of the Cheputnatecook, (as insisted upon by the United States,) it will not only cross the river St. John, within about fifty miles from Fredericton, the metropolis of New Brunswick, but will cut off the sources of the rivers which fall into the Bay of Chaleurs, if not of many others, probably the Miramichi among them, which fall in the Gulf of St. Lawrence." Thus it appears that, in 1797, the British Government had never thought of contending that the highlands of the treaty were to be found south of the St. John, or even south of the sources of the streams which empty into the Bay of Chaleurs.

Robert Liston, Esq., at the time of these proceedings, was his Britannic Majesty's minister to the United States. He was consulted by Mr. Chipman on the propriety of acceding to a proposition made to him by the agent of the United States. This proposition need not be stated. Mr. Liston, in his reply, dated at Providence, on the 23d October, 1798, advises Mr. Chipman to accede to the proposition, because "it would give an addition of territory to the province of New Brunswick, together with a greater extent of navigation on St. John river." The British Government now claim the whole river, and all its tributaries, from its source to its mouth.

The committee might here enumerate, if they deemed it necessary, the numerous maps of this region which were published in England, between the proclamation of 1763 and the treaty of 1783, and subsequently until after the treaty of Ghent in 1814, embracing a period of more than half a century; in all of which, without a single exception known to the committee, the western line of the province of Nova Scotia, afterwards New Brunswick, crosses the river St. John, and the northwestern angle of Nova Scotia is placed north of that river.

Previous to the treaty of Ghent, the British Government had become convinced of the great importance of having a direct communication, within their own territory, between their provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and the city of Quebec. It will be seen from an inspection of the map No. 2, that the territory of the State of Maine, now in dispute, intercepts this communication. It was one object of the British commissioners at Ghent, to obtain a cession of this territory. They did indeed make a faint and feeble suggestion that our title was doubtful; but this was not seriously urged. As the occasion was solemn and the object one of great importance, can any person suppose that if they had even entertained doubts where "the northwest angle of Nova Scotia" was to be found, they would not then have earnestly insisted on the pretension which they now so seriously maintain? From the date of the treaty of 1783, until the conferences at Ghent in 1814, during a period of more than thirty years, our title was unquestioned, as it still remains unquestionable.

In a protocol of August 8, 1814, the British commissioners stated the following as one among other subjects, upon which, it appeared to them, that the discussions between themselves and the American commissioners would be likely to turn: "A revision of the boundary line between the British and American territories, with a view to prevent future uncertainty and dispute."

In a note of the British to the American commissioners of the same date, they specify more particularly what they mean by this general proposition; and in conclusion state, "If this can be adjusted, there will then remain for discussion the arrangement of the northwestern boundary between Lake Superior and the Mississippi; the free navigation of that river; and such a variation of the line of frontier as may secure a direct communication between Quebec and Halifax."

It will be perceived that they do not propose to ascertain and fix a line previously agreed upon, by the treaty of 1783, but to vary that line in such a manner as to secure a direct communication between Quebec and Halifax. This was in substance a proposition to obtain a cession of territory, and was so considered by the American commissioners. Accordingly, on the 24th August, 1814, they replied, that "they had no authority to cede any part of the territory of the United States; and to no stipulation to that effect will they subscribe."

On the 4th September, 1814, the British commissioners observe, that they are unable to reconcile this declaration with the statement previously made by the American commissioners, "that they were instructed to treat for the revision of their boundary lines," "although the proposal left it open to them [the American commissioners] to demand an equivalent for such cession either in frontier or otherwise."

They then proceed to insinuate the first doubt in regard to our title, in the following language: "The American plenipotentiaries must be aware that the boundary of the district of Maine has never been correctly ascertained; that the one asserted at present, by the American Government, by which the direct communication between Halifax and Quebec becomes interrupted, was not in contemplation of the British plenipotentiaries, who concluded the treaty of 1783; and that the greater part of the territory in question is actually unoccupied.

"The undersigned are persuaded that an arrangement on this point might be easily made, if entered into with the spirit of conciliation, without any prejudice to the interests of the district in question."

This note contains the first intimation ever made by Great Britain of any doubt as to the title of the United States to the disputed territory. The British commissioners first endeavor to obtain it by cession; and, failing in this attempt, they intimate, rather than assert, a claim to it.

This faint pretension was promptly repelled by the American commissioners in their note of September 9, 1814; and it is due to them that the committee should present their views in their own language.

"With regard to the cession of a part of the District of Maine, as to which the British plenipotentiaries are unable to reconcile the objections made by the undersigned with their previous declaration, they have the honor to observe that at the conference of the 8th ult. the British plenipotentiaries stated as one of the subjects suitable for discussion, a revision of the boundary line between the British and American territories, with a view to prevent uncertainty and dispute; and that it was on the point thus stated, that the undersigned declared that they were provided with instructions from their Government; a declaration which did not imply that they were instructed to make any cession of territory in any quarter, or to agree to a revision of the line, or to any exchange of territory where no uncertainty or dispute existed. The undersigned perceive no uncertainty or matter of doubt in the treaty of 1783, with respect to that part of the boundary of the District of Maine which would be affected by the proposal of Great Britain on that subject. They never have understood that the British plenipotentiaries, who signed that treaty, had contemplated a boundary different from that fixed by the treaty, and which requires nothing more in order to be definitely ascertained, than to be surveyed in conformity with its provisions. This subject not having been a matter of uncertainty or dispute, the undersigned are not instructed upon it; and they can have no authority to cede any part of the State of Massachusetts, even for what the British Government might consider a fair equivalent."

Three subsequent notes, one from the British commissioners, dated 19th September, 1814, an answer from the American commissioners of the 26th September, and a reply from the British commissioners dated 8th October, seem to have contained all the subsequent correspondence on this subject. In this last note, they declare that "the British Government never required that all that portion of the State of Massachusetts intervening between the province of New Brunswick and Quebec, should be ceded to Great Britain; but only that small portion of unsettled country which interrupts the communication between Quebec and Halifax, there being much doubt whether it does not already belong to Great Britain." Thus it appears that in 1814, Great Britain would gladly have accepted a small portion of the disputed territory by cession, and granted an equivalent therefor, either in frontier or otherwise; and yet, strange as it may seem, her claim has since grown to such a magnitude that she now demands the whole by right, under the treaty of 1783.

Our commissioners at Ghent, having successfully resisted every attempt for the dismemberment of Maine, agreed upon an article with the British commissioners, not to revise or to change the ancient treaty boundary, but to run and establish upon the ground that very boundary, without any alteration, and to ascertain "the northwest angle of Nova Scotia," its place of beginning. This article is the fifth in the treaty. Under it, each party appointed a commissioner. These commissioners disagreed. According to the treaty the question was then referred to the King of the Netherlands, as umpire, whose award was rejected by the United States, because it did not even profess to decide the controversy, according to the terms of the submission, but proposed a compromise, by a division of the disputed territory between the parties. Great Britain has also since announced her abandonment of this award; and now, at the end of more than half a century after the conclusion of the treaty of 1783, the question not only remains unsettled, but threatens to involve the two nations in a dangerous dispute.

The committee will now proceed to state the principles on which Great Britain rests her claim to the disputed territory, and to give them such an answer as in their judgment they merit. She contends, in the first place, that the northwest angle of Nova Scotia, mentioned in the treaty, is to be found at Mars hill, in the line due north from the monument at the source of the St. Croix, and forty miles distant from it; and that the highlands of the treaty are those running to the westward from that point, and dividing the sources of the streams flowing north into the St. John, and south into the Penobscot. A reference to map No. 2 will clearly show the extent of this claim.

Great Britain contends, in the second place, that, if this be not the true treaty line, it is impossible to find it; that then, the description of the treaty would become void for uncertainty; and that no mode remains of terminating the controversy, but by abandoning the treaty altogether, and agreeing upon a conventional line.

The committee trust that a sufficient answer has already been given to this last proposition. They have endeavored, and they believe successfully, to prove that the northwest angle of Nova Scotia was a well-known point, capable of being easily ascertained, ever since the proclamation of 1763, by simply running a due north line from the source of the St. Croix, to intersect the southern line of the province of Quebec, which consists of the highlands running from the western extremity of the Bay of Chaleurs to the head of Connecticut river, and dividing those rivers that empty themselves into the river St. Lawrence, from those which fall into the Atlantic ocean. It is certain as the laws of nature, that these highlands, from which we know that streams do flow in opposite directions, can be found on the face of the country.

In support of the first proposition, the Government of Great Britain contends that, as the eastern boundary of the United States runs "by a line to be drawn along the middle of the river St. Croix, from its mouth in the Bay of Fundy, to its source;" and as the St. John, though nowhere mentioned in the treaty, has its mouth also in the Bay of Fundy, that, therefore, the St. John is not a river which falls into the Atlantic ocean, according to the description of the treaty. They assert, therefore, that, in looking for the highlands of the treaty, you must search for highlands south of the St. John. This brings them far south to Mars hill; and from thence, westwardly, along the highlands, marked in map No. 2, to the western boundary of the State of Maine, where they first reach the highlands which, as they contend, "divide those rivers that empty themselves into the river St. Lawrence, from those which fall into the Atlantic ocean." The whole argument of the British Government, it will be perceived, rests upon the assumption that the St. John is not a river falling into the Atlantic ocean, because it has its mouth in the Bay of Fundy.

Now, what are the objections to this extraordinary pretension, as the committee are constrained to call it?

And, first, what is the Bay of Fundy, if it be not a part of the Atlantic ocean? A bay is a mere opening of the main ocean into the land—a mere interruption of the uniformity of the seacoast by an indentation of water. These portions of the ocean have received the name of bays, solely to distinguish them from the remainder of the vast deep, to which they belong. Would it not be the merest special pleading to contend that the Bay of Naples was not a portion of the Mediterranean, or that the Bay of Biscay was not a part of the Atlantic ocean?

Again: the description of the treaty is, "rivers which fall into the Atlantic ocean." Can it be said, with any propriety, that a river does not fall into the Atlantic, because, in reaching the main ocean, it may pass through a bay? And yet this is the British argument. The Delaware does not fall into the Atlantic, because it flows into it through the Bay of Delaware; and, for the same reason, the St. John does not fall into the Atlantic, because it flows into it through the Bay of Fundy. The committee know not how to give a serious answer to such an argument. The bare statement of it is its best refutation.

But, like all such arguments, its proves too much. If it be correct, this portion of the treaty of 1783 is rendered absurd and suicidal; and the wise and distinguished statesmen, by whom it was framed, must be condemned by posterity, for affixing their names to an instrument, in this particular, at least, absolutely void. Although they believed they would prevent "all disputes which might arise, in future, on the subject of the boundaries of the United States," by fixing their commencement at "the northwest angle of Nova Scotia," and running from thence along "the highlands which divide those rivers which empty themselves into the river St. Lawrence, from those which fall into the Atlantic ocean," yet it is absolutely certain, that there was not a single river in that whole region of country which, according to the British construction, did fall into the Atlantic ocean. They all fall into bays, without one exception. Neither can we plead ignorance as an excuse for these commissioners; because it is fully in proof, that they had Mitchell's map before them, from which the fact clearly appears. The Ristigouche does not fall into the Atlantic, because it has its mouth in the Bay of Chaleurs; nor does the Penobscot, because its mouth is in the Bay of Penobscot; nor do the Kennebeck and Androscoggin, because, after their junction, they fall into the Bay of Sagadahock. The same is true, even of the Connecticut, because it empties itself into Long Island sound. All the rivers in that region are in the same condition with the St. John. Thus it appears, if the British argument be well founded, that the commissioners have concluded a treaty, and described highlands, whence streams proceed falling into the Atlantic, as a portion of the boundary of the United States, when, from the very face of the map before them, it is apparent no such streams exist.

There is another objection to the British claim, which is conclusive. Wherever the highlands of the treaty exist, they must be highlands from which on the north side streams proceed falling into the St. Lawrence. This portion of the description is as essential as that from their south side streams should issue falling into the Atlantic. Now the British claim abandons the former part of the description altogether. Their line of highlands commencing at Mars hill is at least a hundred miles south of the highlands whence the tributaries of the St. Lawrence flow. Between these highlands and those claimed by the British Government the broad valley of the St. John spreads itself, watered by the river of that name, and the streams which empty into it from the north and from the south. The two points on the western line of New Brunswick are distant from each other more than a hundred miles; and when you arrive at the British highlands, you find that they divide the sources of the St. John and the Penobscot, and not the sources of streams falling into the St. Lawrence and the Atlantic ocean, according to the description of the treaty.

But, even suppose it were possible to prove that neither the St. John nor any other river in that region falls into the Atlantic ocean, would this fact essentially benefit the British Government? If this portion of the description should entirely fail, would it render the other portion void? Certainly not. It might be said that the commissioners were mistaken as to where the streams emptied themselves which flowed from the southern side of the treaty highlands; as to the existence of these highlands, there could be no mistake. They are the boundary; and the streams flowing from them are mere matters of description. Can they be sufficiently identified, independently of this mistake? If they can, the question is settled. Now, fortunately, on this subject, no doubt can exist. Two circumstances concur to identify them, about which it is not possible there can be a mistake. According to the act of Parliament of 1774, they constitute the southern line of the province of Quebec, between the western extremity of the Bay of Chaleurs, in latitude 48, and the eastern bank of the Connecticut river, in latitude 45; and it is equally certain that from them, all along in regular succession, streams proceed falling into the St. Lawrence. A mistake in one part of a description of boundary has never been held to vitiate the whole, provided sufficient remains clearly to designate the intention of the parties.

But how is it possible ever to embrace Mars hill in the line of highlands running from the western extremity of the Bay of Chaleurs and forming the southern boundary of the province of Quebec? It is clear that in this, and in this alone, the northwestern angle of Nova Scotia is to be found. Mars hill is one hundred miles directly south of this line. You cannot, by any possibility, embrace that hill in this range; unless you can prove that a hill in latitude 46½ is part of a ridge directly north of it in latitude 48; and this, notwithstanding the whole valley of the St. John, from its southern to its northern extremity, intervenes between the two. The thing is impossible. Mars hill can never be made, by any human ingenuity, the northwest angle of Nova Scotia.

Particular emphasis has been placed by the British Government on the word "highlands," mentioned in the treaty; and comparisons have been made between the height of Mars hill and that of different parts of the highlands which divide the streams of the St. Lawrence from those of the Atlantic. Even in this they have failed; because it has been shown that the summits of the more elevated portions of the treaty highlands are considerably above that of Mars hill, the highest point on the ridge claimed by Great Britain. The committee, however, deem such a question to be wholly immaterial. When highlands are spoken of as dividing waters flowing in different directions, the meaning is plain. From the very nature of things, they must exist and slope off in opposite directions; but whether they consist of table land, of mountains, or even of swamp, still if there be a height of land, from which streams flow down in different directions, this is sufficient. It is not their elevation, but their capacity to divide, which gives them their character.

It is strange that the mere incidental mention of the Bay of Fundy in the treaty, though not at all in connexion with the St. John, which is not even named, should have been the foundation of the whole superstructure of the British argument. The reason why it was mentioned at all is obvious. It was palpably not for the purpose of creating a third class of rivers flowing into that bay, distinct from those flowing into the St. Lawrence and the Atlantic, as the British Government contend; but merely for the purpose of specifying with greater precision the commencement of the eastern boundary of the United States. Several rivers in that portion of the country had borne the name of St. Croix; from the fact that the early French navigators, actuated by motives of piety, had planted a cross at their mouth when they were first discovered. Hence it was necessary, in specifying the beginning of our eastern boundary, to state that it was in the middle of that St. Croix which had its mouth in the Bay of Fundy. Notwithstanding this description, it has been seen, that which of these rivers was the true St. Croix became a subject of dispute between the two Governments. Still both parties were prevented from claiming that any river which did not flow into that bay was the St. Croix of the treaty.

The Bay of Fundy has been twice mentioned in the treaty. After starting at the northwes angle of Nova Scotia, and from thence sweeping round the boundaries of the United States to this bay, it was necessary to fix as precisely as possible the point at which our eastern boundary commenced. This was essential for a double purpose. In the first place it was the extreme northern point from which a line was to be run due east twenty leagues into the ocean, according to the treaty; within which space the United States were entitled to all the islands along their coast, except such as were within the limits of Nova Scotia; and, in the second place, it was the point from which our eastern line was to commence, and to run to the northwest angle of Nova Scotia.

Had the commissioners omitted to fix this point with as great precision as they could, they would have been guilty of culpable neglect. Having done so, and having mentioned the Bay of Fundy as that part of the ocean in which the St. Croix has its mouth, the British Government have used it, not merely as it was intended, to mark the eastern boundary of the United States, but to render the whole treaty, so far as the northeastern boundary is concerned, absurd, uncertain, and void. Surely the commissioners never could have foreseen any such result. The language of this portion of the treaty is as follows:

"East by a line to be drawn along the middle of the river St. Croix, from its mouth in the Bay of Fundy to its source, and from its source, directly north to the aforesaid highlands, which divide the rivers that fall into the Atlantic ocean from those which fall into the river St. Lawrence, comprehending all islands within twenty leagues of any part of the shores of the United States, and lying between lines to be drawn due east from the points where the aforesaid boundaries between Nova Scotia on the one part, and East Florida on the other, shall respectively touch the Bay of Fundy and the Atlantic ocean; excepting such islands as now are or heretofore have been within the limits of the said province of Nova Scotia."

ways will be the case at no distant day, impelled by a desire of pree committee will now proceed to make a very few observations on the l question proposed for discussion, which was, does no other and more ly expedient remain untried of bringing this long pending controversy onclusion, than the passage of the bill which has been referred to by the Senate? They are most happy to be able to answer this ques-n the affirmative. Anxious as they are to cultivate, by every honor-neans in their power, the most friendly relations with Great Britain, it s them sincere pleasure, that the existing state of the negotiations be-the two countries will justify them in forbearing to recommend the ion of any measure on the subject by the Senate at its present session.

iation has not yet been exhausted. Although the committee are firmly nced that the title of the United States to the territory in dispute is and unquestionable; although they acknowledge that the State of has just reason to complain not only of the long and vexatious delay has been experienced in settling this question, but of the assumption ual jurisdiction by Great Britain over a portion of her territory, under nstances well calculated, in some instances at least, to excite her sen-y, yet, from the known justice of that power, they still entertain a con-hope that the pending negotiation may be productive of the most results. The important preliminaries of a convention between the Governments, for the purpose of exploring and surveying the disputed of the treaty boundary, have already been adjusted. In this state of uestion, it seems to them not advisable to withdraw the subject from Executive, to which it more properly belongs, and direct the boundaries surveyed, the lines to be marked, and monuments to be erected thereon, the authority of Congress. In their opinion, therefore, the bill rel to them, "to provide for surveying the northeastern boundary line

Resolved, further, That, considering that more than half a century has elapsed since the conclusion of that treaty; considering the extraordinary delay which has hitherto marked the negotiations and proceedings of the Governments of the two countries in their endeavor amicably to settle the controversy; and considering the danger of mutual irritation and collisions upon the borders of the two kindred and friendly nations, from further procrastination, the Senate cannot forbear to express an earnest desire that the pending negotiation should be brought to a close, and the final decision of the dispute made, as early as practicable.

Resolved, That as it would be inexpedient for the United States to proceed, upon their separate authority, to survey and mark the northeastern boundary, until all reasonable means of effecting that object by the consent and concurrence of both parties shall have been exhausted, the "bill to provide for surveying the northeastern boundary line of the United States, according to the provisions of the treaty of peace of seventeen-hundred and eighty-three," ought not to pass; and it is, therefore, ordered that it be laid upon the table.

War Department, March 1, 1839.

Sir: I respectfully transmit the accompanying report of the Chief Engineer in reply to the resolution of the Senate of the 25th instant, calling for information in reference to the expenditure of the appropriation for removing the sand-bar at the mouth of the Connecticut river.

Very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

J. R. POINSETT.

Hon. W. R. King,
President of the Senate pro tem.

Bureau of Topographical Engineers,
Washington, February 28, 1839.

Sir: The resolution of the Senate of the 25th of February, which has been referred to this office, directs a report upon the following matter: "Whether the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, appropriated in 1836, for removing the sand-bar at the mouth of Connecticut river, has been expended for that object, or any part thereof; and, if not, the reason why the said appropriation has not been expended agreeably to the act appropriating the same."

It has only been since the 23d of August, 1838, that the operations at the mouth of the Connecticut were transferred to this bureau. I shall, therefore, have to rely for information upon the reports and documents of another office.

The amount originally appropriated was twenty (not twenty-five) thousand dollars. In the annual report from the Engineer Department, of November, 1836, will be found the following notice of the subject:

"Saybrook harbor, Connecticut.—Twenty thousand dollars were appropriated for improving this harbor, by removing the bar at the mouth of

Blair & Rives, printers.

Connecticut river. It was found by Colonel Totten, to whose general care the work was assigned, that no plan of improvement had been made, and that a minute survey was necessary to form such a project as would give reasonable expectation of proving beneficial; which, if possible at all, would be a problem as delicate and difficult as it was important. A requisition has been made for an officer of the Topographical Engineers to make the necessary survey."

The application herein referred to was made on the 7th July, 1836, and orders were issued from this bureau to make the survey, on the 23d August. The returns were received from Captain Swift on the 9th February, 1837.

It was only, therefore, after the season of 1837 had opened, that any operations upon the obstructions to the harbor could be commenced.

On the 6th of July, 1837, the Engineer Department advised its officer, who was in the general superintendence of all operations under its control in that quarter, of the appointment of an agent for the improvement at the mouth of the Connecticut, and required him to furnish the necessary instructions. These were communicated to the agent on the 11th of July. In a letter dated October 9, 1837, the agent says: "The season having so far advanced before I received the necessary instructions and plan for the contemplated improvement of the mouth of the Connecticut, as to render it, in my judgment, impracticable to commence operations this fall, I concluded, therefore, to defer it until spring, and in the mean time to make every preparation for commencing on it as early as the weather will permit."

The work was, therefore, not commenced until after the spring of 1838. During the season of that year, four thousand two hundred and ninety dollars of the appropriation were expended.

On the 23d of last August, the superintendence of this work was transferred to this bureau.

The original estimate for this work was $54,380.

The amount appropriated in 1836 was - - -	$20,000
Amount expended in 1838 - - - - -	4,290
Leaving an unexpended balance of - - - -	15,710

In consequence of this balance, no estimate for the next year was submitted, as the balance was considered sufficient for the expenditures of that year. But, in consequence of a rule in the Treasury Department, of which this bureau was not aware, the requisition for this balance was considered as being received too late, and the amount was carried to the surplus fund. There will, therefore, be no means for continuing the work next season, unless the balance be reappropriated. The actual expenditure has exceeded the amount stated, leaving an arrearage due the agent of $45 84, which cannot be refunded to him, because of the balance of the appropriation having been carried to the surplus fund, as before stated.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. J. ABERT,
Colonel Topographical Engineers.

Hon. J. R. POINSETT,
Secretary of War.

*Special.

Special arrangements with banks for the payment or transfer of funds, which have not been regarded.

1. Bank of the Metropolis.—Upon the suspension of specie payments by the banks in May, 1837, the department made an arrangement with this bank to receive a special deposite, in specie, to meet the special drafts of the department. Subsequently the bank set up sundry claims against the department, and retained as well the special as the general deposite, to pay them, protesting the special drafts.

2. The Bank of Buffalo.—This bank protested a transfer draft for $10,000, in favor of the Manhattan Company Bank, in October, 1837; and, at the same time, wrote to the Treasurer of the United States that if drawn upon for sums of $2,000 to $5,000, they would endeavor to meet them. A transfer draft of $3,000 was accordingly drawn on them on the 1st of November, 1837, and another on the 23d of February, 1838, both of which were protested. It is understood that, in both of these cases, nothing but Safety Fund notes was demanded.

3. The Bank of Orleans, Louisiana.—In January, 1838, an arrangement was made with this bank, by an agent of the department, to transfer to New York any portion of the balance due, on short notice, in sums of $10,000 or $12,000. Transfers were drawn in favor of the Manhattan Company Bank, New York, as follows, viz:

February 3d, 1838 - - - - -	$10,000
March 21st, 1838 - - - - -	12,000
April 3d, 1838 - - - - -	10,000

Notice was given according to the arrangement; but none of the transfers were made.

RESOLUTIONS

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF INDIANA,

TO

Obtain a grant of land for the construction of a Macadamized road in that State.

March 2, 1839.
Ordered to be printed.

Whereas, There remains a large portion of public lands within the limits of Jackson, Scott, and Clark counties, which it is not probable will soon be sold, and which can only be rendered valuable by the construction of some great thoroughfare through said counties, or in their vicinity, terminating at the falls of the Ohio; and that, whereas, no section of the State seems to call more loudly for the construction of such a work, and none more susceptible of improvement; therefore,

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives be requested, to use their influence in procuring a law to be passed, granting a portion of the said lands to the State of Indiana, to be applied towards the construction of a free public highway upon the Macadamized plan, from some convenient point on the Madison and Lafayette railroad, at or near Columbus, thence through said counties to the falls of the Ohio river.

Be it further resolved, That the Governor of this State be requested to forward a copy of this memorial and joint resolution to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF INDIANA,

TO

Obtain an appropriation for the improvement of the harbor of City West.

March 2, 1839.

Laid on the table, and ordered to be printed.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled:

Your memorialists, the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, respectfully represent to your honorable body, that the interest of the people of the State, and of the commerce and navigation of the northern lakes, requires that the improvement of a harbor at City West be constructed and completed with despatch: therefore,

Be it resolved, That our Senators and Representatives in Congress be respectfully requested and instructed to use their best exertions to procure an appropriation for that purpose, commensurate with the magnitude of the interest involved, and in satisfaction of the loud calls of humanity, for the protection of human life, upon this unprotected part of the coast of Lake Michigan.

Be it further resolved, That the Governor transmit a copy of this memorial to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

RESOLUTION

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF INDIANA,

TO

Procure the survey of the Calumic river, with a view to its improvement.

March 2, 1839.
Ordered to be printed.

Whereas the navigation of Lake Michigan is rendered precarious and dangerous in the extreme for want of safe harbors, for the use of the shipping on the lake, and most especially for the want of a harbor on the southern extreme or bend of the lake, in consequence of which the southern shore of the same is literally covered with fragments of wrecks: therefore,

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, That our Senators and Representatives in Congress be requested to use their best exertions to procure a survey of the mouth of the Calumic river, in this State, with the view of its improvement by the General Government.

And that the Governor is hereby requested to forward a copy of this memorial and joint resolution to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Mr. Norvell made the following

REPORT:

The Committee on Revolutionary Claims, to whom was referred the resolution of the Senate, instructing the committee to inquire into the expediency of making compensation to the heirs of Benjamin Harvey, deceased, for revolutionary services, report:

That the evidence is insufficient to justify the committee in reporting a bill for the relief of the persons designated in the resolution. The claim of $303 for board furnished and boating done, is countenanced only by a certificate dated in 1780, unsustained by any other testimony; and with regard to the claim for bounty lands, as regards both Benjamin Harvey and Henry Harding, it has no foundation, the former having died before the close of the revolution, and the latter having employed a substitute, and not having himself served to the end of the war. The committee are confirmed in this view of the subject by a letter from the Third Auditor, which is made a part of this report; and they ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

Treasury Department,
Third Auditor's Office, March 1, 1839.

Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of this date, just presented by the messenger, enclosing papers relative to the claim of Benjamin Harvey and Henry Harding, soldiers of the revolutionary war, and asking me to examine them this day, and to say whether they are well founded, and sufficiently fortified by evidence to justify a bill for their relief, adding that they certainly are not entitled to bounty land.

In reply, I have to state, that two of the papers relate entirely to Henry Harding's land; the other is a certificate that Henry Harding procured an able bodied man as a substitute, which fact gives him no claim to compensation. The other two papers are, a certificate of Lord Butler, acting deputy quartermaster, dated March 30, 1780, setting forth that the United States are indebted to Benjamin Harvey $303 for board and boating, the admissibility of which can only be ascertained from the accounts of the Quartermaster's department at the Treasury, if not destroyed by the burning of the building; and the other paper is a certificate signed by Zeb. Butler, lieutenant colonel, dated August 31, 1791, that Benjamin Harvey, late a soldier who died in service, was entitled to all the bounty or donation of land as specified in the act of Congress, which is evidently not in acordance with the law. I therefore answer your inquiry in the negative.

The papers are returned.

Mr. Cuthbert made the following

REPORT:

The Committee on Naval Affairs, to whom was referred the petition of the heirs of Robert Fulton, report:

The Naval Committee are disposed to regard favorably the application of the petitioners, and are of opinion that they are entitled to compensation in the case stated by them; but the late period at which the petition was presented would render vain any hope that such an investigation could be made as would be necessary to determine the exact amount of compensation, or such a report digested as the Senate would have reason to expect in the case. The same late period renders the omission the less important to the petitioners, as it would be a bar to the consummation of any legislative measure. The committee, therefore, ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the petition and the accompanying papers.

Mr. Norvell made the following

REPORT:

The Committee on Commerce, to whom have been referred resolutions and memorials in favor of the construction of steam revenue cutters on the lakes and the Atlantic, beg leave to report:

That upon consideration of the subject, they are of the opinion that a steam revenue cutter of suitable size ought to be constructed at New York, or at same other port on the Atlantic coast, and another on Lake Erie, for service on that and the upper lakes. They believe that power has been given, by an existing law, to the Secretary of the Treasury to order the building of such cutters: and they have no hesitation in recommending that he exercise that authority. With this view of the expediency and importance of the measure, they ask to be discharged from its further consideration, and submit the following resolution for adoption:

Resolved, That the resolutions and memorials concerning the construction of steam revenue cutters, with a copy of this report, be referred to the Secretary of the Treasury.

DOCUMENTS

ON

The subject of apprenticing boys on merchant vessels, and the establishment of nautical schools.

March 2, 1839.

Ordered to be printed.

Dear Sir: By way of introducing the subject about which I am led to trouble you with some remarks, I hand you the report of the Boston Port Society, made last year. If your leisure will permit you to look at it, you will see what the society has actually done to improve the condition of our seamen, and the obstacles which oppose their progress. To remove these, the most important means in their estimation would be the establishment of boarding houses on proper principles, and a nautical school; the former they are now making arrangements for, which, we hope, will succeed; and of the latter they have already made an experiment, which has exceeded their most sanguine expectations. They have now had in operation, for ten months, a school, in which 100 boys are fitting themselves for sailors, and have received gratuitous instruction in the common branches of mathematics and navigation; which, at the lowest rate of instruction, would have amounted to the sum of $1,500. The whole expense of this school has been defrayed by collections made by the Reverend Mr. Taylor, at temperance lectures delivered in the country towns in our neighborhood; but this resource can hardly be depended on for any length of time; and the danger is, that this institution, which has already proved itself to be very important, may fail for want of support. When it is considered that the navy is supplied from the men who are educated and formed in the merchant service, the Government are deeply interested in all the measures by which this class of men are increased and improved; and, among these measures, we look upon a nautical school as one of the most important, and, from various considerations, claiming the support of Government.

Mr. Taylor informs me that a petition has been sent to Congress on this subject within a year or two, and that a bill was draughted the last session in conformity, but expired with other unfinished business. I understand from him, also, that he had some conversation with you on the subject at Washington last winter; and it is from this circumstance that I am led to call the matter again to your attention, for the purpose of asking you if you think the subject may be brought up again this session with any prospect of success; and, if so, whether you can suggest to us any means (by petition or otherwise) by which we may render any assistance to promote the object. Please to excuse my long letter, in which I have endeavored to enlarge on this (to me very interesting) subject no more than appeared necessary to explain the reason for asking you the above questions, to which I shall be obliged by a reply when your leisure may permit.

Truly, &c., S. CABOT.

Blair & Rives, printers.

COURT STREET SQUARE, January 30, 1839.

MY DEAR SIR: In reply to your note of yesterday, I will state that I have, as you know, for some years past, been connected with the Boston Port Society, and have had occasion to consider the condition of seamen as a class, and the best methods of remedying the evils under which they suffer. That this condition is lamentably low; that they are degraded far below the level which, considering their usefulness in peace, and their necessity in war, they ought to occupy, admits, I suppose, of no doubt. After much consideration on the subject, I am satisfied that the most effectual, in fact the only, means of raising seamen as a class, is by letting into the service a fresh element of native youths, which can only be done by making it compulsory on merchants to employ boys in proportion to the tonnage of their vessels, or according to such other ratio as the Congress may prescribe. The act of the British Parliament, in this connexion, is not unworthy of notice. I state in a report which I drew up some years since for the Port Society, and which I think you have, in detail, my views.

The only objection I have ever heard made to the measure has come from some merchants, who have argued, first, that boys eat as much as men, and can do but half their work; and, therefore, it is a hardship to make it obligatory to take them; and, secondly, that it would be impossible to carry the measure into effect, inasmuch as, 1st, it would be impossible to find boys enough; and, 2d, with a maritime coast so spread as our own, with our vessels touching so frequently at home ports on their way to foreign ones, it would be impossible, if the boys could be got on board, to keep them there.

I believe that I have stated the argument fairly.

I have never thought that there was much force in it. With regard to the first branch of it, it is a four-pence-half-penny argument, which was offered in the British Parliament, and soon put at rest. The answer was, that in a matter so important as the preservation of the national marine, individual interest must yield to the common concern, even if that interest was put to some inconvenience; and, secondly, that the interest of the merchant properly viewed, his interest bien étendue, and, in the long-run, so soon as the measure began to produce its effects, would be directly promoted by it. The difficulty with the second branch of the argument is, that it takes for granted what can only be determined by a fair trial. I see no reason to make so gratuitous an assumption.

On the whole, the question seems to me to stand thus: Shall we not put ourselves upon a footing, in this respect, with Great Britain? It appears to me to be the duty of the Government to guard its marine with an especial care. Nautical schools, in our large seaports, in connexion with this very measure of apprentices, are all important. If we wish to secure peace, we must be prepared for war. "Ready, sir? aye ready,"—this should be our motto.

Yours, very truly,

T. KEMPER DAVIS.

SAMUEL CABOT, Esq.

P. S.—I refer you, for a more detailed statement, to the report to which I have referred.

BOSTON, January 31, 1839.

DEAR SIR: Your favor of the 23d instant did not reach me until yesterday, or it would have received an earlier reply.

An answer to your inquiry whether it would be desirable to compel vessels, by law, to take apprentices, may, in part, be made by asking your attention to the last report of the Boston Port Society, which I send you herewith, with some passages marked for your reference, and a letter to me from Mr. Davis, the secretary, who drew it up.

We consider it an established fact that our vessels are, at present, navigated by a large proportion of foreign seamen; and that this proportion, compared with native citizens, is regularly on the increase.

An important check to this evil, we believe, would be produced by the enactment of a law requiring all vessels to take (according to tonnage) a certain number of apprentices. The objections made, (so far as we learn,) are, that embarrassments might arise occasionally from difficulty in procuring the requisite number; that an unwillingness would be manifested on the part of parents to indenture their children for a term of years, from the notion that it is a foreign custom, repugnant to our Republican institutions; that it would require a greater number of persons to compose a ship's company; and that, when our vessels go to southern ports to load, the apprentices would desert.

In reply to the first objection, we presume the law would give discretion to collectors to grant clearances on production of good reasons for non-compliance with the requirement of law.

The repugnance on the part of parents is a question of fact; we do not believe it would be found to exist, but that, for a time at least, a greater number would be offered than would be required.

In regard to increase of expense from the employment of a greater number, it could only apply to the early period of service, and would soon be compensated by the superior efficiency of men regularly trained in the same employ; and we see no reason to believe that the expense would, on the whole, be increased, neither do we believe in the danger of desertion; but that the contrary would be the result. It is well known that such of our vessels as take cargoes at southern ports, are constantly liable to lose their crews, being composed, as they are, of foreigners, whose home is anywhere. A trifling advance in wages is a sufficient inducement to desert; but the apprentices would be bound to the vessel and the owners by their interest, added to the provisions of law; which would prevent their being shipped in other vessels.

But we look upon this subject in its most important relations as a national concern. By the late regulations of the navy, requiring certain qualifications in the seamen admitted, it is evident that the merchant service must form the only source of supply. Is it not important, then, that every means should be taken by Government which may have a tendency to increase or improve the actual mass of American seamen?

In this connexion, I must beg leave to say a word as to the importance of abolishing the spirit ration in the navy. That a great benefit has resulted from the discontinuance of the use of ardent spirits on board our merchant vessels, is now no longer a matter of question. Shall the navy continue to suffer the manifest evils produced by the opposite course? and to oppose the only obstacle to the complete success of a measure which has been proved to be eminently beneficial? To call the attention of Congress to this matter a memorial is now preparing to be sent on; from which we hope some good result. Another subject intimately connected with our marine, and the improvement of this class of men, hitherto so much neglected, is that of nautical schools; on which matter I addressed you a letter last year, which probably did not reach you. I therefore beg leave to enclose you a copy. We may fear that Government may not be brought to yield us the assistance, without which we can do little; but a truly enlightened policy would not neglect so effectual a means of promoting so important a concern.

I have, sir, thus endeavored to answer your inquiries, so far as I have the means, as promptly and briefly as possible. Should the subject come up in such a shape as to make it desirable to obtain further details to establish our positions, we will send on the Reverend Mr. Taylor, if you should recommend it.

I am, dear sir, very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

SAMUEL CABOT,
President Boston Port Society.

To Hon. JOHN DAVIS,
U. S. Senate, Washington.

BOSTON, February 18, 1839.

SIR: Your favor of the 25th ultimo, directed to the President of the Boston Marine Society, was duly received and laid before the said society, at which time the undersigned were chosen a committee to ascertain the opinion of the ship owners of this city upon the expediency of taking apprentices in our merchant vessels engaged in foreign commerce, and to answer your letter in accordance with their and our own views upon the subject. This committee having consulted with many of our principal ship owners on this matter, have found them almost universally opposed to having any law compelling them to take one or more apprentices to ships engaged in foreign trade; and it is the opinion of said committee, should a law be made requiring merchant ships to take apprentices, it would be disapproved of by the principal part of the commercial community, and cause much trouble and inconvenience to ship owners. This committee are aware that a large portion of the seamen navigating our ships at this time are foreigners; but as long as a sufficient number of American seamen can be obtained to clear our ships according to law, no ship owners would willingly consent to be burdened with apprentice boys in their ships.

Boys, from 13 to 16 years of age, when they commence going to sea, are of very little service, and cannot do sufficient labor to pay for their board; therefore, many persons will not take them at all, if able seamen can be obtained. We are sensible of the importance of having our ships navigated chiefly by American citizens, but do not pretend to decide upon the best method of accomplishing the object. We would, however, suggest that a law might be passed requiring merchants sending ships on foreign voyages to take one or more boys from 13 to 16 years of age in each vessel, (say) ships from 200 to 250 tons, one boy; from 250 to 350, two; from 350 to 500, three; over 500 tons, four boys. It is the opinion of this committee that many of our merchants would not approve of this plan, but it would be much less objectionable than the apprentice system, and, we think, be the means of increasing our seamen full as fast.

We are, sir, very respectfully, your most obedient servants,

DANIEL C. BACON,
ISRAEL WHITNEY,
RICHARD SOULE,
CALEB CURTIS,
SAMUEL QUINCY,
WINSLOW LEWIS,
Committee of the Boston Marine Society.

Hon. JOHN DAVIS, Washington.

BOSTON, February 22, 1839.

DEAR SIR: It has, within a few days, been announced to me that in the organization of the Boston Chamber of Commerce for the present year, I have been elected president thereof, and in that capacity your letter of the 29th ultimo was yesterday put into my hands. As there is no time for any action of the board on the subject matter thereof before the adjournment of Congress, I have thought proper to make you this explanation. The answer of the committee of the Boston Marine Society undoubtedly expresses the sense of the shipping interest in this community.

My individual opinion is that compulsory apprenticeship would not fall in with our Yankee habits and Yankee notions.

Very truly, yours,
N. APPLETON.

Hon. JOHN DAVIS.

REPORT

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY,

IN COMPLIANCE

With a resolution of the Senate in relation to public defaulters.

MARCH 2, 1839.

Laid on the table, and ordered to be printed.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, March 2, 1839.

SIR: The following resolution passed the Senate on the 2d of January last, viz: "That the Secretary of the Treasury be required to report to the Senate, in addition to the information called for by the resolution of the fifteenth of February, eighteen hundred and thirty-eight, in relation to public defaulters, all defalcations which have since occurred, (with the exception of the case of Samuel Swartwout, late collector of the port of New York,) with the names of the securities in each case; the suspended and rejected items of credit claimed by such defaulters; the measures, if any, adopted in each case to enforce payment; and the probability of ultimate indemnity to the United States."

In compliance with the above resolution, I have the honor to enclose a statement prepared by the Comptroller of the Treasury, in relation to receivers of public money, and to state that no defalcation among the collectors (with the exception of Mr. Swartwout) has since occurred. It is expected that all of these receivers will, ultimately, pay the balances due.

I transmit, herewith, also, a communication received from the Comptroller of the Treasury, assigning the reasons why the information called for by the resolution of the Senate of the 28th of February, 1838, and not furnished in the report from this department on the 22d June last, cannot now be submitted; and I beg leave to call the attention of the Senate to the suggestions of the Comptroller in relation to printing the documents referred to, during the recess of Congress, as the residue can be furnished in a few days.

I have the honor to remain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

LEVI WOODBURY,
Secretary of the Treasury.

The Hon. the PRESIDENT pro tem. of the Senate.

Blair & Rives, printers.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Comptroller's Office, February 11, 1839.

SIR: In compliance with your request of the 3d ultimo, I have the honor to enclose a statement relative to receivers of public money, "prepared in compliance with the resolution of the Senate of the 2d January, 1839."

I have the honor to be, with great respect, your obedient servant,
JOHN BARKER, Comptroller.

Hon. LEVI WOODBURY, Secretary of the Treasury.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
First Comptroller's Office, March 1, 1839.

SIR: It affords me gratification to be enabled to announce to you, that the statements relative to the suspensions and disallowances in the accounts of the receivers of public money, being the remaining information ordered by the Senate, and to which you alluded as being in course of preparation by the proper officers of the department, in your report to that body on the 22d of last June, have been prepared, and would be ready for transmission by to-morrow, if the gentlemen who have been sedulously occupied on them for the last seven months did not feel it more safe and due to themselves, the importance of the information, the intricacy of the accounts, and the high character of the body to whom they are to be submitted, to pass them in review, and thus put the statements to an additional test.

This examination and comparison of item by item, and aggregate by aggregate, will necessarily consume several days, and, in the mean time, we are acquainted that Congress will have adjourned.

It is, therefore, incumbent on me, having advised you of these circumstances, respectfully to suggest that a communication be made to the Senate, informing them of the same, and inviting their attention to the expediency of taking some order relative to the printing of the statements, after they shall have been tested in the manner proposed, so that they may be in the possession of Congress early on their next meeting, or distributed or disposed of in such other manner, during the recess, as to them shall seem more advisable.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
JOHN BARKER, Comptroller.

Hon. LEVI WOODBURY,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Read, and ordered to be printed.

WAR DEPARTMENT, March 2, 1839.

SIR: The accompanying report and documents, from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, are respectfully transmitted in reply to the resolution of the Senate of the 16th ultimo, calling for a copy of the report of the "Commissioner to investigate claims against the Miami Indians, with a statement of the expenses of the commission," &c.

Very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

J. R. POINSETT.

Hon. WM. R. KING,
President of the Senate, pro tem.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Office Indian Affairs, March 2, 1839.

SIR: I have the honor to lay before you a copy of the report of the commissioner appointed to examine claims under the treaty with the Miamies of October 24th, 1834, and other papers called for by the resolution of the Senate of February 16th.

Very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

T. HARTLEY CRAWFORD.

Hon. J. R. POINSETT,

WAR DEPARTMENT, July 21, 1838.

SIR: By direction of the President, you are hereby appointed a commissioner to examine claims against the Miami Indians in the State of Indiana, for the payment of which provision was made in the treaty concluded with them October 24, 1834, and ratified December 22, 1837. You will be allowed $8 for every twenty miles travel, by the shortest and most direct practicable route from your residence to the point selected by you for the transaction of this business, and thence home, and for every twenty miles of necessary travel in the Indian country, and $8 for every day actually and necessarily otherwise spent in the execution of your duties while there. You are authorized to draw bills of exchange on the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, if at any time you should desire to do so, for such sums as may be due to you on account of mileage or services. These bills will be accompanied by accounts, showing, in detail, dates, distances, terms of service, &c., attested by your certificate.

Blair & Rives, printers.

Instructions for the execution of your duties will be transmitted to you by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

Very, &c.,
J. R. POINSETT.

NATHANIEL WEST, Esq.,
Indianapolis, Indiana.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Office Indian Affairs, July 26, 1838.

SIR: I have the honor to communicate the instructions of this department for the execution of the duties of your appointment as commissioner to examine claims against the Miamies in Indiana, for the payment of which provision was made in the treaty concluded with them in 1834, a copy of which, as ratified in 1837, is enclosed. The sum appropriated in the treaty is $50,000, and it is to be applied to the payment of such debts only as existed at the date of the negotiation of the treaty. I recommend that you consult with Captain Douglass, the sub-agent, as to the time and place at which the investigation shall take place, and the length of the notice to parties proper to be given. As the annuities are to be paid at the same council, the place should be within the Indian country, that the intercourse law of 1834, a copy of which you will find with the sub-agent, may be enforced in preventing the introduction and sale of ardent spirits, and removing improper persons, should any obtrude themselves. You will find the general principles to be observed by you stated in the accompanying extract from the instructions to the commissioners appointed to examine similar claims against the Sioux Indians, and the printed copy of a report on others against the Pottawatamies will furnish a model for your own.

As your decisions will be final and payments be made on your certificates, if it shall appear that the amount of admissible claims exceeds the sum provided in the treaty, you will add another column to the form enclosed, in which will be inserted the amount each claimant will be entitled to, or a pro rata distribution. In case of such an excess it may happen that the Indians will be disposed to pay the several balances from their annuities; but, as the commissioner on the part of the United States, it will not be competent for you, under the existing laws, to take any part in, or cognizance of, such an arrangement. It has been suggested in behalf of some of the claimants, that if their affidavits to their accounts are required, they should not be called upon for further proof of their correctness. This may depend somewhat on the circumstances of each case, and you will do in each as you think best. But the right to demand other evidence is considered clear, and you will exert it whenever you think proper. It has also been suggested that the proceedings of the commissioner should conform exactly to the laws of Indiana. This would undoubtedly be proper, if both parties had understood those laws at the time the debts were contracted. But the Indians cannot be presumed to have known them, and they are entitled to the benefit of every equitable guard and restriction that can be imposed on the admission of claims against them. For this reason, Indian testimony should be received in the manner pointed out, and in the accompanying paper. The question has been raised whether the acts of the present and former agents for these Indians, whether for or against them, should be regarded as conclusive and binding. I know of no law or regulation which authorizes an agent to have any concern in the contraction of debts by the Indians under his charge, and I can see no principle upon which his acts should be so construed as of themselves to prove their indebtedness in any instance. Claims against half-breeds, who have shared annuities and other benefits of treaties, and have been recognised as members of the tribe, will be properly admissible, provided they have not, in previous treaties, received reservations or grants of land, or some other separate advantage of a like character. Such provision for them, as individuals, having been made by the tribes, the tribe should not now be further required to discharge their debts. Interest will not be allowed in any case. To contribute to the satisfaction of all parties, it is desirable that your proceedings, the principles adopted by you, and your reports in the several cases, should be generally known.

Very, &c.,

C. A. HARRIS.

NATHANIEL WEST, Esq.,
Indianapolis, Indiana.

Extract of a letter to L. T. Pease and W. L. D. Ewing, dated 26th July, 1838.

The 3d clause of the 2d article of the treaty provides that the sum of $90,000 shall be applied to the payment of just debts of the Sioux Indians, interested in the land ceded. This stipulation will not be so construed as to extend it to any debts created since the date of the treaty. Having ascertained, in the manner heretofore pointed out, who are the parties interested, you will call upon all persons holding claims against them to present them. You will require the respective creditors to deposite with you transcripts of their claims, exhibiting names, dates, articles, prices, and the original consideration of each claim. If notes or obligations purporting to be signed by any of the Indians shall be presented to you for allowance, you will inquire into the original consideration, and the circumstances under which they may have been signed. No such note or obligation will be received as evidence of a debt, unless the indebtedness shall be satisfactorily shown. If original books or entries cannot be produced, their loss or destruction must be proved. The sale of spirituous liquors to Indians being prohibited by the laws of the United States, no item of charge on that account will, under any circumstances, be allowed. You will prepare a roll of all the claimants, specifying the amount claimed by each, the places of residence or trade, the time when the debt was incurred, the kind of merchandise or other articles, the amount admitted by you to be justly due, and the amount rejected.

You will carefully record all the evidence in each case, and transmit it, with the affidavits themselves, if in that form, with the roll of claimants, and with the grounds of your decisions, to this office. The accompanying printed copy of a report on similar claims against the Pottawatamies will give you a clear idea of the manner in which your own should be prepared. Your examination cannot be too scrutinizing into the merits and justice of every claim. If it be against an individual Indian, he should be called before you, and each item in the account should be explained to him, and his assent or dissent to it required. If it be against the parties ceding the land collectively, or against either of the bands among them, as a band, the account should be explained in like manner, and their acknowledgment or denial taken. To this extent, I have no doubt, Indian testimony should be received; the weight it should have you must determine, after considering the character, general intelligence, and means of information of the witness. The moral duty of paying every just claim should be pressed upon the Indians; and in receiving their statements, you will bear in mind the danger arising, on the one hand, from a disposition to evade an obligation, and on the other, from the exercise of improper influence by any of the claimants. The creditors will be required to swear to their accounts; and the testimony of disinterested persons will also be taken in regard to the justness of the prices charged. If the aggregate of claims admitted by you shall exceed the sum provided in the treaty, you will report the amount due to each claimant, after a pro-rata distribution; and this he will be required to to take in full of all demands against these Indians up to the date of the treaty. Your decisions will be final. The assent of the Indians to your report you will procure in writing.

Very, &c.,
C. A. HARRIS.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Office Indian Affairs, August 14, 1838.

SIR: I have had the honor to receive your letters of the 1st and 3d instant.

I presume your secretary, Mr. Harris, reached you before your departure from Indianapolis. You are authorized to employ counsel in behalf of the Indians, if in the prosecution of your duties you shall find it necessary. The experience of the department in other cases indicates the propriety of the whole business connected with the investigation being closed before you leave the council ground. Claimants are better satisfied, and the assent of the Indians being obtained to your report, the department can, with more confidence, regard it as conclusive, and act upon it as such. You are correct in your idea respecting the form of the certificate and draft. It was copied from one adopted under the treaties, where the payments were to be in full of all demands, and sent to you without adverting to the difference of circumstances. You will please to make the necessary correction. I observe nothing but what is perfectly proper in the notice you have published, with the exception of the word "pay." This may lead some to suppose the payments will be made on the ground; but this can be easily set right.

Very, &c.,
C. A. HARRIS.

Report of Nathaniel West, United States commissioner, on the claims against the Miami Indians, presented under the treaty of October 23, 1834, made with said Indians.

INDIANAPOLIS, January 2, 1839.

SIR: Accompanying this you will receive a volume containing all my transactions, whilst acting as commissioner to carry into effect the second article of the treaty concluded with the Miami Indians, on the 23d day of October, 1834; also, all memorials and papers filed by the claimants in support of their different claims; together with schedules of their claims since 1834, which I thought judicious to obtain, as they may be of use to a future commissioner.

The volume contains my public notice dated on the 1st of August last, which was published in four different papers, and more that sixty days previous to the close of the investigation; and I am not yet aware of the failure of any claim being presented for want of sufficient notice. The journal kept by Mr. Harris shows the transactions from day to day, during the investigation in the Indian Territory; and my reports in eighty-three cases, prepared since my return to this place, during intervals of relief from much and severe sickness, will explain my mode of procedure in the investigation of the different cases, with my reasons for coming to the result I have done in each case; all which I sincerely trust will be found satisfactory.

It was almost impracticable to obtain Indian testimony to the extent desired by the department, although nearly the whole nation were on the ground, and received daily rations from the United States for several days. No doubt the reasons why the Indian debtors could not be induced to come before me, except in a small proportion of the cases, was the sudden excitement amongst the whole nation, originating from the unexpected information that they were again much involved in debt since the treaty of October, 1834; that the amount would not be less than $150,000, and a new cession of land must be made to pay the debt. Each individual who from his extravagance had contributed to involve the whole, was of course restrained from coming forward, and in public acknowledging his indebtedness, not only from fear of the censure, but, perhaps, even the knife of the more economical. As a substitute, I urged that the principal chiefs should be constantly present, during each investigation; and not unfrequently the claimant, upon whom was imposed the duty, was enabled to bring forward some of his Indian debtors, who, after a particular examination, generally confirmed the note or account against him as being just.

The presence of the chiefs was no doubt of much advantage; and from the opportunity they had of judging of the correctness of any proceeding, they could decide whether the interests of their people had been overlooked. By a constant reference to them, as a new claim was introduced, they had always an opportunity of giving their opinions, and especially as to whether the debtor was a Miami or not.

Some slight feeling existed for a day or two, respecting claims against a few, whom the chiefs had objected to as being Weas; whilst the trader claimed an allowance of his account, urging the intermarriage of the Wea with the Miami, or some other reason.

It was quite natural for the chiefs, whose whole conduct, however, was both frank and manly, to watch closely, lest Indians not of their nation should have their debts paid from the money of the Miamies; they also felt desirous that the $50,000 provided to pay all debts prior to October 23, 1834, should be sufficient for that purpose.

It was found necessary to press a prompt settlement of the question as to who were Weas; and accordingly, the chiefs, at my particular request, came forward for that purpose, as stated in the journal of proceedings, page 297. They selected five as being undoubted Weas; their names were taken down; claims against them and some others afterwards ascertained were disallowed; all parties were satisfied; and what at one moment seemed to indicate excitement soon ceased to be mentioned.

It was apparent during the investigation that the particular public notice of August 1, directing the requisite evidence in each claim, and that the memorial, books, vouchers, &c., in fact all, should be sanctioned by an oath, did much service; and, beyond question, operated as a strong check, and has kept back many unjust demands; yet I had sufficient experience to satisfy me that there are many who think the property of the Indian a fair prize, and seize upon any specious representation to deceive if possible. I feel it, however, a duty here to state, that a large majority of the claims presented were well sustained by books, notes of hand and collateral evidence, and would be considered satisfactory among mercantile men of our principal cities; that very many of the traders have left a strong impression on my mind of their honorable and fair dealings with the Indians; and that the prices charged were, under all circumstances, reasonable.

I regret to state that the Miamies are fast falling away from their true character, imbibing more and more of the vices and none of the good traits of the white population. Indolence, extravagance, and a love of display, pervade the whole nation; many of the young men wear clothing which cost at least $100; indeed, none but the finest goods will sell amongst them. They hunt but little, do no work, and the whole nation may be said to live from resources drawn from the stores of the trader. They of course will obtain a credit as long as it is evident the remaining lands will be sufficient to pay the debts of the nation. I took frequent opportunities of calling the attention of the chiefs to the rapid tendency of the present course to ruin; that in a few short years their whole remaining patrimony would be gone; then necessity would compel an emigration, and they would go empty handed; that their young men, from habit, would be indolent, and lose all the best points of Indian character; but by now selling all their lands, they would annually receive from the United States a large sum, and their whole people snatched from a constant exposure to those temptations which were rapidly degrading them. Their reply was always, "what you say is true, we know it;" yet shortly all would be lost in the all powerful influence of present habit, and nothing will, I fear, awake them from their lethargy, but a consciousness of ruin, a total loss of all their lands, and the refusal of the trader to give further credit.

I enclose a letter from the principal chief of the Miamies, sent to me since my return, expressing, in their behalf, his satisfaction with my proceedings during the investigation; also a schedule of the whole amount of claims, and of allowances made in each case.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

NATHL. WEST.

T. Hartley Crawford, Esq.,
Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

Forks Wabash, November 8, 1838.

Dear Sir: Colonel Pepper and Mr. Hamilton have just reminded me of your desire to have the opinion of the Miami Indians expressed in council, as to your course while commissioner, investigating the claims against them under the provision of the treaty of 1834. I take the liberty to state that it is impracticable to again assemble the Indians, owing to the length of time consumed in treaty operations. The payment of their annuities is at this moment progressing. It, however, affords me much pleasure, as chief of the nation, to assure you that we approve of your course as commissioner. Your demeanor while performing your arduous duties was marked with kindness and gentlemanly deportment. Of your administering strict justice during the investigation, so far as in your power, we have no doubt.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
JOHN B. RICHARDVILLE,

INDIANAPOLIS, ———— —, 1838.

I certify that the foregoing register exhibits a true statement of the claims presented to me under the treaty of the 23d October, 1834, with the Miami Indians, and of the result of my action thereon; that the columns marked "amount claimed," and "amount allowed," show the amount of claims presented, and the allowances made thereon.

NATH. WEST, United States Commissioner.

REPORTS.

No. 1.

Sophia C. Hood, executrix of William N. Hood, deceased, and Alexander Wilson, administrator of John McGregor, deceased.—$5,838 28.

The amount of this claim, the deficiency of evidence to sustain it in many of the most important charges, together with the probability that, by the decease of both Hood and McGregor, the administrators may have been deprived of the means of making those explanations, and of furnishing such further testimony as might explain that which they now find it impossible to do, has induced me to give the whole papers offered in the case a very particular examination.

The late firm of Hood and McGregor kept a store at Miamiesport, and dealt with the Miamies and other Indians. To some extent, no doubt, they gave them credit; and, at the decease of Mr. Hood, in 1838, it is quite probable many debts remained uncollected.

The claim, as now presented, may properly be classed in four parts:

First. For the sum of $1,750; goods to that value are alleged to have been forcibly taken from the store of Hood and McGregor, in June, 1829, by a party of Miamies.

Second. For $250, value of goods furnished John Lasselle, a Miami, to sell to the Indians, and for which, it is stated, he has not accounted.

Third. For $2,627 28, being for sundry book debts.

Fourth. For $822 56, amount of notes against different individual Miamies.

Respecting the first demand of $1,750, it appears by the depositions of James Gerard and Susan Faggart that during a brawl between the Thorntown and Mississiniway bands, in the town of Miamiesport, in June, 1829, in which two of the Indians were killed, the store of Hood and McGregor was robbed by the Indians of sundry goods.

Gerard deposes, (deposition in Hood's handwriting,) that he was in the store at the time; that he and McGregor were overpowered by the Indians; that he witnessed their taking away a great many pieces of goods from the shelf, and from packages of goods put up for an outfit to pack on horses into the Indian country for sale; does not know the value of the goods taken, but thinks they would not fall short of $400, $600, to $900.

Susan Faggart does not fix any value to the goods taken.

M. C. Woodworth, a witness introduced by claimants, testifies that he saw the Indian fight, and knew of the robbery of Hood and McGregor's store, and is satisfied the value of goods taken would not exceed $500.

The evidence will not justify a greater allowance than $400.

Respecting the claim for goods trusted John Lasselle to dispose of, the goods having been sold to various persons amongst the Miamies, Lasselle, called by the claimants, testifies that he did receive the goods to sell; and did sell the Miamies $160, to the Weas $30, and balance of goods he returned to Hood and McGregor's store.

Allowed for $160.

As to the demand upon book account, amounting to $2,627 28, no book of original entries has been offered in evidence. A small book (copy) has been offered, which is stated, by a memorandum in McGregor's handwriting, "to contain the amount due the late firm of Hood and McGregor at the close of their Indian trade, in 1831." The aggregate of which, as given by him, is stated thus:

"Debts due by Osage party, Mudcreek party, and others -	$978 75
	396 50
	1,385 25
"Sundry accounts, &c - - - - -	1,768 37
	3,153 62

"This amount was due the firm of Hood and McGregor at the close of their Indian trade in 1831."

There is an error of $10, it should be but $3,143 62, and this sum is the whole amount then outstanding from their whole Indian trade: and from Miamies, Pottawatamies, and Weas. Allowing the item of $396 50 to have, probably, reference to the value of goods stolen in June, 1829, the balance of their whole outstanding debts would be but $2,743 62, and fall far short of $5,838 28, the sum now claimed as due from the Miamies alone.

On viewing the whole ground, and particularly having reference to the fact that no original book of entry is produced, nor explanation given for its absence, nor proof offered that it ever existed; with the fact, also, that amongst the numerous notes offered against the Miamies, several are charged for the same in book account, particularly Captain Flower, for his note of $246 50, the same note being demanded in the schedule of notes; also, that the whole now brought against the Miamies alone, I am compelled to the conclusion that no satisfactory evidence has been offered to sustain this part of the claim, and it is therefore disallowed.

Respecting the fourth item of claim for sundry notes of hand, I find the notes are evidently original, and although witnessed but in a few instances, yet they always express the articles which make up the amount, and I have concluded to admit them.

They are in number one hundred and two, as per schedule, and amount to $822 58; with the exception of Flower's note, are generally for small amounts; several are for whiskey, several are against Pottawatamies, some few are against Weas. Beside, and included in the schedule, are some little memorandums on small strips of paper, and without any signature; these are classed as notes, but I have rejected them altogether.

The account for notes allowed will then stand thus:

Amount claimed as per schedule - - - -		$822 58
Deduct for Pottawatamies - - -	$70 12
Do. for Weas - - - -	24 37
Do. for memorandums - - -	39 22
Do. for whiskey - - -	3 12
		136 83
		685 75
Allowed for goods stolen - - - - -		400 00
Due from Lasselle and others - - - -		160 00
Total allowed - - - -		1,245 75

No. 2.

Alexander Wilson, administrator of John McGregor, deceased.—$148 50.

This claim is for a balance of $128 50, for work done for the Osage band in 1833, principally for ploughing sixty-five acres of land; and for some work done for same band in 1835, amounting to $20.

The last charge of $20, for work done in 1835, is not allowed, because it is subsequent to the treaty of 1834.

As to the principal charge of $128 50, John Lasselle, a Miami, introduced by claimant, testifies that the charge against him of $12 is not true; he owes nothing; he paid McGregor $6, which was all he had agreed to pay: and states also, "the Indians tell him they had paid McGregor all up."

Oldham testifies that McGregor did not do the work in the large field, in 1833, but thinks he made the rails.

General Grover testifies that he was sub agent in 1833; knows of McGregor making some rails that year for the Indians; thinks that, as agent, he certainly should have known if McGregor had done any ploughing; is confident McGregor never did the work for which the charges are made, except the rails.

Allowed for the rails $20.

No. 3.

John Smither, claims for Smith & Smither.—$160.

The evidence in support of this claim is the certificate of William Marshall, late Indian agent, dated October, 1834, stating that Mr. Smith sold the Miamies seven rifles, valued at $150, to be paid for on the ratification of the treaty; and if not ratified, then to be paid for at the next annuity payment.

Mr. C. Taber testifies that he saw part of the rifles delivered on the treaty ground, October, 1834.

No satisfactory evidence is offered as to the charge of $10 for repairing a gun.

Allowed for the rifles $150.

No 4.

Basil Brown.—$1,000.

This claim is for the value of ten horses delivered the Miamies, at the treaty of October, 1834.

The evidence offered in support of this claim is a certificate of William Marshall, late Indian agent, dated at the treaty ground, October, 1834, stating that Brown had furnished the Miamies with nine horses, value $900, to be paid for at the ratification of the treaty; and if not ratified, then to be paid for from next annuities.

An affidavit of William Marshall, dated in 1838, stating that Brown furnished another particular horse for a chief, making ten horses altogether.

William Marshall, introduced by claimant, testifies that the Indians themselves bought the horses of Brown; that they called on him to judge of their value, and if worth $1,000 they would pay it; that he understood distinctly the $1,000 was to be paid from the $50,000 allowed for Indian debts in the treaty. He also states that the horses were delivered to heads of bands.

G. W. Ewing testifies that he saw part of Brown's horses in possession of leading men or chiefs of bands.

C. Taber states that the horses were all delivered beyond doubt, as he saw Big-legs and others riding them.

James Smith testifies as to the horses being worth on an average $100.

Allowed for $1,000.

No. 5.

Samuel Beck.—$300.

This claim is for the value of twenty rifles, sold the Miamies at the treaty of 1834.

The evidence in support of it is an affidavit of William Marshall, dated August, 1838, stating that he handed Beck at the treaty ground, in October, 1834, a certificate of his having delivered a certain number of rifles to the Miamies; the number he does not recollect.

Also, a certificate from Abel C. Pepper, dated January, 1836, purporting that S. Beck had placed in his hands a certificate signed by William Marshall, for $300; and that he had lost or mislaid it.

C. Taber testifies that he recollects the rifles; before the delivery they were placed in his house, and were very superior; that he saw a part of them delivered to the Miamies.

Allowed for $300.

No. 6.

Alexander Wilson.—$44.

For work done for the Miamies, June, 1832.

General Grover, late Indian sub-agent, testifies that Wilson did the work, and at the time stated.

Allowed for $44.

No. 7.

Sophia C. Hood, executrix of William N. Hood, deceased.—$691 75.

This claim is for articles sent in a peroque to the Mississiniway for sale, and there taken forcible possession of by the Mississiniway band.

The articles in the peroque are represented to consist of—

350 loaves of bread, at 50 cents - - - -	$175 00
2,350 lbs. bacon, at 15 cents - - - - -	352 50
4 bbls. hard bread - - - - - -	60 00
3 kegs tobacco, 417 lbs. at 25 cents - - - -	104 25
	691 75

Evidence offered: A certificate of Zenas Henderson, stating that he was in the employ of Hood at the time the property was sent to the Mississiniway in charge of Joseph Trucky.

Joseph Trucky testifies that he was employed by Henderson, and had a peroque laden with bread, salt, and tobacco, but no bacon was on board.

With the articles laden he was sent to trade at the Mississiniway; on arriving, sold $20 worth, and put the rest in Barrabo's house, and under lock; the house was soon filled with Indians, and a Miami named Poplar broke the lock and threw the articles out, which the Indians carried away. The Indians did not take the tobacco or salt.

Trucky says he had but one peroque, and but one man to assist in managing her, and could not possibly have taken in all the articles claimed and certified to by Henderson. He is certain he had no bacon on board.

It is evident that part of the articles were forcibly taken possession of by the Mississiniway band, and lost to the original owner; that the bacon was not shipped; and the salt and tobacco were saved.

The bread I shall allow for; but even if it consisted of Indian loaves, of which there is no evidence, the price charged would be too high, as is the case with the bacon and tobacco, and, therefore, make up the loss thus:

350 loaves of bread, at 25 cents - - - - -	$87 50
4 bbls. hard bread, at $12 - - - - -	48 00
	135 50
Deduct sales before the robbery - - - -	20 00
Allowed for - - - - - - - -	115 50

No. 8.

Madison Sweetser.—$884 12.

The claimant asks pay for nineteen notes of hand, which are filed as evidence in the case. On the same paper with the note is a bill, in every instance, of the articles sold, and to every note a subscribing witness.

The witnesses testify to the delivery of the articles, and to the fact of the notes always being read to the Indians, and amount explained before signing. The delivery of the horses to Lewis Godfroy is also satisfactorily proved, and their value.

Several of the Indians, whose signatures are to the notes, acknowledge the correctness of the amount, and their indebtedness to Sweetser for the same.

This claim is well substantiated.

Allowed for $884 12.

No. 9.

James Cassel.—$75.

For a wagon sold Lewis Godfroy in August, 1833.

David Conner testifies the wagon was worth $75, and that he would readily have paid that price for it; that he saw Lewis Godfroy receive it from Cassel, and take it away.

Allowed for $75.

No. 10.

Joseph Holman.—$1,116 81.

This claim purports to be for sundry accounts, notes of hand, interest, &c.

The first item amounts to $903, and consists of charges, without any evidence to sustain them, amounting to $121, against some Miamies, for goods sold in 1824 and 1825.

Appended to this is a certificate of Peter Bonaventure, (not sworn to,) stating that he was in the employ of Holman in 1825, and that Holman credited the Miamies then $500 or $600. The sum thus obtained of $500 is added to the $121, and then interest added sufficient to make up the whole sum of $903.

This amount is wholly unsupported, and is not allowed.

The next item is for goods sold the chief Richardville, and to his two daughters, who married Pottawatamies. The chief denies the debts, and states he never had the daughters mentioned. Not allowed.

The remaining demand is for two notes of hand signed by J. B. Richardville, which amount to - - - - - - $61 62

Upon which has been paid - - - - - 34 00

27 62

The evidence as to the notes authorizes me to allow the balance of $27 62.

No. 11.

John Green.—$34 50.

This claim is subsequent to the treaty of October, 1834, and, therefore, disallowed.

No. 12.

John B. Duquette.—$590.

This claim is for building some cabins, and for clearing land in 1831, 1832, and 1833.

The claimant is illiterate, and has no book or memorandum whatever, to which we can refer; and the account, as he states it, is made up from memory, and is stated thus:

1831, clearing land for Lasselle - - - -		$80 00
1832, building a house for J. Richardville, digging a well, and clearing four acres of land - - - - -		600 00
1833, building a house for J. Richardville, senior, ditto for William Richardville, ditto for Susan Richardville, ditto for Blind Richardville - - - - -		600 00

Evidence sufficient is offered to prove that Duquette put up some buildings; but as to the account above, and whether he has been paid or not, no testimony whatever offering, I concluded to hear from Duquette, himself, his statement of the whole transaction; but a representation was made by the person appearing for him that he was too sick to attend; and, on being notified to appear, a request was sent from Chief Godfroy, representing that Duquette was then busy at work for him, getting in hay, and requesting permission for his absence.

Of course, Duquette was not sick as represented; and, on being interrogated, stated that the account was made from memory; that some six years since he did the work. Joseph Richardville paid him, at one time, $250; at another, $300; (he has credited Richardville but $350;) that John Lasselle paid him $30, whilst he credits $40 in the account; that Blind Richardville did not pay him anything, whilst he credits him, in the account, $100.

So inconsistent is the verbal statement made to me, from what it must have been when made to the party presenting his claim, and no evidence offering except as to the fact of Duquette's having built some houses, that I am compelled to reject the claim.

Disallowed.

No. 13.

John P. Hedges.—$1,326 66.

This claim is attempted to be sustained by a book account; and a book of twenty-four pages is offered as an original, purporting to have been kept in 1819, 1820, 1821, and 1822. It is evident to me the book offered is not original; the paper is new; the entries all in one handwriting, recently done, and with the same ink.

Mr. Hedges, on being called, insists that it is an original book; and that his traders, on their return from the Indian Territory, brought strips of paper, upon which was written the amount trusted out to the Indians; and the same was at the time entered upon the book now offered.

It is but proper to state, that Mr. Hedges subsequently varied his testimony, and asserted that the book was made out in 1826. The book, itself, so completely contradicts either statement, as to the time when made, and no other evidence offering, the claim is disallowed.

No. 14.

Hyacinth Lasselle.—$4,449 50.

The evidence offered in support of this claim are the old books of Mr. Lasselle, in French, from 1801 to 1809, in which certain debits are made in furs and peltries; these furs are again reduced to a "plus;" which plus, by the then custom of the French trader, was equal to four raccoon skins, or two deer skins. This plus is now reduced by Mr. Lasselle into American moneys, by estimating each at two dollars; and by this mode the sum of $4,449 50 is obtained, being the amount claimed.

No other evidence being offered, Mr. Lasselle, himself, states that he has not yet been paid the amount demanded; and on my expressing surprise that the debts should have been so long outstanding, he replied that he did not make a demand till the treaty of 1826; and, in reply to the question why he had not used diligence in collecting from the Miamies, themselves, during the very long period intervening between 1801 and 1826, he said that he had no hope and never tried.

Mr. Lasselle says, that at the treaty of 1826, the commissioners declined investigating his claim, and referred him to the chiefs; that chief Richardville then acknowledged the debt, and agreed that two sections of land should be allowed him in the treaty. The chief Richardville, being called on at the request of Mr. Lasselle, denies that he ever made any promise at the treaty of 1826, respecting two sections of land being ceded to him; nor does he know of Mr. Lasselle ever having made any demand for moneys due.

Upon an expected concession from the chiefs Richardville and others, Mr. Lasselle seems to have relied altogether; and twice afterwards took an opportunity of asking the chief Richardville the same questions, but with the like reply in each case.

As respects the amount of this claim, $4,449 50, the "plus" is estimated at two dollars, and by this ratio the whole amount is obtained; but on making particular inquiry from French traders and others, all uniformly agree that the plus had always been valued at but one dollar; of course, the amount of the claim is but one-half, or $2,224 75; in which reduction claimant acquiesced.

Considering the great age of this claim, nearly, if not all, the Indians charged being dead, and the fact that many of those who traded at Vincennes were Delawares and other Indians residing on the Lower Wabash, the concession made by Mr. Lasselle, himself, that he never tried to collect these debts, having no hope, which might be deemed a waiver, at any rate a want of proper diligence, and no evidence to substantiate it in any way satisfactory to me, it is disallowed.

Eldredge and Anderson.—$1,566 01.

In this case, the books of original entries were produced, and appear to have been well and regularly kept. On a careful examination, I am satisfied with their correctness. The chiefs were present at the examination, and acknowledged the parties against whom the charges were made to be Miamies.

The demand on book account amounts to $766 67, and consists of goods delivered to different parties of Miamies, between July, 1833, and February, 1834, and is well sustained by evidence offered for $766 67.

The notes are thirty-five in number, are all witnessed, and the delivery of the articles for which the notes were given is proved; two of the notes are against Pottawatamies, amounting to $34 50, which sum is deducted.

John Smith.—$150.

This claim is for bread and provisions furnished to different Miamies, between the years 1828 and 1831.

The memorial is signed by the son of John Smith, who represents that his father is, from old age, infirm and in his dotage, and unable to attend to any business; that his father kept a bakery at Logansport, which was generally resorted to by the Miamies, who were frequently credited at the shop; that all evidence of debt is now lost, and no definite account can be produced, but that the son kept the father's shop during the time, and charged many of the items himself against the Miamies.

This claim is not supported by such evidence as carries entire satisfaction for full amount asked for, yet it is evident, from the opinion of others, that the Miamies owe Smith something.

Allowed for $75.

No. 17.

Christian Shell.—$410.

This is a claim for depredations; the claimant, as he alleges, having had eighty-six hogs taken from near his residence, in Hamilton county, in the fall of 1831, by the Miamies.

James Denny testifies, that at the time Shell lost his hogs, he lived about two and a half miles from the residence of Shell, and knew of his having from eighty to ninety hogs fit for killing in the fall of 1831; that they were all marked, and knows the Indians stole them; for he went in the woods, and counted seventeen camps of Indians; they had killed Shell's hogs, and were busy packing meat and lard. Knew the hogs to be Shell's; he saw several heads with the mark on the ear. He recognised Bill Hilswa, a Miami; some others he did not know by name, but they were in the habit of coming to his house, and he knew them to be Miamies.

John E. George testifies as to knowing of Shell's loss; and that he saw a good stock of hogs, weighing near two cwts. each, on an average.

The price of pork is proved to have been in 1831 about $2 50 per cwt.

Allowed for $360.

No. 18.

James H. Kintner.—$203 75.

This claim is founded upon twenty-one orders, drawn by William Marshall, late Indian agent, on Kintner, in favor of different Miamies, for saddlery, and generally with a promise that the amount should be paid at the next payment; the orders are dated from February, 1833, to October, 1834.

William Marshall testifies that he drew the orders on Kintner, and was in the habit of doing so to prevent imposition being practised on the Indians; and that his predecessor did the same.

Mr. C. Taber, an intelligent citizen of Logansport, testifies that he often received orders from Marshall, and although the condition was a payment at the next annuity payment, yet, as the payments were always made by the agent to the chiefs of bands, it was almost impossible to collect small debts, however active he might have been.

Allowed for $203 75.

No. 19.

James H. Kintner & Co.—$262.

This claim should be for $169 50 only, as $92 50 is subsequent to the treaty of October, 1834.

It consists of twelve notes of hand, eight of which were witnessed and are signed by different Miamies. The principal witness, Roberts, is now residing in the State of Mississippi; but his handwriting has been proved.

Mr. Taber testifies that Kintner never made a book charge in his Indian transactions, but always took a note; that Kintner lived next door to him, and he had ample opportunity of knowing that such was his practice; and that his dealings were fair and honest.

Allowed for $169 50.

No. 20.

Zenas Henderson.—$2,211.

This claim is predicated upon an account dated October 20, 1834, and at that time laid before the commissioners at the treaty ground for allowance. It is in the following terms:

"The Miami nation to Zenas Henderson, debtor, from the year 1827 up to this date: To provisions of all kinds, merchandise of various kinds, feeding and keeping horses, &c., &c., amounting to $2,211. October 20, 1834."

The claimant kept a tavern at Fort Wayne, which the Indians frequented. He was in the habit also of attending at the treaty ground annually, for several years, and there selling gingerbread, pies, raisins, bread, &c.; and for credits given at the tavern and treaty ground he asks the allowance of $2,211.

The claimant states that in 1826 he lost his trunk, which contained his books of Indian accounts, and is now unable to furnish any other written proof of the amount of his claim than the bill made out in 1834, by Mr. Britton.

R. L. Britton testifies that the paper filed was made out by himself, and that he obtained the amount from books, notes, and papers, then in the possession of Henderson, one of the firm of Wolcott & Henderson; that the object of making out the paper was for the purpose of predicating a demand before the commissioners at the treaty of 1834. He also states, that had the account been against himself he would have been more particular in his examination; that the notes did not show for what articles they were given; thinks the demands were principally against the Miamies; the charges in the book were made with marks, thus: 1, 1, 1, 1, each of which was for twenty-five cents; that he afterwards saw Henderson at the payment ground trying to collect his debts; thinks it likely he did collect some, but whether those of old standing or of a recent date, does not know; he complained that he did not meet with success, as the Indians said the treaty paid all their debts prior to 1834.

Mr. Britton further states, that had the books been placed in his hands to ascertain a true balance for which a cash payment was to be made, he should have been much more particular; but in this case he merely noted down the sums as explained and called off by Henderson.

Mr. Colerick testifies that he was appointed a commissioner to settle the accounts of Wolcott & Henderson, and ordered a schedule to be made out of all the Indian debts by Mr. Britton; thinks the schedule amounted to about $2,000.

Both Mr. Colerick and Mr. Britton state that Wolcott made a gratuitous transfer to Henderson of his interest in the Indian debts.

Sufficient evidence is offered to prove that Henderson in 1836 put up notifications at Fort Wayne, informing of the loss of his trunk containing his books and papers, for which he offered to pay $10 on recovery.

Napoleon Guion and James Laughlin testify as to Henderson's selling the Miamies, in 1832, bread, pies, &c.; that he trusted them for the same; they saw him make his charges in a book. Laughlin says that Henderson had in his possession $800 or $900, which he collected after the payment; that he always appropriated one day whilst the annuities were paying to collecting debts.

Christopher Lavely testifies that he kept Henderson's bar at Fort Wayne; knows of the loss of the trunk, and that it contained old Indian accounts; remembers of John Owl, a Miami, staying whilst sick at Henderson's, and all the Miamies who called to see Owl were fed by Henderson, who has not yet been paid; that Owl was at his house between two and three months.

The adjustment of this claim, and ascertaining the proper amount to be allowed, is attended with some difficulty. That the bill for $2,211 was made out in 1834 there can be no doubt, and under the circumstances stated by Mr. Britton. The fact, also, of Henderson's putting up notices, in 1836, as to the loss of his trunk containing his books, &c., is sufficiently proven. Yet the want of that particularity in making out the bill for $2,211, it being merely to predicate a claim upon; the bill being also against other Indians as well as Miamies; the fact that Henderson was in the habit of trying to collect his debts at the treaty ground, and no doubt did collect some from year to year; the fact, also, of but little value being placed upon the Indian debts by Wolcott at the settlement between him and Henderson; together with the very general manner in which the claim is placed before me, will not justify making a greater allowance than $1,000.

Ewing, Edsall, & Co.—$875 50.

This claim is for forty-one notes of hand against different Miamies. Each note is witnessed, and on the same piece of paper is a bill of articles delivered. The chiefs acknowledge that all the Indians against whom the demands are made are Miamies; and several of them came in and acknowledged their indebtedness.

The witnesses to the notes testify to their signatures, and to the fact of the amount being always explained to the Indian before his signing.

Andrew W. Ingraham.—$400.

The claimant asks pay for collecting estray horses, done by order of General William Marshall, in the years 1833 and 1834.

Lewis Mason.—$50.

This claim is for the destruction of Mason's fence, in 1833.

No. 24.

Cyrus Taber, for & Taber Hamilton.—$4,322 91.

This claim is for sundry book accounts, notes of hand, and for goods delivered to different Miamies, by order of the Indian agent; also, for goods furnished at the treaty of 1834.

The books of original entries are produced; they have been well and correctly kept; and I am satisfied, from the evidence offered, that the articles charged were delivered at the times specified, and that the parties charged, either by book or note, are all Miamies. The chiefs admit the fact in nearly all the cases, and subsequent investigation in other claims convinces me that the few whom the chiefs did not promptly recognise, originated from the circumstances of their names not being correctly pronounced in the first instance.

A large part of this claim is for goods, delivered upon the orders of Wm. Marshall, then Indian agent. The orders are now offered in evidence, and a bill of articles delivered on each order is presented also.

In addition to the sum of $2,433 91, to which the preceding remarks more particularly refer, is a bill for articles furnished the Crane and Osage parties, by B. Bonbair, amounting to $261. This bill is certified to by Peter Longlois, as to Bonbair having furnished the goods. The claim for the amount is assigned to Taber & Hamilton, by Bonbair.

The last charge amounts to $1,628, and is for goods furnished at the treaty of 1834. The goods consist of blankets, frock coats, rifles, and other common articles of Indian trade. A receipt, with the signatures of two witnesses thereto, and signed by five principal men amongst the Miamies, acknowledges the delivery of the gooods, and their satisfaction with the quantity.

Jesse Vermilya.—$777 55.

This claim is for twenty-eight notes of hand, against the Miamies.

The books of original entries are produced; they are well kept; the debits are evidently made at the time they purport to be, and for which a note is subsequently given for same amount.

Satisfactory evidence is offered that the promisors are all Miamies, and for a large part of the amount claimed, the debtor came in and acknowledged the correctness of the charge.

As to the claim of $50 for ten hogs stolen, no evidence is offered except for two.

John H. McTaggarett.—$92 68.

This claim is founded upon a justice's judgment.

The interest, amounting to $11 43, is included; but, by my instructions from the War Department, I am not authorized to allow "interest in any case;" and I am fully satisfied of the correctness of the rule, as applied to Indian trade. The fact of the claimant in this case having had recourse to the laws of Indiana, and obtained judgment for principal, interest, and cost, cannot justify a deviation from the general rule.

Beside, equity would be against it. It is evident that it never was the intention that interest should be charged in this and other cases. The whole custom of Indian trade is against it—a custom which can be traced back to the close of the French war in 1763, at which period the English trade may be considered as having commenced in this region. Indeed, the Indians have no distinct idea of what is meant by interest; and no doubt the trader, generally, when fixing the value of goods sold to the Indians, places it so much in advance of cash prices as will sufficiently indemnify him for delay of payment, and for all risks.

George Bostwick.—$824 75.

This claim is for a bill against the Miamies, made out in June, 1833; and is for fifty-three notes of hand against different Indians, and includes, also, a book account for $134 82. The bill was certified to on the 15th of June, 1835, by William Marshall, late Indian agent, as having been examined by him; that it was just and correct, and ought to be paid by the Miamies.

William Marshall testifies that at the time he certified to the bill referred to, in 1835, he examined it carefully, and was satisfied of its correctness.

Respecting the book account for $184 32, the book of original entries is produced, and has been particularly examined. I am satisfied from the inspection, and from other evidence, that the articles were delivered at the time as charged.

The notes are witnessed. By evidence offered it is satisfactorily shown that the transactions are fair and correct, and that the Indians received the goods for which the notes were given.

Eight or ten of the chiefs and leading men amongst the Miamies were present, and recognised the promisors on the notes to be, with two exceptions, Miamies.

Robert Hood.—$594.

The claimant offers no original vouchers whatever; nor does he offer any testimony, except the deposition of Samuel Hanna, giving it as his opinion that there is now owed Hood by the Miamies $500 for goods sold them by Charles Reed in 1823 and 1824.

It is proven that Reed kept a store for Hood near the Mississiniway in 1823 and 1824.

It appears that Reed was illiterate, and kept no accounts, and even by Hood's own statement was unworthy of trust. Hood says he stole a horse, and ran off; and other evidence proves that at the time he kept Hood's store his character was not good.

There is a claim for some articles stolen; but no evidence offered to prove the loss.

That Hood trusted Reed as his agent, to sell goods for him at the Mississiniway in 1823 and 1824, there can be no doubt; but whether the goods were sold on a credit to the Miamies, or embezzled by an unprincipled agent, is quite uncertain.

No. 38.

William Marshall.—$5,809 19.

The claimant states that his demand is for divers sums of money, paid, laid out, advanced, loaned, and expended, whilst acting as Indian agent; and in support of his claim offers forty various papers in evidence.

They consist of bills, orders, notes of hand, assignments, drafts, receipts, memorandums, &c. They refer to transactions so various, and so essentially differing, that a report much more in detail than those preceding will be necessary.

As Indian agent, the claimant, Marshall, assumed the duty of paying many of the debts of the Indians, of deducting for that purpose a sufficient amount from their annuities, and at the same time taking up their notes and obligations. It is clear that the burden of proof now lays upon him, to distinctly show each particular transaction for which he now claims an allowance.

The claimant was Indian agent for about four years, during which time, no doubt, his business transactions with the Miamies were very extensive. That he was in the habit of giving orders in favor of the Miamies has been already sufficiently proved; that these orders were sometimes paid by him has also been proved; and that he did frequently commit himself for the Indians is, upon the face of many of the papers now presented, quite evident; but that many of the transactions are of that description as to make it quite clear payment should not now be asked for, will be evident from the following charge, for which allowance is claimed:

"At the next annual payment to the Miami Indians, I promise to pay W. G. and G. W. Ewing, or order, for value received, the sum of ninety dollars; and I also hereby request and authorize my father, the agent, to detain and pay over the same to said Ewing at the time above stipulated.

OSSAGE.

Witness:
J. B. DURETT.
WILLIAM MARSHALL, Indian Agent."

Here is a request from a Miami, witnessed by Marshall himself, who signs his name as Indian agent, which is witnessed also by his secretary, J. B. Durett, that the sum now asked to be allowed for should be deducted from the next Indian annuities, and paid over to the Messrs. Ewing.

The dispensing of the annuities would be much under the control of Marshall himself, and who would feel the strong obligation of promptly paying the debt of Ossage, on the presentment to him of this order witnessed by himself.

With the exception of a small memorandum book, in which memoranda are frequently made with a pencil, no books whatever are offered as evidence in support of this claim; notwithstanding it is proved, from the statement of Mr. Durett, late secretary to Marshall, that books were kept at his office at Logansport. Indeed, it evidently must have been so, from the necessity of keeping a record of the very many important transactions between the agent and the United States, and also with many individuals.

It is also evident, that upon the payment, by the agent, from the annuities, of the various bills, orders, &c., they would, for the time, be in his possession, he being the payer. Did the whole transactions become a matter of record, the production of the books would explain what is now uncertain and doubtful.

However, the chiefs Richardville and Godfroy say they have no doubt that the Miamies owe Marshall; the precise amount they do not know; and they express a wish that the just debt, when ascertained, should be paid him.

The first charge of moment is for cash paid on J. Richardville's note; the note is lost or mislaid; but Mr. S. S. Tipton testifies that, as Marshall's attorney, he presented the note for payment at the Office of Indian Affairs, at Washington, with some other papers, and that it was not returned him. That it was left at the office is also proved by the official remarks upon it which are now filed. Mr. Tipton also testifies that Marshall was Richardville's security on the note, which was for $522; that Longlois held it, and that it was receipted for on the back as having been paid him by Marshall.

Allowed for $522.

The second charge is for amount paid P. Longlois, $697 97.

This is principally for provisions furnished in 1832, and for which amount, Longlois acknowledges payment from Marshall. There is, however, a deduction of $150 for goods delivered Flower's party, and the true amount is therefore $547 97.

That the Miamies had the articles for which payment is now claimed there can be no doubt.

Allowed for $547 97.

There are some demands amounting to $322, being for payments made on account of Francis Godfroy, and which Godfroy now acknowledges to be correct.

Allowed for $322, the amount claimed.

To the charge of $300, as paid Cyrus Taber for provisions, Mr. Taber testifies that the provisions were furnished by him at the treaty of 1834, but were for Indian rations.

Disallowed.

No. 41 is a claim for $184 25 cash paid Cyrus Taber, who testifies that Marshall drew orders on him for the same in favor of some Miamies, and which he afterwards paid him, except $10 paid by Godfroy.

Allowed for $174 25.

No. 27 is a charge of $113, and the paper offered in support of it is an order of Jos. Richardville for three yards of cloth from Taber's store. Upon the back of the order are some loose figures added up, evidently first made with a pencil, the foot of which is $113 50; but no explanation is given as to what these figures refer. Mr. Taber testifies as to furnishing the cloth, and that Marshall paid for it $15; but knows nothing respecting the figures on the back of the order.

Allowed for $15.

Nos. 8, 10, 14, 16, and 19, are for notes of Miamies payable to Peter Longlois, amounting to $507.

On these notes there is no endorsement of Longlois, or acknowledgment of payment having been made him by Marshall. Mr. Cyrus Taber, administrator of Longlois's estate, testifies, that he does not know how these notes passed from the possession of Longlois, nor can he find any reference to them on Longlois's books.

Disallowed.

No. 4, $374 60, is for a bill of articles furnished the Miamies by the Messrs. Ewing; the bill for which they assigned P. Longlois; and Mr. G.

W. Ewing testifies that Marshall paid Longlois the amount, as is evident also by a receipt on the bill signed by Longlois.

Allowed for $374 60.

Respecting the charge of $184 50, Mr. Taber exhibits the original charges against Miamies, and which were placed to the debit of Marshall, and are for transactions principally with Joseph Richardville.

Allowed for $184 50.

No. 40, is for a bill made out in pencil, thus:

		820 12

A receipt is also presented, written in pencil, thus:

"TREATY GROUND, October 22, 1832.

Received of William Marshall, Indian agent, eight hundred and twenty dollars and twelve cents in full of this account.

PETER LONGLOIS."

J B. Durett testifies that the papers written in pencil are in his handwriting; that in 1832 Messrs. Jennings, Crume, and Davis were commissioners for making a treaty with the Miamies; and that, to the best of his recollection, these goods were delivered the Indians by order of the commissioners. He cannot swear positively as to Marshall having paid Longlois for the goods.

Marshall, the claimant, states that he delivered the goods by order of Governor Jennings, one of the commissioners.

It is evident that this charge of $820 12, is against the United States and not the Miamies, and should be paid, provided the goods were delivered by order of Governor Jennings. The charge was originally made in Longlois's bill against the United States; and that the articles were presented to the Miamies is admitted by the claimant, The reason for now asking an allowance is, that the Miamies had the articles, and the United States have not paid him.

That the Miamies considered the articles as presents is evident from their protest filed, which is to the following purport: The chiefs, headmen, and warriors protest against this being a charge against the Miamies; the articles were delivered them as presents, and Governor Jennings, one of the commissioners, ordered they should be given.

Disallowed.

There are sundry charges, amounting to $57 499 for moneys lent different Miamies in 1832 and 1833. No evidence whatever is offered to sustain these charges but a small memorandum book, in which are some memoranda, frequently made with pencil, and evidently intended for mere temporary transactions, or for the purpose of being transferred to the regular books.

The evidence offered will not justify an allowance.

Respecting the charge for cash paid Ewing, Walker, and Co. $200, no evidence is offered to sustain it.

No. 37, $200. C. C. Johnson certifies that he held Marshall's note for three horses bought of him for Flower's party, which was payable in one year from January 1st, 1834; and that he received payment for the note on the 20th July, 1835.

Allowed for $200.

No. 41, $72 50, is for farming utensils, which are receipted for by the chief, Richardville, thus:

"Received of William Marshall, Indian agent, the within described implements of husbandry, under the provisions of the treaty of 1818."

This is evidently a charge against the United States, and not against the Miamies.

No. 6 is a charge for cash paid W. Rockhill, $40. The receipt of Rockhill will not justify an allowance; it is "for amount of presents furnished the Miamies."

Disallowed.

The remaining items claimed for, which amount to $742 20, appear to be so positively and directly involved with the duties of Marshall as Indian agent, and amongst which are several orders signed by himself in 1832 and 1833, stipulating for payment at the next annuity payment, and the reasons offered for the allowance being by no means satisfactory, they are, therefore, disallowed.

Total amount allowed for $2,340 32.

No. 39.

Francis Comparet, for Comparet & Rosseau.—$676 86.

This claim is for twenty-five notes of hand against different Miamies.

They are dated between January 1st, 1833, and the 23d October, 1834, and are all witnessed. A bill for all the articles delivered, and which, in each case, makes up the amount of the note, is on the same paper with the note.

Witnesses to many of the notes testify to the delivery of the goods, and the amount of the note stated to the Indian before his signing.

The books of the firm are produced; they are well and correctly kept, and no doubt each charge was made at the time it purports to be.

The chiefs acknowledged the promisors to be Miamies.

Allowed for $676 86.

No. 40.

Moses H. Scott, for Scott & Comparet.—$834 50.

This claim is principally for a bill amounting to $793 50, certified to as being correct, on the 29th of June, 1835, by William Marshall.

William Marshall testifies as to having now a distinct recollection of the delivery of the blankets to Black Loon's party, and which are charged in the bill at $230.

The original books are not offered in evidence, except for a small part of the articles charged. Mr. Scott states that the rest of the books are lost.

The parties claiming have been transacting an extensive business, and are, beyond question, competent to have produced regular vouchers for every article delivered and now claimed for.

Substantially, the only original vouchers to sustain the claim are seven orders drawn on Scott & Co., by William Marshall, in favor of Miamies, amounting to $80, and two notes of hand, one of which, however, is subsequent to the treaty of 1834.

It is true, William Marshall did certify, in 1835, to the correctness of the bill; but it must have been impossible for any one to have recollected the many charges, several of which were dated two years previous, and many for small amounts. Nor has he now a recollection of the delivery of any article, except the blankets to Black Loon's party; and a large part of the remaining articles included in his certificate are now not corroborated either by book or note.

The charge to Black Loon is sufficiently proven. Original book charges and vouchers are offered for amounts as follows:

Black Loon	$230 00
Osandea's note	6 50
Osandea's party	20 00
Crane	1 40
Osandea	1 00
Miami man	1 00

No. 41.

Elias Murray.—$270.

The claimant states in his memorial that he presented his claim to the commissioners in 1833; but no allowance was then made him, as the negotiation for a treaty did not succeed. He also states that the commissioners kept his vouchers, and he has now no original papers to offer.

It appears that in 1833, on the failure of the negotiation for a treaty with the Miamies, General Porter, one of the commissioners, kept the papers, vouchers, &c., laid before the commission. None were returned unless special application was made.

Julius Murray, son of the claimant, testifies that his father sold goods and gave credit to the Miamies in 1831, and that he was in the habit of taking notes from the Indian when he sold on a credit.

General Tipton states that he found, lately, amongst his papers, a memorandum made by himself of the amount of E. Murray's claim against the Miamies; that he remembers that at the time he made the memorandum the notes and accounts were before him; that he has no doubt of the justice of the claim; the Indians then acknowledged it, and promised payment as soon as they were able.

The memorandum found by General Tipton is as follows:

Captain Murray's claim from—

White Raccoon's party	$18 00
Osage party	9 50
Forks Indians	167 00
Allowed for	194 50

No. 42.

Lewis B. Berthlet.—$500.

This claim is for time lost, expenses incurred, medical assistance paid for, arising from, and caused by, certain wounds inflicted by Poqua Godfroy, a Miami, in February, 1833.

The chiefs Na-ge-ni-ca and Richardville state that all the chiefs in council agreed that $500 should be paid Berthlet for the injury complained of.

Allowed for $500.

No. 43.

James Rubedeux.—$26.

Evidence offered is the note of Noo-co-sia, a Miami, dated September, 1831, for a coat sold him. The chief Richardville says the debt is due.

Allowed for $26.

No. 44.

Mrs. Flower.—$125.

The claimant is a Miami woman; her demand is against a citizen of the United States, and is stated thus:

"My claim is for a wagon and yoke of oxen taken from Captain Flower, during his life, by Peter Longlois, and given to his son, John Allen, for which he has never paid."

As Peter Longlois's estate has a large claim against the Miamies it seemed but just and proper that the demand of this Miami woman, under such circumstances, should be received and investigated; and, if sustained, the amount found due be deducted from Longlois's allowance and paid over to her, or passed to the credit of the Miamies. But the evidence offered will not sustain her demand.

Benjamin Bonbair testifies that he lived with Peter Longlois eighteen years, and worked on his farm. At the Thorntown treaty, in 1821, Captain Flower had two yoke of oxen and a wagon given him by the United States. Flower the oxen and wagon to Longlois and asked him to keep them for him, but Longlois declined, as his own cattle were sufficient for his work. Captain Flower then said he would give them to Longlois's daughter, whom he called his sister, and directed witness to take cattle and wagon and drive to Mrs. Allen's, and tell her Captain Flower made his sister a present. Witness did drive the cattle to Mrs. Allen's, and delivered the message.

Disallowed.

Cyrus Taber, administrator of the estate of Peter Longlois, deceased.—$3,019 01.

The books of original entries are produced, and the principal clerk, John N. Dardenne, testifies that they were kept by him; the handwriting is his, and the testimony given by him satisfies me, after a particular examination, that the goods were delivered to the Indians at the time they were charged.

The notes of hand are witnessed; the witnesses testify to the delivery of the articles for which the notes were given, and that, before signing, the amount of the notes was always explained to the Indians.

The orders of the late Indian agent, William Marshall, are confirmed by the entries in the books for articles delivered under them, and by the testimony of Dardenne, Durett, and Cicott, late clerks for Longlois.

The chiefs agree that the parties charged are Miamies.

But from the sum claimed deductions are to be made as follows:

No. 47.

Lewis Draullard.—$4,099.

This claimant offers, in support of his demand, an obligation signed by several of the principal or chiefs of bands amongst the Miamies, which is witnessed by the signatures of William Hurst, William McGregor, and James T. Miller.

Annexed to the obligation is a bill for articles delivered each man, and, in most cases, acknowledged to be correct by the chief of the band.

In addition are the certificates of William Marshall, Abel C. Pepper, now Indian agent, John B. Bourie, and Allen Hamilton, all bearing witness to the honorable and good character of Draullard, and giving the opinion that the Miamies are largely indebted to him.

William A. McGregor testifies that he was present and witnessed the signing of the obligation.

Francis Comparet testifies that he had an interest in the store with Draullard, which he sold him in 1832. The amount of Indian debts then outstanding was between $1,500 and $1,800.

It appears, by the obligation, that the articles were delivered between January 1st, 1831, and November 3d, 1836. All subsequent to the treaty of the 23d of October, 1834, cannot be admitted; a pro rata allowance only can be made. This seems but just, for those traders who claim upon book account make up their demands to the date of the treaty, leaving what is subsequent to that period to the chance of future treaties; and the like rule equitably should apply to this case.

Allowed for $2,700.

No. 48.

W. G. & G. W. Ewing, of Logansport.—$4,375 42.

This claim is principally sustained by notes of hand, of which there are one hundred and seven against different Miamies; also, by some book charges, but for a small proportion of the amount claimed.

The books of original entries are produced, and have been particularly examined; each note with its date and amount has been compared with charges in the books, and in each case are found to agree; and I am satisfied that the entries in day-book and leger were all made at the time they purport to be.

The notes are all witnessed, and are particularly made out, with a list of the articles delivered generally recorded on the back of each. The witnesses to these notes, six in number, and formerly the clerks of the Messrs. Ewing, testify to their signatures, and to the delivery of the articles to the Indians for which the notes were given; also, that the note, by a general rule, was always read or explained to the Indian before he signed.

The chiefs were present, and the name of each debtor called off, and they recognised all but two to be Miamies.

No. 49.

Cyrus Vigus.—$1,328 50.

This claim is for provisions, keeping horses, horses sold, bacon and flour furnished, &c.

The claimant was formerly an innkeeper at Logansport; and as the late Indian agent, Marshall, boarded with him, the house was probably much frequented by Pottawatamies and Miamies.

The accounts are so inconsistent and confused, and the books so loosely kept, that it has been somewhat difficult to reach a correct result.

The claimant, amongst other papers, presents an account against the Miamies, evidently made out some time since, which commences in 1833, and closes the 8th August, 1835. To this account is appended the certificate of T. B. Durett, late secretary to Marshall, in which he states that he saw Mr. Vigus deliver to the Miamies most of the articles mentioned in the account.

It is evident that, at the time this account was made up, it was intended to contain an exhibit of the whole claim, and to sustain it the certificate of Mr. Durett was obtained. The account is for bacon, flour, keeping horses, boarding Indians, and for a horse sold Osage, and amounts to $718 96.

The next paper is a leaf abstracted from the day-book, which contains an account against the Miami nation for the years 1833 and 1834 only, which amounts to $643 75. This account substantially agrees with the account certified to by Durett, and is for the same articles furnished up to October, 1834. At a time subsequent to the making up of this account, there were added three new charges, thus:

For two horses sold Dixon and Flower - - -	$120 00
Flour and bacon gave out by Marshall - - -	200 00
Flour and bacon bought by Marshall - - - -	185 00

For these three additional charges no dates or particulars are given whatever.

It . apparent that the difficulty in this case originates from the careless manner in which the claimant kept his books, and to the fact that the papers or accounts presented, which are each substantially for the same identical charges, have all been added together to make up the sum claimed, of $1,328 80.

In the claimant's books, also, the same charges are twice or thrice repeated; which is apparent from the fact of the date of delivery, and the articles referred to being in each case the same.

The claimant relies upon the four following papers:

1st. The account certified to by Durett, $718 25.

2d. For flour, bacon, entertaining Indians up to October, 1834, $105 25.

This bill is for the like charges, and is included within the same period of time as No. 1.

No. 3 is for provisions delivered in 1833, certified to by William Marshall, $200. A charge for two horses is subsequently added, in another handwriting, $120. This bill, except for the horses, is substantially included in No. 1.

No. 4 is for flour and bacon delivered in 1833, $185. This bill is evidently included in No. 1.

It is obvious the only course is to take the account No. 1, certified by Durett, as a basis upon which to predicate an allowance; for with the exception of the charges for two horses in No. 3, the charges on the leaf extracted from the day-book, "for flour and bacon gave out by Marshall," and "flour and bacon bought by Marshall," amounting to $385, are charges against him, and not against the Miamies.

No. 1 is for - - - - - - -	$718 25
Deduct charges in 1835 - - - - -	75 00
	643 25

The account now agrees, within fifty cents, with the account stated on the leaf taken from the day book, which was for 1833 and 1834 only. Included in it, however, are some very general charges as follows:

1833, 1834. To flour delivered at different times - -	$176 00
2,000 pounds bacon - - - -	240 00

Flour and bacon are, likewise, in several instances, particularly charged in the same bill. The number of barrels, the time when, the person to whom delivered, are all noted. But as to the general charges for 22 barrels flour and 2,000 pounds bacon, I cannot feel entirely satisfied that some of the preceding charges in same bill might possibly, to some extent, be merged in the same general charges.

Allowed for $500.

No. 50.

Job B. Eldredge.—$240 31.

The claimant, at the time the transactions took place for which he now asks for pay, was in the habit of supplying the Indians with clothing at Logansport. The book of original entries is offered in evidence, and I am satisfied with its correctness, and that the various articles of clothing were delivered. For the sum of $105, part of the amount claimed, notes were taken, and are now filed in the case.

There is a charge for a judgment against J. Richardville, amounting to $77 81. The certificate of the justice is not filed in the case, and it is acknowledged that payment has been demanded before the probate court. It is quite probable that the certificate is now filed in the probate court as evidence of a debt. Of course, I can have no cognizance of a claim pending a demand in another quarter.

No. 51.

James T. Liston.—$200.

The claimant is a physician, and his demand is for medical services and for medicine furnished pending the attempt to make a treaty in 1833.

General Grover, late Indian sub-agent, testifies that he has a distinct recollection of Dr. Liston being present all the time the treaty was pending, which was about thirty or thirty-five days, and of his practising as a physician during the time; that there were from thirty to forty sick with dysentery, and that he saw Dr. Liston attending them, and frequently furnished him with an interpreter to aid in his communications with the patient. It also appears that the claimant furnished his own medicine.

Doctor Liston being on the ground at the commencement of the negotiation for a treaty, places his claim in a different view from what it would have been had he been particularly sent for to perform the services for which he now claims $200. Of course, he could make no charge for travel.

Allowed for $150.

No. 52.

Comparet & Coquillard.—$4,589 52.

This claim is principally founded on book charges and for notes of hand against different Miamies.

The day-book and leger are produced, and I am satisfied with the manner in which they have been kept. The articles delivered for which notes have been given are sustained by entries in the books made at the same time. The notes are filed in the case; are generally witnessed, and are sustained by the witnesses, who testify to the delivery of the articles for which the notes were given, and that they always explained the amount to the Indian before his signing.

Beside the claim for book account, and for notes, there is a demand for $55 for goods delivered Madeline Duchene, a half-breed, to sell, which the claimant says were stolen from her cabin by some Miamies. Mrs. Duchene came in and testified in the case. Her story was apparently so correctly stated, in every particular, that I cannot doubt her testimony.

The chiefs were present during the investigation, and the name of each Indian against whom the claim was made was called off, and they acknowledged all but five to be Miamis. The five objected to they say are Pottawatamies.

David H. Colerick.—$160.

The claimant is a counsellor at law, and resides at Fort Wayne.

It appears, from the certificate of the clerk of Allen county court, that the claimant was the attorney for the Miamies in defending eight different cases. They were afterwards, by appeal, taken before the supreme court, at Indianapolis, one hundred and fifty miles from claimant's residence, where he attended in defence of the cases.

The charge is reasonable.

Allowed for $160.

No. 54.

Ewing, Walker, & Co., of Logansport.—$2,451 99.

This claim is principally for sixty-two notes of hand against different Miami Indians.

The books of original entry are produced; they have been kept in a correct and proper manner; the goods charged agree in amount, and as to the time of delivery, with the note of hand given for the same.

The notes are witnessed, and on the backs of most is a statement of articles delivered.

Frequently, after the note was given, new transactions took place between the parties; the Indian sometimes paying in a part with peltries or money, which has been endorsed to his credit, and has subsequently made at the store new purchases, which are also noted on the back.

The witnesses, five in number, testify to their signatures; to the delivery of the goods; and to the fact that the note was always read and explained to the Indian before his signing.

On the backs of several of the notes are transactions subsequent to the 23d of October, 1834. Charges subsequent to that date have been deducted, except in cases where money or peltries have also been subsequently paid, which would about balance the debit.

I have deducted, in these cases, the sum of $314 11, which comes after 23d October, 1834. No other objection exists to allowing this sum, than the mere fact of its being subsequent to the treaty; which I have thought it but proper to state here as a matter of record, because the claimants surrender the vouchers; and it might be, under such circumstances, difficult for them to prove the same before a new commissioner.

The chiefs acknowledge all the promisors to be Miamies.

William Deal.—$15 25.

Some articles of clothing were stolen by Miamies from claimant's house, in 1832, for which he now asks payment.

It is conceded by the chiefs that their people did take the articles from Deal's house; and the sum claimed is due.

Allowed for $15 25.

No. 56.

Anthony Keller.—$50.

Claimant asks pay for a horse stolen in 1830.

William Deal testifies as to Keller losing his horse, which he afterwards saw near the Mississiniway Indian village, with his mane and tail cut in the Indian fashion. On his attempting to catch the horse, he ran into the village, and he then desisted, as the Indians might have made a difficulty.

Two depositions confirm Deal's statement as to Keller's losing his horse, and his afterwards being in possession of the Mississiniway band.

The value of the horse is proved to be $50.

Keller presented his demand before the Indian agent at the treaty ground in 1834, who gives his reasons, on the back of the bill, why it was not then allowed: because three years had elapsed since the depredation.

The farmers who, in 1830, lived in the then quite thinly settled parts of Indiana, near the Indian villages, were much molested by depredation.

From their retired and almost secluded locations they were not aware of the acts of Congress, and their losses are, when proved, as much a claim in equity now against the Indian nation which did the injury as is a claim for goods sold at the same time, for which payment would now be claimed.

Allowed for $50.

No. 57.

Griffin & Lucky, assignees of William Longnecker.—$500.

This claim is for five horses sold to the Miamies by C. Longnecker, at the treaty of 1834.

A certificate, dated 1834, and signed by the Indian Agent, Wm. Marshall, shows that Longnecker sold the horses for five hundred dollars to the Miamies, for which payment was to be made on the ratification of the treaty, and if not ratified, then from the next annuities.

The value of the horses, and their delivery, is proved.

Allowed for $500.

Sketton & Carter.—$134 94.

This claim was reduced subsequent to filing the memorial, and may be stated thus:

Evidence is offered sufficient to justify an allowance of $41 12.

No. 59.

James H. Kintner.—$239.

This claim is for saddlery sold the Miamies at the treaty of 1834.

The evidence offered is a memorandum book in which the charges are made with a pencil, and which Kintner states he made whilst on the treaty ground in 1834. Upon this book and an account certified to by the Indian agent, the claimant relies.

An account made out some time since, but not dated, yet probably was made early in 1835, because certified by Wm. Marshall, who then signs as Indian agent, contains the charges for which payment is now asked, with others which Kintner says have been paid, or for which a note has been given, and are not included in his claim.

The certificate of the Indian agent purports that the account has been carefully examined; that it is correct; that he has examined the Indians, who have acknowledged their indebtedness.

Marshall now testifies that, to the best of his recollection, he did particularly investigate the account

Mr. Taber testifies that Kintner kept no regular Indian books; he relied altogether upon taking notes of hand at the time he made his sales.

The claimant urges that his memorandum book should reasonably be considered as evidence, because he made the entries at the time in the only way it could have been done on the treaty ground; and that, in consequence of the dispersing of the Indians, he had not an opportunity afterwards of obtaining notes of hand, as he did generally at his shop in Logansport, because the Indians to whom he made these, also, lived from sixty to eighty miles from his residence. He entered his charges on his general account, which at the time was all he could do, and considered it sufficient when certified to by the Indian agent.

The claimant has offered the best evidence in his power; he kept no regular books; his entries in his memorandum book are particular, and agree with the account certified to by the Indian agent.

The parties charged are all Miamies.

No. 60.

John E. Schwarz.—$2,484 02.

This claim is for the transactions of Schwarz or his agents at Fort Wayne, from 1821 to 1826; and he offers in evidence his books, lists of outstanding debts, &c.

The most important charge is one against the Chief Godfroy, for a balance of account due in July, 1823, amounting to $1,142 21.

The Chief Godfroy most positively denies owing Schwarz any thing. He also states that Schwarz has never made a demand on him for the amount now claimed; were he indebted to him he could have paid it. This is evident, for Godfroy has owned a store, with a valuable amount of goods, which were always liable to Schwarz for the demand now claimed for; and he would not quietly have waited from 1823 till this late period for upwards of $1,000, when he could have so easily secured payment.

Much reliance should be placed upon the statements of Godfroy; his reputation as an honorable man stands high.

That this claim is not due is clearly shown by the following facts:

The books of Schwarz were left for inspection, some weeks before his case came up for investigation. In one of the books was an account current with Francis Godfroy in 1823. In this account was an entry of Francis Godfroy's note for $1,435, which is no doubt the note paid Schwarz at the treaty of 1826. The books were withdrawn from my possession by claimant, as was stated, for the purpose of preparing the schedule of his claims; and when offered as evidence at the investigation of the claim, the words in the account current, "Francis Godfroy's note," were carefully erased, leaving, however, the figures $1,435 in the column; and a new entry made, "this amount of goods delivered by J. E. Schwarz himself," thus making Godfroy a debtor for good instead of his note; which, in all probability, had been paid at the treaty of 1826.

That Schwarz made the erasure, and the new entry also, there can be no doubt; the handwriting is his. The erasure, the substitute of goods for note, no demand being now made for the note, to say the least, destroy the validity of the books as vouchers.

Perhaps it might be well to stop at this point, and reject the whole claim, and without further remark; but it is a duty to give satisfactory reasons for allowing or rejecting each item of any moment.

A charge is made of $852 56 for goods sold Francis Godfroy in 1835. Godfroy positively denies his indebtedness for these goods.

Respecting the book charges, J. B. Bourie, formerly a clerk to Schwarz, testifies that he saw him on the Upper Wabash in 1833, on collecting business amongst the Miamies; and it is not improbable that most of the debts due him were then settled for.

This is substantially proved by the books, in which debits are made against citizens of Fort Wayne, and Miamies also.

Against all these debits, a mark is made in the margin; yet a demand is now made against the Miamies, in every case where a charge has once existed. Fortunately some gentlemen from Fort Wayne were present, who were charged on the same pages with the Miamies, and against whose names the same mark was made; they all state they paid Schwarz long since; it is evident that the Miamies have paid him also.

The next charge of any moment, is for $110, credits made by Bourie, on Flint creek. Bourie testifies that these credits were to the Pottawatamies.

Claim disallowed.

No. 61.

L. G. Thompson.—$1,582.

The claimant is a physician, and resides at Fort Wayne. His demand is for medicine, and medical services, to different Miamies, as charged in his day-book, amounting to $494; and for services and medicine at the treaty ground in different years, amounting to $1,020; also a charge against James Robedeaux for $68.

The claimant produces his day-book in support of the charge of $494; the entries were all evidently made at the time the services were rendered.

Many of the charges are, however, much above the general standard or rule by which physicians of high standing in Indiana are generally regulated. One bill against Lefontain will prove this; it is as follows:

1830, July 20.	Visit and operation for dropsy - -	$50 00
Nov. 30.	Visit and operation for dropsy - -	50 00
1831, April .	Visit, operation, and subsequent treatment -	60 00
		160 00

Upon this bill Lefontain has paid $55. The ruleable charge at Indianopolis for an operation of like description, would be but $10; if a like rule had governed at Fort Wayne, the Miami, when paying $55, would have more than paid his debt.

Other charges in the account are also exceptionable. This charge allowed for $350.

The next charges are for medicine and medical services at the treaty ground in 1832, 1833, and 1834, amounting to $1,020.

These charges are quite general; the claimant does not give the number of days he was employed, except in 1833.

Respecting the charge for services in 1832, the chief Richardville states that some of his people were sick, that he was sick himself, and he called on Dr. Thompson; but that during the time he was employed, Dr. Thompson went to Fort Wayne two or three rimes. The chief says the charge is too high, and that something should be thrown off.

General Grover, late Indian sub-agent, testifies that Dr. Thompson was on the ground at the commencement of the negotiation for the treaty in 1832, and was called upon by the Indians, and although Dr. Moffit was employed by the commissioners, yet the chief requested that Dr. Thompson should be employed, and particularly for himself, as he was his family physician.

Thinks Dr. Thompson was employed about thirty days. There was no particular disease or epidemic in that season.

As the particular physician of the chief it would be natural that a favorable disposition would be shown for a liberal allowance. No doubt the chief Richardville has the disposition, yet he says the charge is too high.

Considering, also, that Dr. Thompson was on the ground when called upon, and returned to his own residence two or three times during his service, he could not with propriety take into his estimate any charge for travel going or returning, or any great loss of practice at Fort Wayne, during the time.

This charge allowed for - - - - -	$150 00
From which is to be deducted cash paid him by the United States commissioners - - - - - -	50 00
Balance	100 00

The charge for 1833 is $420.

This year the dysentery prevailed, and Doctor Liston, as well as Doctor Thompson, was on the ground; and General Grover testifies that the services of both physicians were required.

Dr. Liston, in case No. 51, claimed for his services and medicine furnished $200, upon which claim was allowed $150; and the like sum is allowed Dr. Thompson, on this charge $150.

The charge for 1834, $210.

The chief Richardville states that this season some were sick, but not many; does not remember calling on Dr. Thompson but one season.

General Grover testifies that Dr. Thompson was on the ground in 1834, and attended to some Indians who were sick; that his duties were not arduous, and that he was absent one week during the negotiation.

This charge allowed for $100.

The last charge is against Robedeaux, who is not recognised as a Miami.

Total amount allowed $700.

No. 62.

T. J. Cummings.—$362 69.

Claimant asks allowance for sixteen notes of hand against different Miamies. No books are offered in evidence; but Colonel G. W. Ewing testifies that the claimant kept no regular books.

The notes are, however, all witnessed, and the witnesses testify to the delivery of the articles for which the notes were given.

The chiefs object to two of the promisors, as being Weas, Ke-ke-que and Wam-pa-pam-dam; they say these two men went west of the Mississippi with their band and returned, but are not allowed to draw their annuities. Objection is also made to the note of James Robedeaux; they do not recognise him as a Miami.

Vigus & Todd.—$46 95.

This claim is for an account against a Miami, for sundry articles delivered him from claimants' store.

They produced their day-book in evidence for the sale and delivery of the articles, and I am satisfied with its correctness.

Allowed for $46 95.

No. 64.

N. D. Grover.—$2,371 83.

The claimant, as one of the firm of N. D. Grover & Co., kept a store at Logansport, and was in the habit of dealing extensively with the Miamies.

The other party interested in the late firm of N. D. Grover & Co., has regularly, by assignment on file, conveyed his interest in the concern to N. D. Grover.

The claim is for goods delivered on various orders of the Indian agent, notes of hand, book charges, assignments, &c.

The books of original entry are produced; they have been kept with method, and I am satisfied with their correctness, and that the debits now claimed for were all made at the time they purport to have been.

The notes of hand and orders of the Indian agent, and also the delivery of the goods in the several cases, are proved by Mr. Dardenne, who is a witness to the notes and delivered the goods. He also testifies that the note was always explained to the Indian before his signing.

The claims under assignment, amounting to $305, are regularly transferred to Grover, and the delivery of the goods proven.

The chiefs acknowledge all the parties charged to be Miamies.

Allowed for $2,371 83.

No. 65.

D. R. Bears & Co.—$109 25.

This claim is for five notes of hand against different Miamies, amounting to $78 50, and a book account for $30 75.

The notes were witnessed, and on each is a bill of articles for which the note was given; and from the evidence offered I am satisfied the transactions are correct. The parties indebted are Miamies.

Allowed for $109 25.

No. 66.

John W. Miller.—$264.

This claim is for corn and bacon, clearing up land, fencing and ploughing land, and for a horse stolen.

The delivery of the corn and bacon to the Mississiniway band is proved.

The work charged for in clearing up, ploughing, and fencing land for Sally, a Miami woman, and clearing land for Bruett, also a Miami, is proved to have been at their request, and under a written order from the Indian agent.

There is an overcharge on clearing two acres of land $10.

No evidence is offered to sustain the charge of $50 for a horse stolen.

Allowed for $204.

No. 67.

W. G. & G. W. Ewing, of Fort Wayne.—$6,815 90.

This claim is for merchandise sold, notes of hand, assignments, judgments, &c., amounting to $2,543 71, and for amount to the late firm of Ewing, Aveline, & Co., amounting to $4,272 19, assigned to the claimants.

The books of the firm are produced; they have been kept with method and in a proper manner.

Respecting the first general item, amounting to $2,543 71, for merchandise sold, notes of hand, &c., the notes are ninety in number and amount to $1,457 99.

They are all witnessed, and on most is a specification of articles delivered, and, frequently, a continuation of an account; credits are given for cash in peltries, and debits are made for new purchases.

In addition, the books of the firm corroborate by entries of the like goods at the like time, the transactions on a note.

The witnesses to the notes verify to their signatures, and all state that the notes were explained to the Indians before signing.

The chiefs admitted all to be Miamies but three, who they say are Pottawatamies.

Nos. 92, 93, and 94 are for a judgment for two notes of hand against the Robedeaux family.

Respecting this family, the chief Richardville states that they are his relations, and never brought sticks to the public table as Miamies when the annuities were paid; if they received money it was done privately; the chiefs never recognised them as Miamies, and if they received money it was a gratuity.

The chief Magenica states that he never saw the Robedeaux come to the table and receive money like others; if they did have any it was given out of respect to the chief Richardville, whose relations they were, and not as a right.

It is evident that by no outward act have the Miamies led the traders into an error as to the Robedeaux.

By the treaty of St. Marys a gift was made to Josetta Beaubier of one section of land on the left bank of the St. Marys.

This separate provision for this family lessens or destroys any obligation of the Miamies now to pay these demands.

No. 95 is for an account stated to be necessary articles furnished the children of Charles H. Derome.

By the treaty of St. Marys a cession of land was made to the children of Maria Christine à Derome, the parties now referred to, of one section of land between the Maumee and St. Joseph. This separate provision leaves this claim like the preceding.

Respecting the claim of James Robedeaux for labor done by Joseph Richardville, assigned claimants, sufficient evidence offers to prove the work being done; that Robedeaux did work for Richardville between two and three years.

The chief Richardville, father of the late Joseph Richardville, says he does not know of payment having been made.

Allowed $113.

No. 96, the most important item in the claim, and amounts to $4,272 19, is for amount of notes and accounts created under the management of Samuel Aveline, late a partner of the Messrs. Ewing, at Fort Wayne. Mr. Aveline has, some time since, assigned to the claimants all his interest for amount now asked for.

It appears that the store of the late firm, whilst under charge of Aveline, was destroyed by fire with its contents, on the 4th of November, 1835; a remnant of the aboriginal books saved from the ruins is produced, but in the main is illegible.

This remnant, the claimants now swear, is all that remains of their original books.

A schedule, made out on the 3d September, 1835, of Miami debts, is offered as the next best evidence in possession of the claimants. The schedule was prepared, under these circumstances, by Mr. Hubbell, at present teller of the bank at Fort Wayne.

The firm of Ewings & Aveline was, in September, 1835, about dissolving, and Mr. Hubbell, at the request of the parties, made out from the books schedules, one for Pottawatamie debts, one for Miami, one for debts due from the whites, and one contained an account of stock on hand.

These papers, except the one against the Pottawatamies, (surrendered to a commissioner on those claims,) are now all produced, and are verified by the depositions of Mr. Hubbell and Francis Aveline, taken in 1836, and now by Samuel Aveline in person, as being true and correct.

The burning of the store, and total loss of contents, is proved.

Mr. Aveline testifies that he was always in the habit of keeping a list of Indian debts, and when any payment was made it was always credited.

He also says he sold whiskey to the Indians, and that it would be about right to deduct from the whole amount of sales made by him in the like proportion as was deducted from Messrs. Ewing's own account.

The claimants object to a pro rata allowance, and offer in support of the whole sum of $4,272 19 being now allowed, a calculation, the data for which are taken from their Logansport books, which, showing the amount of goods furnished the firm of Ewings, Aveline, & Co., at different times, together with the comparatively small stock of goods in store at the time of the fire in 1835, go, as the claimants contend, conclusively to show that the debts for which the present claim is made, were all contracted before the 23d October, 1834. But I must confess this reasoning, although it may be substantially correct, is not conclusive; all seems to be merged between the period of 1st of June, 1833, and 23d September, 1835; the first period being the commencement of the co-partnership, the second the date of the schedule—a period of about twenty-seven months. The schedule having but one general date, will render no assistance, and I must assume the pro rata principle, as in the case of Louis Drouilard, No. 47.

A fair proportion would be about - - - -	$2,600 00
Deduct for whiskey - - - - -	214 00

Interest deducted, and balance allowed for $47 47.

No. 69.

S. & H. Hanna & Co.—$407 50.

This claim is for five notes of hand against different Miamies, for goods delivered under the written orders of the Indian agent, for a quantity of tallow stolen, and for goods delivered under the orders of Messrs. Porter & Marshall.

The delivery of the goods for which the notes of hand were given, and also under the written orders of the Indian agent, is satisfactorily proven.

No evidence is offered to prove the loss of a quantity of tallow.

For proof of claim for goods delivered under the orders of Messrs. Porter & Marshall, is offered a certificate signed by G. B. Porter and William Marshall, which states that thirty pairs of blankets were delivered to the Miamies, October, 1833; that the charge was just, and would be paid out of next annuity money.

The clam is for - - - - - -	$407 50
Deduct for tallow - - - - - -	37 50
Allowed for - - - - - -	370 00

No. 70.

John B. Bourie—$1,728 74.

This claim is for goods sold the Miamies; and for proof, his books and twelve notes of hand, are offered in evidence.

The books evidently show that the charges were made at the time they purport to have been.

The notes of hand are proved by witnesses, who testify also to the delivery of the goods for which the notes were given.

The promisors are admitted to be, all but one or two, Miamies.

Amount of notes - - - - - -		$482 26

		381 26

To sustain the book charges, two different schedules are offered; No. 1 amounts to $393 40, after deducting amount of notes above referred to.

The evidence to sustain the book charges referred to in this schedule is satisfactory.

The claim is for - - - - - -		$393 40
Deduct a Pottawatamie - - -	$60 00

Withdrawn by claimant - - -	54 13
Subsequent to 23d October, 1834 - -	33 38
		158 51
		234 89

Schedule No. 2 is for $752 48. In support of this no books or original vouchers are offered, except a loose leaf taken from a day-book, on which is entered the amounts then due from different Miamies; but no date of specification of articles is given.

The entries are like as follows:

William Richardville, amount from blotter - - -	$8 50
Do. do. from this book - - -	6 00
Black Loon, from day book - - - - -	33 75
Mrs. Hunt, from back of book - - - - -	6 25

No "blotter," "day book," "this book," "leger," or, in fact, any book, is produced which contains a reference to these charges, although such books are specially referred to, nor is any satisfactory reason offered why, if they existed, they are not produced. These charges are apparently a concentration from other books; and all the items making up the sum in schedule No. 2 are generally entered in the same manner.

The evidence of the loose leaf alone is not satisfactory.

Total allowed, $616 15.

No. 71.

James Oldham.—$591.

This claim is for ploughing and cultivating fields for the Miamies in 1833 and 1834.

Mr. Dardenne testifies that General Marshall, late Indian agent, employed Oldham in 1833 to plough and cultivate land for the Miamies; but does not know the extent of work done.

General Grover, late sub-agent, testifies that he saw Oldham's original account for 1833, amounting to $279; that the chief Godfroy was, at the same time, present, and did not deny the fairness of the demand; does not know that Oldham ever received any payments for his demand for 1833.

Respecting the demand for 1834, Grover knows that Oldham did work for the Miamies in 1834; he employed him at chief Godfroy's request. Oldham asked for his pay in 1834, but received nothing.

Mr. Dardenne testifies that he made out Oldham's account for him in 1834; and that General Grover exhibited the same to chief Godfroy, and asked payment; that Grover's motive in asking payment was, because, having employed Oldham, he, no doubt, considered it a duty to obtain payment for him if possible.

The administrator is dead, and the note cannot be found. E. V. Cicott.—$300.

The claimant asks pay for acting as interpreter for the Miamies in the years 1831, 1832, 1833, and 1834.

The chief Richardville denies that his people employed Mr. Cicott.

General Grover, late sub-agent, testifies that he sometimes temporarily called upon Cicott to explain for him; and that the Miamies sometimes called upon him also.

Colonel Ewing states that Cicott was in his employment, and at that time the Flower party called upon him to explain for them; but has no remembrance of his having been considered a regular interpreter, for whose services they were to pay. The calls on Cicott were casual.

Disallowed.

No. 75.

John H. Griggs.—$175.

This claim is for the value of a mare and two colts, represented to have been stolen by No-a-lin-gua, a Miami.

The claimant introduced No-a-lin-gua, the reputed thief, himself, with the representation that he would acknowledge the theft. But No-a-lin-gua says that one day, when in the woods, he saw a mare, but without any colts with her; the forelegs were closely tied together, and the mare much reduced, and her legs much cut by the rope; that he took pity on her, he cut the rope, and let her go; this was all he did; he never put saddle on her or rode her. No-a-lin-gua told his story with much apparent sincerity, and placing one hand upon his breast, raised the other towards Heaven, and asked the Great Spirit to punish him if he lied.

Disallowed.

No. 76.

James Aveline.—$150.

This claim is for transporting the old chief Raccoon to the treaty ground in 1832; taking care of him whilst there, when very sick; and conveying him back to his village.

G. W. Ewing testifies that he carried a letter to Aveline from Commissioner Davis, requesting him to collect Raccoon's band and bring down the old chief, then very sick; that Aveline did so, and had much trouble with him.

The chief Richardville says his people owe Aveline for this service, and it was worth what is charged.

Allowed for $150.

No. 77.

James G. Godfroy.—$878 75.

This claim is for goods sold the Miamies; and in support of it the books of the claimant and seven notes of hand are offered in evidence. The books appear to have been regularly kept.

To sustain the principal charge in the books, a certificate from the largest debtor, witnessed, is offered, indebtedness is acknowledged, and sickness given as an excuse for not appearing in person.

The witness, Bondy, testifies that Ta-ka-mo is sick; that he acknowledged the debt and signed the paper in his presence.

The notes are all witnessed, and the delivery of the articles for which the notes were given is proved.

Mary A. Bonneau.—$800.

The claimant, as administratrix on the estate of Lambert Bonneau, asks pay for amount represented to be due her late husband for ferrying the Miamies across the Wabash river, at Logansport. No account in the memorial as to when the claim arose. The account is stated thus :

" Miamies debtor : For two years' ferryage over the Wabash river, at the rate of $400 per year—$800."

Here is no date given of the years in which the services were rendered, nor is there evidence offered to show the time.

General Grover, late Indian sub-agent, states, he sometimes gave a written order to the Indian, requesting the ferryman to pass him over; but none are now produced to sustain the demand.

Disallowed.

No. 81.

John Baccus.—$918 75.

This claim is for bread delivered at different times to the Miamies. Claimant is illiterate. He kept a bakery at Logansport, and was in the habit of delivering bread both to Miamies and Pottawatamies, on the written orders of the Indian agent. Claimant represents that a large proportion of the orders are lost. Those that are filed are various in their character. Some have no date, and do not designate the national character of the party in whose favor the order is given, whilst others are to Pottawatamies —many to Miamies.

The amount of orders filed in the case which are satisfactory, and for which an allowance can be made, is what is here allowed for, $93.

No. 82.

Comparet & Coquillard.—$280.

This claim is for notes of hand. Claimants withdraw the one against Pierre Guion for $100.

Two notes against Joseph Richardville are produced and proved for $62.

Claimants represent, under oath, that they once had in their possession two other notes of hand of Richardville, which amounted to $118; that these notes were assigned to them by Jacob Johnson, and they filed Johnson's affidavit confirming the same, and now state that these two notes are lost or mislaid. They also show that one of the notes was for $91, the other for $27.

No. 83.

George Hunt.—$8,893 22.

The claimant represents that he began business as an Indian trader, at Fort Wayne, in 1812, and continued doing business on his own account till 1815; and, during that time, gave extensive Indian credit. That in 1815 he took into partnership his brother, H. J. Hunt, and did business under the firm of George Hunt & Co. until 1818. In 1820 he met with a disaster, by fire, which involved him in ruin; his store-house was burnt down and his books destroyed. That they had a trading-house at the Mississiniway, and their agent was killed in 1817, and they lost all their goods and credit at that place, no records having been found. That in 1826 his brother and partner, H. J. Hunt, died, and previous to his death they had a settlement, and which shows an actual loss, by Indian trade, of $17,786.

At the treaty of 1826, with the Miamies, claimant was allowed $4,000; but that it was not in full satisfaction of the claim; but he is now willing to apply the $4,000 as a credit as far it will go.

In support of the foregoing statement claimant offers an outline or a skeleton of an account current, never signed, dated Detroit, May 1, 1825. It is as follows:

"DR. GEORGE HUNT & Co.

In account with Henry Hunt, Cr.

"May 1, 1825.	To amount of my book account - -	$28,331 67
	To do. of interest account, cash paid -	5,846 21
	To do. do. for goods - - -	3,451 34
		37,629 22

Contra Cr.

"May 1, 1825.	By amount of credits on my book - -	9,975 13
	By amount of interest on do. - -	4,246 96
	By balance of account from books of the company - - - - -	3,498 98
	By balance of interest thereon - -	2,121 71
	By George Hunt's bond of this date - -	8,893 21
	By this amount to new account, loss to H. Hunt	8,893 22
		37,629 22

"To this amount of old account of loss, $8,893 22.

"E. E. DETROIT, May 1, 1825."

This unexecuted account current is the only paper offered by claimant; it is by no means improbable that it was laid before the commissioners in 1826, and upon which an allowance was then made of $4,000.

There is merely an outline of an intended settlement, and the fact of the account, together with the large items of interest, prove it to involve transactions of several years standing. How the claimant can now undertake to show, by this unexecuted account current, that he has a just claim against the Miamies, it will be difficult to comprehend. The only item upon which he relies is these words: "This amount of loss, $8,893 22," being his half of the whole amount of loss during the whole time the firm did business. That they did not meet with the loss of $17,786 it will be necessary for the claimant to show; but that the firm lost that sum by Indian trade, and that exclusively with the Miamies, is the only question, and it is not in any way brought to a rest as a demand against the Miamies.

The firm did business with the Pottawatamies as well as the Miamies; and no doubt, also, with the other northwestern tribes. The term loss is used in the account in general sense, and may with as much or more propriety refer to the loss of store by fire, disasters on the lake, bad debts made by their agents in the east on sales of peltries, and, in fact, a loss in any other way, as well as to a demand against the Miamies exclusively. Indeed, had the Miamies owed the firm of George Hunt $17,786, it would have been, probably, particularly so stated in the account.

No other evidence offered than the paper above referred to.

Disallowed.

NATHANIEL WEST, Commissioner.

OF

A NUMBER OF CITIZENS OF PORTAGE COUNTY, OHIO,

PRAYING

The repeal or modification of the neutrality law, and that Congress demand redress for the destruction of the steamboat Caroline.

March 2, 1839.
Ordered to be printed.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled:

Your memorialists, citizens of the county of Portage, State of Ohio,

Respectfully represent:

That in the opinion of your memorialists, the neutrality law, passed at your last session, vests unusual and extraordinary powers in the executive officers of the Government of a purely judicial character, dangerous to the rights of citizens, as they are contrary to the express provisions of the constitution; that giving such judicial powers, unprecedented in character and unparalleled in extent, is an anomoly in our laws, and a dangerous approximation to arbitrary power, and liable to gross and constant abuses: that it is in direct violation of those articles in the constitution which provide that "the rights of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the persons or things to be seized," (4th article amendments,) and "that a citizen cannot be deprived of liberty or property without due process of law," (5th article amendments.) Your memorialists further represent, that in open violation of the spirit and letter of these provisions in the constitution, officers of the General Government have, under pretence of authority, given by the law passed last winter, (as we are credibly informed,) without process or oath, searched private dwellings, seized private property, arrested and kept in duress our fellow citizens, fired upon, and otherwise attempted the lives of our fellow citizens while in American and British waters, while exercising the unalienable rights of American freemen in peaceably leaving, or coming into, the United States, and, in some instances, confiscated private property to public use. And while every aid and assistance has been given to one belligerent party, our citizens have been prevented from hold ing commerce with the other, by the most oppressive abuse of po making the action of Government partial instead of neutral, and a riance with precedent, with constitutional rights guarantied to every zen, with national gratitude, national faith, the expectations of every fr of freedom and republican institutions, and the voice of humanity strict justice. Your memorialists, therefore, respectfully ask for the re or essential modification of that law.

They would further represent, that in their opinion the burnin the Caroline, and the butchery of our citizens, under the circumsta is an outrage upon the rights of the United States, a gross indigni our flag, which imperiously demand redress from the British Go ment, so far as they are able to make it; that the honor and dignity o United States Government require that the perpetrators of that h deed should be demanded of the British Government, and unless demand be complied with, and full remuneration made for the destruc of the Caroline, we have just cause for an appeal to arms.

REPORT

FROM

COMMUNICATING,

In compliance with a resolution of the Senate, the names of, and correspondence with, the banks which declined to receive the public deposites in the years 1833 and 1834, or surrendered the same after having received them.

March 2, 1839.

Read, and ordered to be printed.

Treasury Department, March 2, 1839.

Sir: In obedience to the resolution of the Senate of the 9th of February, 1838, requiring me to communicate "the names of the banks which declined to receive the public deposites in the years 1833 and 1834, or surrendered the said deposites after having received them, with all the correspondence in relation to such refusals and surrenders," I have the honor to state that an agent of this department was appointed, in 1833, to correspond with State banks, as to receiving the public deposites. All the correspondence of that agent with the banks has already been communicated to the Senate, and will be found in Senate document, No. 17, of the first session of the 23d Congress.

Annexed will be found a list of the banks which refused, or surrendered the deposites, subsequent to their removal from the Bank of the United States in 1833. The correspondence with them in relation to such refusals and surrenders during the period embraced in the resolution, is also annexed, so far as it can be obtained, and is believed to contain all, with the exception of one or two letters, probably not filed with accuracy.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

LEVI WOODBURY,
Secretary of the Treasury.

The Hon. Wm. R. King,
President of the Senate pro tem.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, October 9, 1833.

SIR: This department has selected your institution as one of the depositories of the public money of the United States, and I send you, enclosed, the draught of a contract, which you will please have executed in proper form, under the corporate seal of your institution, and forward it to the department immediately. After you have done this, you will please forward the enclosed communications to the public officers to whom they are directed, (they being instructions from the department to deposite all public money in their hands, or which they may hereafter receive, in your institution, to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States.) I also enclose to you circular instructions relative to deposites and accounts of public officers, to which I respectfully call your attention.

In selecting your institution as one of the fiscal agents of the Government, I not only rely on its solidity and established character, as affording a sufficient guaranty for the safety of the public money intrusted to its keeping, but I confide, also, in its disposition to adopt the most liberal course which circumstances will admit towards other moneyed institutions generally, and particularly those in your vicinity. The deposites of the public money will enable you to afford increased facilities to the commercial and other classes of the community. And the department anticipates from you the adoption of such a course respecting your accommodations as will prove acceptable to the people and safe to the Government.

I am, &c.,
R. B. TANEY,
Secretary of the Treasury.

PRESIDENT of the Bank of South Carolina, Charleston.

CHARLESTON, SOUTH CAROLINA,
October 17, 1833.

SIR: Your communication, dated 9th instant, informing the president and directors of the Bank of South Carolina of your having selected their institution as one of the depositories of the public money of the United States, enclosing draught of a contract intended to be executed by the bank, as also two printed documents for the government of the bank, were all duly submitted this morning to the board for their consideration; when, after a very faithful reading of the articles and accompanying documents, and giving to the subject mature deliberation, and with a perfect respect for the source whence the selection of this bank was made, they decided that it would not be expedient for them to accept the deposites of the Treasury of the United States, in conformity to the articles of agreement, or duties prescribed by the printed documents; nor would the same contribute to the interest of the institution over which they have the honor to preside.

In conformity to your directions, the letters intended to have been delivered to your collectors, together with the printed documents and articles of agreement, are herewith enclosed to your department.

With very great respect, I have the honor to remain, dear sir, your obedient servant,

JOHN S. COGDELL,
President of the Bank of South Carolina.

Hon. R. B. TANEY,
Secretary of the Treasury, Washington.

BANK OF LOUISVILLE, February 17, 1834.

SIR: At the time this bank consented to become one of the fiscal agents of the Treasury Department, it was in compliance with the wishes of some of its stockholders and friends, believing, as they did, that the additional resources afforded by the public deposites would enable it, in some degree, to alleviate the pecuniary disabilities under which the commerce of this place would labor in consequence of the removal of the public deposites from the Bank of the United States. An additional incentive was the rumor that, if no bank in this place would consent to receive them, they would be transferred to Cincinnati, thus depriving us of the advantages (if any) of the deposites heretofore made in the Branch Bank of the United States in this city.

Your letter of the 13th December, and before eight thousand dollars had been deposited to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States, apprised this bank that she must hold herself in readiness to meet the requisitions of the department upon it here, or to transfer the funds of the Government to such point as the Treasurer might designate. With these facts before us, and expecting every moment the presentation of a draft for the balance due the Government, the bank has been constrained to confine its accommodations within its own resources, thus disappointing the anticipations of its directory and of the Secretary of the Treasury, in the increased ability of the bank to afford relief to the commercial and other classes of the community. These remarks are not made in a spirit of complaint; far from it. We had no assurance of a permanent deposite, nor could we expect immunity from the demands of Government at a period when every farthing of her resources are required to meet her engagements. The limited experience of the directory have convinced them that no State institution, whatever may be its resources or credit, limited and local as its circulation must be, can, without jeopardizing its character and stability, extend its accommodations commensurate with the deposite of a public fund, liable to be withdrawn at a notice too short to be complied with, without oppressing its debtors, or to be transferred to a distant point at a sacrifice for which the public deposites would be no remuneration. When this bank was appointed one of the agents of the Treasury Department, human sagacity could not have foreseen the embarrassments in which the financial operations of the country have become involved. Arrangements that were entered into with foreign banks, for effecting discounts and exchanges, can no longer be relied upon; the more urgent and pressing claims of individual customers must have preference. The enhanced rate of exchanges and increased difficulty of effecting negotiations, and of transferring funds from one section of the Union to another, if the public interest should require it, would place this bank in an attitude and under a responsibility it is anxious to avoid.

The directory, at their last meeting, after having maturely weighed these considerations, instructed me to inform you that the retention of the public deposites no longer presents an inducement to this bank, and respectfully to request you, so soon as your convenience will permit you to make a satisfactory arrangement with some other institution, that you will order the amount now to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States to be transferred.

I have the honor to be, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. THRUSTON, Cashier.

Hon. R. B. TANEY,
Secretary of the Treasury.

GIRARD BANK, PHILADELPHIA,
April 21, 1834.

SIR: I have the honor to enclose you the official confirmation by this board of the arrangement entered into a few days since, when I had the pleasure of a personal interview with you, at Washington, in regard to annulling the contract now existing between the United States and the Girard Bank.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES SCHOTT, President.

Hon. R. B. TANEY,
Secretary of the Treasury.

GIRARD BANK, PHILADELPHIA,
April 21, 1834.

At a meeting of the board of directors, held this day, the president stated the result of his mission to Washington, viz:

That the proposition he had made, in consequence of the action of the stockholders in reference to our contracts with the United States for the transaction of the public business here, had been acceded to by the Secretary of the Treasury; which proposition was, that this bank should continue the said agency, under the contract, until the 1st day of July next, upon which day the contract was to cease and determine, and the balance then on hand to be at the immediate disposition of the department. Whereupon, it was, on motion,

Resolved, That this board do confirm the above arrangement.
A true copy from the minutes.

WM. D. LEWIS, Cashier.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, April 24, 1834.

SIR: I have to acknowledge receipt of your communication, dated the 21st instant, and of the copy of the resolution of the board of directors of the Girard Bank, which accompanied it.

I am, &c.,
R. B. TANEY,
Secretary of the Treasury.

WM. D. LEWIS, Esq.,
Cashier Girard Bank, Philadelphia.

GIRARD BANK, PHILADELPHIA,
June 2, 1834.

SIR: I enclose a statement of the condition of this bank at the close of the business on Saturday last, as also a duplicate of the Treasurer's account, and an abstract from the accounts of the public officers for the last month.

As the period is approaching when this bank is to cease to perform the functions of a fiscal agent of the Government, and as it is our wish that there should be no room for any possible misunderstanding upon the subject, may I take the liberty of requesting you to suggest to the Secretary of War the necessity of his making other arrangements here for the payment of pensions, under the act of June 7th, 1832, after the first of next month?

I have the honor to remain your most obedient servant,

WM. D. LEWIS, Cashier.

Hon. R. B. TANEY,
Secretary of the Treasury, Washington.

GIRARD BANK, PHILADELPHIA,
June 26, 1834.

SIR: As the contract entered into by this bank with the United States for the transaction of the fiscal concerns of the Government here, is to cease and determine on the first of July, by agreement, and as the terms of the bond given by the board of this bank to the United States have been fully complied with, will you do me the favor to return the said bond for the purpose of being cancelled, it being one of the stipulations in the bond that it shall be returned when its conditions shall have been complied with?

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES SCHOTT, President.

Hon. R. B. TANEY,
Secretary of the Treasury, Washington.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, July 2, 1834.

SIR: In compliance with the request in your letter of the 26th ultimo, I herewith transmit to you the bond given by the Girard Bank to the Government for the faithful keeping and disbursement of the public moneys.

I am, &c.,
LEVI WOODBURY,
Secretary of the Treasury.

JAMES SCHOTT, Esq.,
President Girard Bank.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, July 7, 1834.

SIR: So much time has elapsed since the Bank of Virginia declined retaining the public deposites on the terms formerly proposed and accepted, that it has become necessary for this department to make some other definite arrangements in relation to the deposites in the Bank of Virginia.

It would, therefore, be deemed a favor if you at an early day can ascertain and apprize this department of the terms on which the Bank of Virginia is willing to continue to receive and disburse the public deposites in your State, in order that it may be decided here whether those terms are so near what is deemed proper and safe in other cases, as to justify an acceptance of them by this department.

I am, &c.,
LEVI WOODBURY,
Secretary of the Treasury.

PRESIDENT of the Bank of Virginia, Richmond.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, July 7, 1834.

SIR: This department has selected your institution as one of the depositories of the public money of the United States, and I send you enclosed the draught of a contract, which you will please have executed in proper form, under the coporate seal of your institution, and forward it to the department immediately.

When the contract shall be received at the department, properly executed, instructions will be given to the several receivers making their deposites at Natchez, to divide them between your bank and the Planters' Bank of Mississippi; and as they have been instructed to take in payment for public lands such notes as will be received by the deposite banks and credited to the Treasurer of the United States as cash, you will be pleased to furnish them with a list of the notes which you are willing so to receive and credit.

I also enclose you circular instructions relative to deposites and accounts of public officers, to which I respectfully call your attention.

In selecting your institution as one of the fiscal agents of the Government, I not only rely on its solidity and established character, as affording a sufficient guaranty for the safety of the public money intrusted to its keeping, but I confide also in its disposition to adopt the most liberal course which circumstances will admit towards other moneyed institutions generally, and particularly those in your vicinity.

The deposites of the public money will enable you to afford increased facilities to the commercial and other classes of the community, and the department anticipates from you the adoption of such a course respecting your accommodations as will prove acceptable to the people and safe to the Government.

In addition to the statements required by the enclosed circulars, you will be pleased, when you return the contract to the department, to transmit at the same time a statement of the condition and business of your bank; setting forth the amount of capital paid in, and the debts due to the same; of the money deposited therein; of the notes in circulation, and of the specie on hand; a list of the stockholders, and of the number of shares held by each; the current price of its stock; and also a copy of its charter, and such other information as may be necessary to enable me to understand its condition.

I am, &c.,
LEVI WOODBURY,
Secretary of the Treasury.

A. P. MERRILL,
Cashier Agricultural Bank of Mississippi, Natchez.

[On the 1st of September, 1834, a letter was received from A. P. Merrill, cashier of the Agricultural Bank of Mississippi, dated 13th August, 1834, in reply to the above communication, declining to receive the deposites of the public money. This letter has been mislaid.]

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, July 21, 1834.

SIR: As it has been intimated to this department that the Cape Fear Bank is willing to become one of the depositories of the public money, I submit a few questions as to certain subjects required in the bill concerning the deposites, which lately passed the House of Representatives, and to which this department is anxious to conform, viz:

What is the amount of the capital of the bank paid in, and of the debts due the same; of the moneys deposited therein; of the notes in circulation, and of specie on hand? Who are the stockholders, and what number of shares are held by each? What the current price of its stock?

You will please also to transmit a copy of its charter, and such other information as may be necessary to enable me to judge of the safety of its condition.

I am, &c.,
LEVI WOODBURY,
Secretary of the Treasury.

The PRESIDENT of the Cape Fear Bank, North Carolina.

WILMINGTON, N. C.,
Bank of Cape Fear, August 5, 1834.

SIR: I have the honor herewith to reply to the inquiries submitted in your letter of the 23d ultimo. If I have not been sufficiently explicit, it will afford me great pleasure to communicate any further information that you may desire.

The present capital of this bank is - - - -		$533,700
The State owns 2,072 shares - - -	$207,200
Literary fund 50 shares - - - -	5,000
178 individual citizens of the State 3,215 shares -	321,500
		533,700
Of this amount there is paid in - - -	505,140
Instalments not yet due - - - -	28,560
	533,700

By the "act to recharter the Bank of Cape Fear," passed at the last session of the Legislature, the stockholders are authorized to extend its capital to $800,000, and they intend to re-open books for that purpose in the course of a month or two, in the confident belief that the whole amount of the capital authorized will be taken.

The stock is at par; but few sales occur, as holders are not desirous to sell; those who might wish to invest capital in the stock of this bank are awaiting the opportunity which will be afforded them when our books shall be opened for new subscriptions.

I herewith forward you a copy of our charter, and a "general statement of the bank" to the second of July, which exhibits the amount of specie, and of debts due the institution; amount of circulation, and other facts which it may be interesting for you to know.

The Bank of Cape Fear has been in operation thirty years, and our most judicious calculators are of opinion that at least $50,000 of its notes must have been lost in that time. If this supposition is correct, then the item, "notes of the bank in circulation," in the statement of the bank herewith sent you, will be reduced to $468,555.

During the late war with Great Britain, this bank lent to the General Government $100,000, which amount was sent to the Creek nation to be disbursed. The notes were rendered notorious by being made payable to Andrew Jackson, and although no particular memorandum was ever kept of the number of them which have been returned to the bank, yet they have all been particularly noticed as they were brought in, and the officers are of opinion that not more than two-thirds of them have ever returned; they presume, therefore, the balance have been entirely lost.

I have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant,

JAMES OWEN, President.

Hon. LEVI WOODBURY.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, August 12, 1834.

SIR: This department has selected your institution as one of the depositories of the public money of the United States, and I send you enclosed the draught of a contract which you will please have executed in proper form, from under the corporate seal of your institution, and forward it to the department immediately.

When the contract shall be received at the department, properly executed, instructions will be given to deposite in your bank the public money which may be collected in its vicinity.

I also enclose to you circular instructions relative to deposites and accounts of public officers, to which I respectfully call your attention.

In selecting your institution as one of the fiscal agents of the Government, I not only rely on its solidity and established character, as affording a sufficient guaranty for the safety of the public money intrusted to its keeping, but confide also in its disposition to adopt the most liberal course which circumstances will admit towards other moneyed institutions generally, and particularly those in your vicinity. The deposites of the public money will enable you to afford increased facilities to the commercial and other classes of the community, and the department anticipates from you the adoption of such a course, respecting your accommodations, as will prove acceptable to the people, and safe to the Government.

I am, &c.,

LEVI WOODBURY,
Secretary of the Treasury.

The CASHIER of the Cape Fear Bank, Wilmington, N. C.

BANK OF CAPE FEAR, August 14, 1834.

SIR: The last of the series of resolutions, which I have the honor to transmit to you, will explain why I address you at this time.

At this season of the year, when our citizens are dispersed at their summer residences, and absent on business, it is difficult to procure more than a quorum of our directors. Under these circumstances I replied to your inquiries of the 23d ult. Since that time there has been a fuller meeting of the board than usual, and the subject being again brought before them, the resolutions herewith were unanimously adopted.

The revenue collected at this place for the last twelve years has been deposited in this bank, and by it transmitted to the branch of the United States, at Fayetteville, and it is not contemplated by the board to decline any services of this kind which they might consistently render your department.

I have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant,

JAMES OWEN, President.

Hon. LEVI WOODBURY.

BANK OF CAPE FEAR, August 13, 1834.

Whereas, by a communication from the Treasury Department of the United States, it appears to have been intimated to the department that this bank is willing to become the depository of the public funds; and whereas, such intimation did not emanate from this board, nor does it meet their approbation: Therefore,

Resolved, That the receiving, on deposite, the public funds of the United States, on any other terms or conditions than those on which the deposites of private individuals are made, viz: the receiving and paying at our counter, would not comport with the interests of this institution, and would be productive of inconvenience.

And whereas, a reply, by the president of this board, (the board not being in session,) having been made to the Treasury Department, giving in part, the information asked, may be thought to countenance the intimation made to the department: Therefore,

Be it further resolved, That this board respectfully request that no such inference be drawn.

Resolved, That a copy of the above be forwarded to the department.

Copy from the minutes.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, August 20, 1834.

SIR: Your communication dated the 13th inst., and a copy of the resolution of the board of directors of the Cape Fear Bank, have been received, and I have to regret that the tenor of your former letter should have been so far misunderstood as to have induced the department to forward the agreement and papers contained in the letter of the 12th inst. As it will be more the business of a deposite bank in North Carolina to disburse moneys transferred to it from other places than to incur the trouble and inconvenience of making collections, or of making transfers of funds out of the State, it was presumed that there was no objection on the part of the bank to undertake that duty, or an intimation to that effect would have been given when the letter from the department of the 21st ultimo was received. The communication dated the 12th inst., and the enclosures, having been sent under a misapprehension, may, therefore, be returned, if it be agreeable to the bank.

I am, &c.,

LEVI WOODBURY,
Secretary of the Treasury.

JAMES OWEN, Esq.,
President Cape Fear Bank, Wilmington, North Carolina.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, July 7, 1834.

SIR: You will confer a favor on this department by making early inquiries of the safe banking institutions in your city, on what terms they are willing to disburse the public deposites. If they object to any of the stipulations which have been required in other cases, a blank form of which is enclosed, it is desirable to know whether they are willing to receive them on any modified stipulations, and, if any, on what terms.

It will become necessary to decide whether the terms proposed to us can, consistently, be accepted, or whether we must be under the disagreeable necessity of removing them to some other place.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

LEVI WOODBURY,
Secretary of the Treasury.

JAMES R. PRINGLE, Esq.,
Collector, &c., Charleston, South Carolina.

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 26, 1834.

SIR: I herewith transmit a copy of my letter to the banking institutions of this city, making the inquiries requested by your letter of the 7th instant, and their several answers thereto.

I am, sir, with great respect, your obedient servant,

J. R. PRINGLE.

To the Hon. LEVI WOODBURY.

CHARLESTON, July 16, 1834.

GENTLEMEN: I have been requested by the Treasury Department of the United States to inquire of the safe banking institutions in this city on what terms they would be willing to receive and disburse the public deposites.

Deeming the institution over which you preside of such a character as is designated by the department, permit me to ask of the board whether they would be willing to receive and disburse the public deposites on the stipulations which have been required in other cases, a blank form of which is enclosed; if you should object to any of the stipulations, whether you would be willing to receive them on any modified stipulations; and, if any, on what stipulations.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. R. PRINGLE.

To the PRESIDENT AND DIRECTORS of the Bank of———.

CHARLESTON, July 17, 1834.

DEAR SIR: Your communication of the 16th instant, on the part of the Treasury, inquiring on what terms the Bank of South Carolina would receive and disburse the public deposites, as also the stipulations proposed by the Treasury Department, were this morning submitted to the board, and I have it in charge from them to reply to your communication, respectfully declining to receive the deposites alluded to.

With great respect, your obedient servant,

JOHN S. COGDELL,
President Bank South Carolina.

To JAMES R. PRINGLE, Esq., Collector.

UNION BANK OF SOUTH CAROLINA,
Charleston, July 22, 1834.

SIR: In compliance with the directions of the board, I have the honor of transmitting to you an extract of the minutes of this day in reference to your communication of the 16th:

"The board having given to the foregoing communication the consideration which its importance deserves, Resolved unanimously, That is inexpedient for this institution to take charge of the public deposites on the conditions and terms required."

I am, respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. GODARD, President.

The Hon. J. R. PRINGLE.

PLANTERS AND MECHANICS' BANK,
Charleston, July 23, 1834.

DEAR SIR: We have received the communication with which you favored us under date of the 16th instant. We are sorry to inform you that under existing circumstances, we must decline submitting any proposals to the Treasury Department, respecting the public deposites in this city. We do so, not from any indisposition to serve the Government. This bank was its agent during the late war with Great Britain, and up to the time a branch of the United States Bank was organized in Charleston, a very trying and difficult period.

Some of the considerations which influenced our decision, I will briefly advert to. The banks here have always endeavored to cultivate a good understanding with each other. The Bank of the United States claims the deposites under its charter. Whether it is right in doing so, is not for us to say. We have reason to think we now possess the confidence and good will of the public to as great an extent as any of our institutions.

To the removal of the deposites, a great majority of our merchants are opposed, and they are our principal customers.

The pressure felt by mercantile men in other sections of the Union has not yet found its way to this place; but should we interfere with the deposites, and should difficulties in money matters subsequently arise, we would be regarded as instrumental in producing it. Our stockholders, too, entertain adverse opinions on the deposite question, so that we are admonished from various sources to keep aloof from a measure calculated to produce dissension among our friends. In case, however, the charter of the Bank of the United States should not be renewed, nor any other bank at the time selected, we will offer our services to the Treasurer, and will engage to do the business of the department, on as good terms as any other bank in this place.

Permit us, sir, to return you thanks for the very polite and friendly manner in which you conveyed to us the wishes of the Treasury Department.

I am, very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

T. MARKWOOD, President.

J. R. PRINGLE, Esq.

STATE BANK, July 24, 1834.

DEAR SIR: Your communication enclosing an offer of the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States to make the Government deposites in this bank on certain conditions therein specified, was duly considered by the board this day, and I am directed to say that they cannot consent to receive them on any other terms than that of paying them out on the drafts of the Government, as in cases of individual deposites.

I am, dear sir, yours, very respectfully,

OTHO LEE,
President State Bank.

BANK OF THE STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA,
Charleston, July 25, 1834.

SIR: The proposition in relation to the deposites was duly laid before the board, and at a meeting held this day it was unanimously decided that the offer be declined.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
C. J. CALCOCK, President.

To JAMES R. PRINGLE, Esq.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, July 31, 1834.

SIR: Your letter of the 25th instant is before me. I must express my regret that it was not deemed expedient by the Bank of South Carolina, to make any proposals to the collector for executing the fiscal agency of the Treasury Department in South Carolina.

In regard to the offer you submit for the sale to the United States of the bank buildings, I have the honor to observe that a previous specific appropriation by Congress would be necessary, before a purchase could be made; and that generally, the courts are accommodated in their sittings either in some court-house of the cities, counties, or States; or when that is not convenient, in buildings hired by the United States for that purpose.

I am, &c.,
LEVI WOODBURY,
Secretary of the Treasury.

JOHN S. COGDELL, Esq.,
President of Bank South Carolina, Charleston.

REPORT

THE SECRETARY OF WAR,

WITH

Statements showing the amount of revolutionary pensions paid annually from 4th March, 1789, to 31st December, 1838, in compliance with a resolution of the Senate of the 29th December, 1837.

March 2, 1839.
Ordered to be printed.

War Department, September 26, 1839.

Sir: In obedience to a resolution of the Senate of the 29th December, 1837, calling for a statement of the amounts annually paid for revolutionary pensions, in each State and Territory, and in the District of Columbia, from the year 1789, &c., I have the honor, herewith, to transmit a communication of the Register of the Treasury, accompanied by a tabular statement containing the information directed to be furnished by that resolution.

Very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

S. COOPER,
Acting Secretary of War.

Hon. William R. King,
President of the Senate, pro tem.

Treasury Department,
Register's Office, September 23, 1839.

Sir: In compliance with your request, and in obedience to a resolution of the Senate of the United States of the 29th of December, 1837, I herewith transmit a series of tables, compiled in answer to that resolution, showing the amount of revolutionary pensions, which have been paid annually, from the commencement of the present Government to the year ending 31st of December, 1838, inclusive.

The resolution of the Senate cannot be strictly complied with, as previous to the year 1818, revolutionary pensions were included with others, under the general head of military pensions, and consequently, no distinction can be made of the respective classes of payments.

Blair & Rives, printers.

I deem it proper to state the reasons why the reply to the resolution has been so long delayed. The subject matter to be acted upon, could be attended to but by one person, as the chain of connexion would not admit of separation; and the clerk, to whom the duty appropriately belonged, has been burthened so incessantly with an important branch of the current business of the office, and many pressing calls under resolutions of both Houses of Congress, that it was impracticable to have completed it earlier, unless by neglecting other duties that were urgent and important.

The detached and distant points which had to be embraced in the course of frequent references and explanations, increased, essentially, the delay.

With considerable labor and close investigation, the document is now completed, as fully and as accurately as the records of this office will permit.

Statement No. 1. Exhibits pensions and grants for revolutionary services from 1791 (which includes part of the year 1789 and 1790) to 1838, inclusive. It embraces payments made under the act of the 18th of March, 1818, and acts of preceding years, the act of the 15th of May, 1828, the act of the 20th of May, 1830, and that of the 7th of June, 1832.

Statement No. 2. Exhibits pensions, annuities and grants, for similar services for the same period. It shows the amount paid annually at the Treasury to individuals under special acts, without reference to State and to persons not of the United States.

Statement No. 3. Exhibits a recapitulation annually of the whole, agreeably to the resolution.

I have the honor to be, with great respect,
Sir, your obedient servant,
T. L. SMITH, Register.

Hon. JOEL R. POINSETT,
Secretary of War.
